TRUCE TALKS ARE AGAIN UNDERWAY

Flood Begins To Recede On 4th Day

Congress To Act On Kansas Emergency

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 15 (AP)—The costliest flood in the nation's history gushed for 400 miles along the Kansas and Missouri Rivers, strangling this great gateway city to the southwest for the fourth straight day.

To the west of this metropolitan area of 900,000 the Kansas River was receding slowly but the murky waters still ran through homes in scores of cities and towns, some with light and power and water plants paralyzed.

To the east for more than 200 miles, the Missouri River—known as the Big Muddy—was beginning to push its way into cities and towns between here and St. Louis.

The whole area was on an emergency basis. President Truman has designated the flood sections of both states as disaster areas. In Washington, Congress tomorrow will act on a request by the President for a $15,000,000 emergency appropriation.

Damage At $500,000,000.

Major Gen. Lewis A. Pick, chief of army engineers, here to direct the gigantic battle against the water, says damage will be around the $500,000,000 mark, more than any other flood has cost. Many others have had a higher death toll. Alertness and prompt evacuations have held the loss of lives to 17 in the present disaster.

Upwards of 75,000 persons have been moved from their homes and General Pick's office says more than 400,000 more have been affected—stranded by paralyzed transportation, unable to get to their places of business or employment, or otherwise carry out normal pursuits.

Here in these Twin Cities where the Kansas and Missouri Rivers meet, the great industrial areas are a sea of destruction by water and fire. From the bluffs of the Missouri side at the edge of the downtown section to the central business section of Kansas City, Kas., the water stretches over vast warehouses, stockyards, railroads and manufacturing plants.

Great billows of black smoke boil up from a fire that has raged for three days in the midst of flood waters. Eleven storage tanks containing 800,000 gallons of furnace oil exploded this afternoon.

In the path of the flames were three more tanks containing 820,000 gallons of similar fluid. Already the flames have destroyed an area two blocks wide and five blocks long. Firemen fought fire floating on the water, hopeful they could keep it from spreading.

Dikes Give Away

SLASHES WRISTS — Joyce Mathews, twice divorced from Comedian Milton Berle, attempted suicide yesterday in the plush Ziegfeld Theater apartment of Showman Billy Rose by slashing her wrists in the bathroom where police found her lying face down and unconscious. Sherman Leaves For Talks With Spain Officials

Admiral Will Confer On Defense Structure

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP) — Admiral Forrest Sherman, Joint Chiefs of Staff member, left today for a series of talks with American officials and those of Western European nations — including Spain.

It was the first time a member of the American military high command had headed for talks with officials of Spain, a nation outside the North Atlantic Treaty Organization but which holds a vitally strategic position in the Western European defense picture.

To See Eisenhower

A Navy announcement said Sherman was going to Europe to confer with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, supreme commander of Western European defense forces, U. S. Naval commanders in Europe and the Mediterranean areas.

Sherman, said the Navy, "also will visit a number of European countries, including England, Italy and Spain, in each of which he hopes to have an exchange of views with American representatives and with foreign officials on questions of mutual interest between the United States and the country concerned."

Spain, under the totalitarian government of Franco, had been left alone in European defense planning. But its geographical position, coupled with whatever potential military strength Spain might have, could not be completely ignored.

Spain Ready To Sign

In recent months there had been reports that the Spanish government was ready to sign a direct military alliance with the United States, patterned on the Atlantic Pact. On June 5, the Spanish ambassador to the United States, in a speech at Detroit, proposed the U. S. give economic and military aid to his country.

Some highly tentative studies made here indicate that at least $300,000,000 might be needed to modernize Spain's military forces should the U. S. decide to send arms to bulwark that nation's defenses.

The iron regime of Franco has worked against earlier acceptance of Spain into the family of Western World Free Nations.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., July 15 (AP) — A 75-year-old heat record was broken today when the mercury soared to 101, one degree over the record set in 1876.

10 Persons Are Killed In Iran Riot

Protest Harriman's Arrival In Tehran

TEHRAN, Iran, July 15 (AP)—Anti-Communists attacked Reds demonstrating in an anti-American rally tonight in front of the Iranian Parliament building. At least 10 persons were killed and more than 100 injured in the riot, which was finally broken up by army tanks and tear gas.

Ten thousand Communist "peace partisans" touched off the dusk riot with a demonstration against the arrival earlier today of U. S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, diplomatic trouble shooter for President Truman. Harriman, here as the result of an offer by Mr. Truman to premier Mohammed Mossadegh, is confident friendly talks can settle the oil dispute between Iran and Britain.

Five Reds Dead

Red sources said five of their number were killed. Others known dead were two policemen and three civilians.

As the Reds marched into Parliament Square, tight columns of anti-Communists—supporters of Mossadegh's National Front government—attacked from side streets. Stones flew, clubs whacked, and finally there were scattered pistol shots on both sides.

Police and troops stationed at strategic spots moved in with tear gas, firing shots into the air. More than half a dozen tanks were summoned from army headquarters, where they had been stationed in the event of trouble.

Tanks were stationed at a street corner near the American and British embassies, which are half a mile from Parliament Square. A small crowd of Red demonstrators gathered outside the iron fence of the U. S. Embassy shouting: "Down with Imperialism!" They were quickly dispersed.

The rest of the city remained quiet, although many truckloads of police and soldiers rumbled through the streets.

Feeling Runs High

Feeling had been running high between supporters of Mossadegh's National Front and the Reds, who parade openly here although the Communist Party, which calls itself Tudeh, has been declared illegal. The Reds have been denouncing Harriman's visit bitterly, calling it an act of American intervention. Mossadegh has welcomed Harriman's presence, although the Premier has given no signs of willingness to compromise on the nationalization of the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Co.

Before the clash the Communists paraded for a mile to Parliament Square.

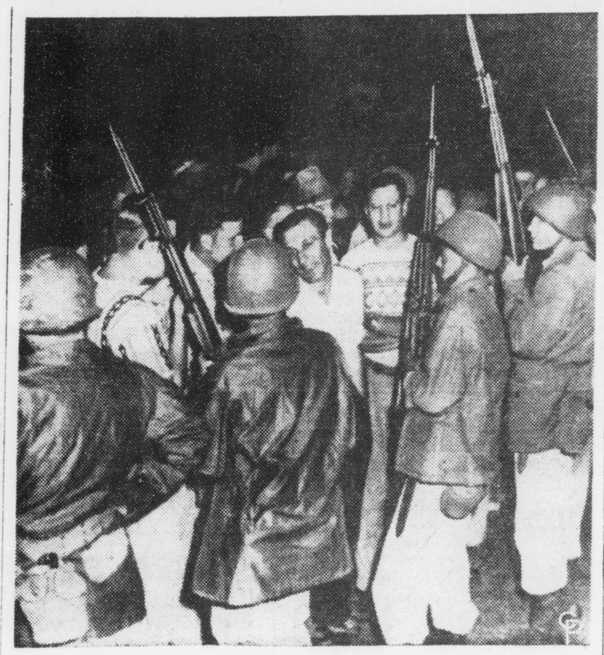
Harriman expects to meet Premier Mohammed Mossadegh Monday in an opening round of talks designed to start the oil flowing freely again from the nationalized Abadan refinery of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company. He also will give Mossadegh a personal message from the president.

36 Are Injured As Trains Collide

SWANTON, Vt., July 15 (AP) — A slowly moving Central Vermont Railway passenger train crashed into the rear of an idling freight train today injuring 36 persons — none critically.

The collision crushed the freight train's caboose and knocked three freight cars off the track, tying up traffic for several hours.

Thirty persons were treated at Kerbs Memorial Hospital, St. Albans, and six at St. Albans Hospital, St. Albans. Hospital attaches said most of them suffered cuts and bruises.



Troops Quell Rioters

A living barricade is formed by steel-helmeted Illinois National Guardsmen while blocking an estimated mob of 10,000 intent on destroying a Cicero apartment house into which a Negro family had attempted to move. Many persons were hurt including several of the guards and officers attempting to quell the riot when the mob surged into bayonets. Fires resulted from dynamite caps and magnesium flares thrown into the building. The Negro family's furniture also was thrown into the yard and burned. Guards finally had to place barbed wire barricades around the structure to avert further violence. (International)

German Typist To Marry Army Private By Telephone

TRAUNSTEIN, Germany, July 15 (AP) — A 24-year-old German typist said today she would marry an American soldier by transatlantic telephone at 6 a.m. (12 noon EST) tomorrow.

Hildegard Streitwieser, who lives with her parents in this small Bavarian town, said she had a telegram from her sweetheart, Pfc. Harry C. Kline, 20 of Reading, Penna., that all arrangements had been made.

Kline is now stationed at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, where the minister is to perform the rites.

"I'm all excited," she told reporters. "I must have an American witness, and I don't know whether he must be a lawyer or notary public. I must hurry and find out."

The girl said she met Kline in 1949 when he was stationed in Nuernberg, where she was employed. At that time they became engaged, but Kline was transferred back to America before he could get all necessary marriage documents processed.

FORT LEAVENWORTH, Kas., July 15 (AP) — Pvt. Harry C. Kline is getting up before the bugle call tomorrow morning.

It is his wedding day.

He will be married by transatlantic telephone to Hildegard Streitwieser, who lives in Traunstein, Germany.

When she steps up to the telephone to take her vows it will be noon. But Private Kline will have to get up before reveille at this Army post to get dressed and to the telephone by 6 a.m.

Kline completed all the arrangements last night. He talked to her by telephone Friday night. That cost him $22.50. Yesterday he received the health certificate of the bride-to-be. It cost 100 marks ($25).

But Kline was happy.

"By the time it's all over it'll be a hundred dollar wedding."

House To Speed Action On Bills

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP)—A speed-up of House action on the economic controls bill is in prospect this week. The reason given is that administration backers who have known for days they couldn't really win have decided the record is now clear for the voters to read in 1952.

That summation of the outlook was given to a reporter by a leading supporter of President Truman's much-mauled plans for tighter curbs to combat inflation and speed defense production. The lawmaker would not permit use of his name.

Up to this point the Truman forces have been fighting tooth and nail as first the Senate, then the House Banking Committee, and for the last week the House itself, chopped hunks out of the requested powers.

That process consumed time and broke up plans to get final action on the new defense production measure last week. It also put the members on record, and the Congressman said that is one reason his side kept it going.

Now the schedule calls for passage, perhaps by Thursday, of whatever the administration can get to replace the original law. That act, carrying powers for wage and price control, materials allocation and other such measures, was due to expire June 30 but is kept in force for this month, with some curbs on action under it, by a Congressional resolution.

Woman's Body Found In Bed

SEATTLE, July 15 (AP) — The body of a 35-year-old woman, clad in a disarranged nightgown, was found today on a bed in her apartment.

She was Kathryn Gonsoulin, listed on her voters' registration as a stenographer.

James Adams, deputy coroner, said the body bore numerous bruises, some of them on the neck.

"We are going on the assumption it was a murder, pending results of an autopsy," said Detective Sgt. I. A. O'Mera.

The body was found by Walt Gardner, who said he had been seeing Miss Gonsoulin every day, and Dengo Kusakabe, manager of the apartment house.

Actor, Oil Man Fight In Club

HOLLYWOOD, July 15 (AP) — Glenn McCarthy, Texas oil man, admitted today that he and another Texan, Actor Don (Red) Barry, staged a fistic argument at Ciro's last night in the traditional Hollywood nightlife manner.

A few blows were struck. Neither participant was injured. Both shook hands and parted friends. The only casualty was a broken mirror.

U. S. Doesn't Want Showdown In Korean War

Acheson Reveals Government Policy

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP) — Secretary Acheson said in a statement made public tonight by the State Department that the administration is urgently trying to keep the showdown with Communism from coming now in Korea.

He advised also that "if we allow ourselves to be lulled" by Korean truce developments "we will be hit within the next six months to a year with a much tougher blow somewhere else."

Off-Record Speech

His views were given in the transcript of an off-record speech which the Secretary made here on June 29 to a group of magazine and book publishers. The State Department said it was made public at the request of several who were present.

Referring to Korea in a discussion of the global East-West struggle, Acheson took issue with a description of the United Nations effort as the "reluctant crusade." He said this implied both sides were being led by events into a showdown.

"Now if anything is important, if anything is true about the situation in Korea, it is the overwhelming importance of not forcing a showdown on our side in Korea and not permitting our opponents to force a showdown," he said.

Heart Of Policy

"That has been the whole heart and essence of the policy which the administration has been following."

"If it is possible to bring about an end of the fighting in Korea, it will be because of the efforts which we have already made and the sacrifices of the men in Korea," he said further.

The American Goal, Acheson said, is a world situation where the normal course of settling disputes will be by negotiation. The experience of the Western Hemisphere shows this is not a hopeless ambition, he added.

King Leopold Abdicates Today

BRUSSELS, Belgium, July 15 (AP) — The unhappy 17-year reign of King Leopold III ends formally tomorrow at a private abdication ceremony in the Brussels Palace ballroom.

The next day the Belgians will get their fifth king, 20-year-old Baudouin 1, who will take the oath as his father's successor.

Leopold, on his own initiative, decided that July 16 should put a full stop to his reign. His son, Baudouin, became acting ruler 11 months ago when Leopold delegated his powers temporarily to avert a threatened revolutionary march on Brussels by the Socialists of Wallonia, in Southern Belgium.

Leopold, now 49, became king on Nov. 23, 1934 after his father King Albert was killed in a mountain climbing accident on Feb. 17, 1934. Only a year later the young king, on a holiday in Switzerland, crashed his car into a tree, killing his wife, Swedish-born Queen Astrid.

Five years later, he surrendered at the head of his army to the Germans. Eventually he was taken to Germany under Gestapo escort, and finally went into exile in Switzerland when one of the bitterest disputes Belgium ever has known revolved about his return to the country.

Blaze Damages Fruit Plant

COVINA, Calif., July 15 (AP) —Fire swept through a California fruit growers exchange citrus processing plant today and caused damage estimated at $250,000.

The plant, largest in Covina, was used to make fruit juices and concentrates.

Former Wife Of Comedian Milton Berle Tries Suicide

NEW YORK, July 15 (AP) —Joyce Mathews, former wife of Comedian Milton Berle, attempted suicide today in the plush Ziegfeld Theater apartment of Showman Billy Rose.

Police found her lying face down in a bathroom, unconscious and bleeding from slashed wrists.

Rose, who called police, said the blonde actress, 31, had barricaded herself in the bathroom and tried to kill herself

"Hurry," he pleaded. "See if you can save her. She tried to commit suicide."

In a hospital later, Miss Mathews parried a questioning policeman who wanted to know the motive for her act.

"'I just love razor blades,'" he said she replied.

It took police 15 minutes to open the bathroom door.

Made of metal, it did not yield to a fire axe.

The lock finally was forced with a small letter opened shaped like an oriental sword.

Tourniquets stopped the bleeding and Miss Mathews regained consciousness, pleading not to be taken to a hospital. She protested she did not want the publicity.

Later a hospital spokesman said Miss Mathews probably could be released within three days.

Rose, who once was married to the late Fannie Brice, now is married to Eleanor Holm, the former swimmer.

Mrs. Rose was not at the apartment when police arrived.

She came in some time later, accompanied by an unidentified man. She brushed past reporters.

Miss Mathews and Berle were married twice and twice divorced.

Their first marriage ended at Reno in 1947. They were remarried in June, 1949. She want to the Virgin Islands in 1950 for the second divorce.

U. S. Ousts Two Hungarians

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP)—Two Hungarian diplomats, including the acting chief of the Communist country's legation, were ordered out of the United States today. It was a tit-for-tat response to expulsion of two U. S. officials from Budapest.

The formal notification to Hungary said only that the two—Lajos Nagy, second secretary and charge d'affaires, and Peter Varkonyi, attache—were "no longer agreeable" to this government. There was no detail on what makes them disagreeable but a State Department spokesman suggested that a reporter wouldn't miss badly if he drew his own conclusions about retaliation.

Such a notification that a member of a government mission is "persona non grata" leaves his home country no option except to withdraw him. That was the device Hungary used to get rid of Albert W. Sherer, Jr., second secretary of the American legation in Budapest, and Miss Ruth Tryon, head of the U. S. information services there, a little over a week ago.

The United States had turned down a Hungarian request to bring Sherer and Miss Tryon home after prosecution witnesses had sought to implicate them in the trial of Catholic Archbishop Groesz, convicted of working against the Hungarian Red regime.

Beer Truckers Strike As Towns Swelter In Heat

HAMMOND, Ind., July 15 (AP) — Sizzling in 90 degree weather, beer drinkers in Lake County, Ind., today faced a shortage of the foamy brew.

Beer truck drivers for 11 of 16 beer distributors in Hammond, Gary, Whiting and other Lake County cities in the industrial area southeast of Chicago last night went on strike for more pay.

An AFL teamsters union leader said the drivers now get $80.70 a week but they want a basic wage of $40 plus salesman commissions of 12 cents a case on bottled beer and 8 cents of canned beer which they sell to retailers. The distributors offered a six per cent wage boost.

Lewis Critical Of Government Controls Policy

Praises MacArthur In TV Interview

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP) — John L. Lewis said tonight that if President Truman and Senator Taft (R-Ohio) are opposing candidates in the next election, it will be like choosing "between Scylla and Charybdis."

The reference was to the dilemma in Greek mythology where a choice had to be made between a monster and a deadly whirlpool.

Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers Union, refused to say whether he thought Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower would make a good candidate but praised Gen. Douglas MacArthur as "one of the greatest of our contemporary Americans."

Wait On Eisenhower

Lewis said he would have to wait and see if Eisenhower would be a presidential candidate, on what ticket he might run and what he stood for.

Interviewed on the television program "Meet The Press" — NBC, Lewis said the only thing holding back the formation of a united labor movement in the country is labor's leadership.

He said rank and file members of all unions were virtually unanimous for a single labor organization, working in unison.

Asked if he were "a dictator," Lewis replied that the question itself was "a soft impeachment." And it really mattered nothing to him if someone thought he was one. His union has democratic election processes, he said.

Lewis sharply criticized the administration's economic controls program, particularly the wage control system. But he said if controls are to continue, there ought to be curbs on profits and dividends, too.

Lewis was asked if he could explain how such former business leaders as Eric Johnston, now economic stabilization chief for the administration, and Charles E. Wilson, former president of General Electric Company, are "all out" for controls.

Asked About Miners

Without replying as to Wilson, Lewis said:

"I can't explain Eric Johnston. He works both sides of the economic street."

Lewis was asked if his mine workers union intended to make new wage demands soon on the coal industry and use the strike weapon in the process.

He replied that he couldn't say when new demands might be made but "I can't recall when the miners got anything by not striking."

Careless Smoker Burned To Death

LOS ANGELES, July 15 (AP) — William Johnson, 64, died of careless smoking in an auto, police reported today.

He was seated in a neighbor's car, smoking a cigarette. He fell asleep. The cigarette ignited the upholstery and Johnson and the car were burned.

Coffee Surplus Indicated By Agriculture Department

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP)—The Agriculture Department had good news for coffee drinkers today—coffee supplies may be 10 per cent larger in the 12 months ahead.

A survey of coffee-producing areas indicates production for export this year will total about 33,000,000 bags, or 3,000,000 more than during the past season.

Year before last, exportable supplies were down to 29,000,000 bags—a fact that contributed to sharply higher prices.

Harvesting of the 1951-52 crop began in May in Brazil, Colombia and few other countries. For the other countries, the harvest will not begin until about October.

Assuming favorable weather, Brazil's crop should provide about 17,000,000 bags for export. Colombia should provide about 5,500,000 bags. Other countries should provide a total of about 10,500,000 bags, the department said.

The department cautioned consumers against expecting a price-depressing surplus.

"While some improvement in coffee supply is in prospect, all indications point to a continued upward trend in world coffee imports, and there is no present indication of surplus of coffee in the immediate future," it said.

Production costs were said to be increasing, but present prices were described as sufficiently high to encourage greater production.

Allied Group Flies To 4th Peace Meeting

Reds Yield To UN Demand For Press

MUNSAN, Korea, Monday, July 16 (AP) — The Allied cease-fire team flew to Kaesong today by helicopter through overcast skies for the fourth session of talks seeking a basis for ending the Korean War.

The five-man delegation began departing in five helicopters at 9:33 a. m. (6:33 p. m. EST Sunday) for the 10 a. m. meeting with the Reds —hopeful that yesterday's harmonious tone would be maintained.

Rain let up just before the 'copter rotor blades began whirring.

The delegation was preceded to Kaesong by an Allied motor convoy which left Munsan at 7:30 a. m. and arrivd at 9:08. The convoy included the second contingent of 20 war correspondents to be admitted to Kaesong.

Reds Yield To U. N.

The first group of correspondents went Sunday after the Reds had yielded to Allied demands for their admission and for demilitarization of the Kaesong area.

In a two-hour meeting Sunday afternoon, negotiators patched up the most serious problem since the talks started on July 10. Communist representatives quickly yielded to U. N. demands for neutralizing Kaesong and providing free movement to that armistice site.

After Sunday's talks in a bullet-scarred, Pagoda roofed former restaurant on a Kaesong hillside an official Allied communique issued at this "peace" camp said:

"Significant of the desires of both delegations to get on with the main work of the conference was the complete absence of any controversy over the arrangement for neutrality of the site."

There was only one short hitch during the day. Over-zealous Red sentries delayed two leading jeeps, bearing Vice Adm. Charles Turner Joy, chief Allied negotiator, and Air Force Maj. Gen. L. C. Craigie, until 16 other vehicles in the allied convoy caught up with them.

Joy Is Late

It caused Joy to be nine minutes late to the meeting. He told the Red delegates that he expected "no repitition of such an event on the part of Communist forces," the communique said.

The Allied announcement said the proposals accepted Sunday by the Communists were:

"1. The road leading to the conference site shall be open to unrestricted use of vehicles of the United Nations command delegation. No notice will be required for such movement.

"2. The neutral area, five miles in radius, with a traffic circle in Kaesong as its center would contain no armed personnel except the minimum needed for military police purposes. Such personnel (MP's) could be armed with small arms.

"3. Any personnel required for security at the conference site would be unarmed. The conference site would be defined as an area having a radius of one-half mile, centered on the conference house."

Red Troops Near Kaesong Area

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Monday, July 16 (AP) — An Eighth Army staff officer said today that elements of a Red regiment were in the area between the cease-fire conference town of Kaesong and the Allied front line.

Kaesong, 35 miles northwest of Seoul, has been designated by mutual agreement as a neutral zone, devoid of armed troops, for a five mile radius from its center. The staff officer said the Red troops were outside the neutral zone.

(Whereabouts of the Allied front line in that area is a matter of military security but presumably it embraces Munsan, 12 miles southeast of Kaesong. An Allied "peace camp" is there, guarded by an American military outfit).

Allied patrols reported meeting light Red resistance Sunday in the Western front area.

On the opposite side of Korea but North of Parallel 38, Allied forces battled four hours before repulsing an attack by a Communist company southwest of Kansong early Sunday. Today's Eighth Army communique said the Reds withdrew after suffering heavy casualties.

Egyptian Officials To Stand Trial

CAIRO, Egypt, July 15 (AP) — Prince Abbas Halim and several former high defense officials were ordered held for trial today following a 13-month investigation of an alleged $5,000,000 arms buying scandal during the Palestine War.

The goverment prosecutor demanded trial for 13 persons he accused of black market dealings in faulty war materials during Egypt's 1948 war against the Jews in Palestine. Prince Abbas Halim is a second cousin of King Farouk.

Flood Begins To Recede On 4th Day

Congress To Act On Kansas Emergency

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 15 (AP)—The costliest flood in the nation's history gushed for 400 miles along the Kansas and Missouri Rivers, strangling this great gateway city to the southwest for the fourth straight day.

To the west of this metropolitan area of 900,000 the Kansas River was receding slowly but the murky waters still ran through homes in scores of cities and towns, some with light and power and water plants paralyzed.

Sherman Leaves For Talks With Spain Officials

Admiral Will Confer On Defense Structure

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP) — Admiral Forrest Sherman, Joint Chiefs of Staff member, left today for a series of talks with American officials and those of Western European nations — including Spain.

It was the first time a member of the American military high command had headed for talks with officials of Spain, a nation outside the North Atlantic Treaty Organization but which holds a vitally strategic position in the Western European defense picture.

A Navy announcement said Sherman was going to Europe to confer with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, supreme commander of Western European defense forces, U. S. Naval commanders in Europe and the Mediterranean areas.

Sherman, said the Navy, "also will visit a number of European countries, including England, Italy and Spain, in each of which he hopes to have an exchange of views with American representatives and with foreign officials on questions of mutual interest between the United States and the country concerned."

Spain Ready To Sign

In recent months there had been reports that the Spanish government was ready to sign a direct military alliance with the United States, patterned on the Atlantic Pact. On June 5, the Spanish ambassador to the United States, in a speech at Detroit, proposed the U. S. give economic and military aid to his country.

Some highly tentative studies made here indicate that at least $300,000,000 might be needed to modernize Spain's military forces should the U. S. decide to send arms to bulwark that nation's defenses.

The iron regime of Franco has worked against earlier acceptance of Spain into the family of Western World Free Nations.

10 Persons Are Killed In Iran Riot

Protest Harriman's Arrival In Tehran

TEHRAN, Iran, July 15 (AP)—Anti-Communists attacked Reds demonstrating in an anti-American rally tonight in front of the Iranian Parliament building. At least 10 persons were killed and more than 100 injured in the riot, which was finally broken up by army tanks and tear gas.

Ten thousand Communist "peace partisans" touched off the dusk riot with a demonstration against the arrival earlier today of U. S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, diplomatic trouble shooter for President Truman. Harriman, here as the result of an offer by Mr. Truman to premier Mohammed Mossadegh, is confident friendly talks can settle the oil dispute between Iran and Britain.

Five Reds Dead

Red sources said five of their number were killed. Others known dead were two policemen and three civilians.

As the Reds marched into Parliament Square, tight columns of anti-Communists—supporters of Mossadegh's National Front government—attacked from side streets. Stones flew, clubs whacked, and finally there were scattered pistol shots on both sides.

Police and troops stationed at strategic spots moved in with tear gas, firing shots into the air. More than half a dozen tanks were summoned from army headquarters, where they had been stationed in the event of trouble.

Tanks were stationed at a street corner near the American and British embassies, which are half a mile from Parliament Square. A small crowd of Red demonstrators gathered outside the iron fence of the U. S. Embassy shouting: "Down with Imperialism!" They were quickly dispersed.

The rest of the city remained quiet, although many truckloads of police and soldiers rumbled through the streets.

Feeling Runs High

Feeling had been running high between supporters of Mossadegh's National Front and the Reds, who parade openly here although the Communist Party, which calls itself Tudeh, has been declared illegal. The Reds have been denouncing Harriman's visit bitterly, calling it an act of American intervention. Mossadegh has welcomed Harriman's presence, although the Premier has given no signs of willingness to compromise on the nationalization of the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Co.

Before the clash the Communists paraded for a mile to Parliament Square.

Harriman expects to meet Premier Mohammed Mossadegh Monday in an opening round of talks designed to start the oil flowing freely again from the nationalized Abadan refinery of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company. He also will give Mossadegh a personal message from the president.

36 Are Injured As Trains Collide

SWANTON, Vt., July 15 (AP) — A slowly moving Central Vermont Railway passenger train crashed into the rear of an idling freight train today injuring 36 persons — none critically.

The collision crushed the freight train's caboose and knocked three freight cars off the track, tying up traffic for several hours.

Thirty persons were treated at Kerbs Memorial Hospital, St. Albans, and six at St. Albans Hospital, St. Albans. Hospital attaches said most of them suffered cuts and bruises.

Troops Quell Rioters

A living barricade is formed by steel-helmeted Illinois National Guardsmen while blocking an estimated mob of 10,000 intent on destroying a Cicero apartment house into which a Negro family had attempted to move. Many persons were hurt including several of the guards and officers attempting to quell the riot when the mob surged into bayonets. Fires resulted from dynamite caps and magnesium flares thrown into the building. The Negro family's furniture also was thrown into the yard and burned. Guards finally had to place barbed wire barricades around the structure to avert further violence. (International)

German Typist To Marry Army Private By Telephone

TRAUNSTEIN, Germany, July 15 (AP) — A 24-year-old German typist said today she would marry an American soldier by transatlantic telephone at 6 a.m. (12 noon EST) tomorrow.

Hildegard Streitwieser, who lives with her parents in this small Bavarian town, said she had a telegram from her sweetheart, Pfc. Harry C. Kline, 20 of Reading, Penna., that all arrangements had been made.

Kline is now stationed at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, where the minister is to perform the rites.

"I'm all excited," she told reporters. "I must have an American witness, and I don't know whether he must be a lawyer or notary public. I must hurry and find out."

The girl said she met Kline in 1949 when he was stationed in Nuernberg, where she was employed. At that time they became engaged, but Kline was transferred back to America before he could get all necessary marriage documents processed.

FORT LEAVENWORTH, Kas., July 15 (AP) — Pvt. Harry C. Kline is getting up before the bugle call tomorrow morning.

It is his wedding day.

He will be married by transatlantic telephone to Hildegard Streitwieser, who lives in Traunstein, Germany.

When she steps up to the telephone to take her vows it will be noon. But Private Kline will have to get up before reveille at this Army post to get dressed and to the telephone by 6 a.m.

Kline completed all the arrangements last night. He talked to her by telephone Friday night. That cost him $22.50. Yesterday he received the health certificate of the bride-to-be. It cost 100 marks ($25).

But Kline was happy.

"By the time it's all over it'll be a hundred dollar wedding."

House To Speed Action On Bills

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP)—A speed-up of House action on the economic controls bill is in prospect this week. The reason given is that administration backers who have known for days they couldn't really win have decided the record is now clear for the voters to read in 1952.

That summation of the outlook was given to a reporter by a leading supporter of President Truman's much-mauled plans for tighter curbs to combat inflation and speed defense production. The lawmaker would not permit use of his name.

Up to this point the Truman forces have been fighting tooth and nail as first the Senate, then the House Banking Committee, and for the last week the House itself, chopped hunks out of the requested powers.

That process consumed time and broke up plans to get final action on the new defense production measure last week. It also put the members on record, and the Congressman said that is one reason his side kept it going.

Now the schedule calls for passage, perhaps by Thursday, of whatever the administration can get to replace the original law. That act, carrying powers for wage and price control, materials allocation and other such measures, was due to expire June 30 but is kept in force for this month, with some curbs on action under it, by a Congressional resolution.

Woman's Body Found In Bed

SEATTLE, July 15 (AP) — The body of a 35-year-old woman, clad in a disarranged nightgown, was found today on a bed in her apartment.

She was Kathryn Gonsoulin, listed on her voters' registration as a stenographer.

James Adams, deputy coroner, said the body bore numerous bruises, some of them on the neck.

"We are going on the assumption it was a murder, pending results of an autopsy," said Detective Sgt. I. A. O'Mera.

The body was found by Walt Gardner, who said he had been seeing Miss Gonsoulin every day, and Dengo Kusakabe, manager of the apartment house.

Actor, Oil Man Fight In Club

HOLLYWOOD, July 15 (AP) — Glenn McCarthy, Texas oil man, admitted today that he and another Texan, Actor Don (Red) Barry, staged a fistic argument at Ciro's last night in the traditional Hollywood nightlife manner.

A few blows were struck. Neither participant was injured. Both shook hands and parted friends. The only casualty was a broken mirror.

U. S. Doesn't Want Showdown In Korean War

Acheson Reveals Government Policy

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP) — Secretary Acheson said in a statement made public tonight by the State Department that the administration is urgently trying to keep the showdown with Communism from coming now in Korea.

He advised also that "if we allow ourselves to be lulled" by Korean truce developments "we will be hit within the next six months to a year with a much tougher blow somewhere else."

Off-Record Speech

His views were given in the transcript of an off-record speech which the Secretary made here on June 29 to a group of magazine and book publishers. The State Department said it was made public at the request of several who were present.

Referring to Korea in a discussion of the global East-West struggle, Acheson took issue with a description of the United Nations effort as the "reluctant crusade." He said this implied both sides were being led by events into a showdown.

"Now if anything is important, if anything is true about the situation in Korea, it is the overwhelming importance of not forcing a showdown on our side in Korea and not permitting our opponents to force a showdown," he said.

Heart Of Policy

"That has been the whole heart and essence of the policy which the administration has been following."

"If it is possible to bring about an end of the fighting in Korea, it will be because of the efforts which we have already made and the sacrifices of the men in Korea," he said further.

The American Goal, Acheson said, is a world situation where the normal course of settling disputes will be by negotiation. The experience of the Western Hemisphere shows this is not a hopeless ambition, he added.

King Leopold Abdicates Today

BRUSSELS, Belgium, July 15 (AP) — The unhappy 17-year reign of King Leopold III ends formally tomorrow at a private abdication ceremony in the Brussels Palace ballroom.

The next day the Belgians will get their fifth king, 20-year-old Baudouin I, who will take the oath as his father's successor.

Leopold, on his own initiative, decided that July 16 should put a full stop to his reign. His son, Baudouin, became acting ruler 11 months ago when Leopold delegated his powers temporarily to avert a threatened revolutionary march on Brussels by the Socialists of Wallonia, in Southern Belgium.

Leopold, now 49, became king on Nov. 23, 1934 after his father King Albert was killed in a mountain climbing accident on Feb. 17, 1934. Only a year later the young king, on a holiday in Switzerland, crashed his car into a tree, killing his wife, Swedish-born Queen Astrid.

Five years later, he surrendered at the head of his army to the Germans. Eventually he was taken to Germany under Gestapo escort, and finally went into exile in Switzerland when one of the bitterest disputes Belgium ever has known revolved about his return to the country.

Blaze Damages Fruit Plant

COVINA, Calif., July 15 (AP) —Fire swept through a California fruit growers exchange citrus processing plant today and caused damage estimated at $250,000.

The plant, largest in Covina, was used to make fruit juices and concentrates.

Beer Truckers Strike As Towns Swelter In Heat

HAMMOND, Ind., July 15 (AP) — Sizzling in 90 degree weather, beer drinkers in Lake County, Ind., today faced a shortage of the foamy brew.

Beer truck drivers for 11 of 16 beer distributors in Hammond, Gary, Whiting and other Lake County cities in the industrial area southeast of Chicago last night went on strike for more pay.

An AFL teamsters union leader said the drivers now get $80.70 a week but they want a basic wage of $40 plus salesman commissions of 12 cents a case on bottled beer and 8 cents of canned beer which they sell to retailers. The distributors offered a six per cent wage boost.

Lewis Critical Of Government Controls Policy

Praises MacArthur In TV Interview

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP) — John L. Lewis said tonight that if President Truman and Senator Taft (R-Ohio) are opposing candidates in the next election, it will be like choosing "between Scylla and Charybdis."

The reference was to the dilemma in Greek mythology where a choice had to be made between a monster and a deadly whirlpool.

Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers Union, refused to say whether he thought Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower would make a good candidate but praised Gen. Douglas MacArthur as "one of the greatest of our contemporary Americans."

Wait On Eisenhower

Lewis said he would have to wait and see if Eisenhower would be a presidential candidate, on what ticket he might run and what he stood for.

Interviewed on the television program "Meet The Press" — NBC, Lewis said the only thing holding back the formation of a united labor movement in the country is labor's leadership.

He said rank and file members of all unions were virtually unanimous for a single labor organization, working in unison.

Asked if he were "a dictator," Lewis replied that the question itself was "a soft impeachment." And it really mattered nothing to him if someone thought he was one. His union has democratic election processes, he said.

Lewis sharply criticized the administration's economic controls program, particularly the wage control system. But he said if controls are to continue, there ought to be curbs on profits and dividends, too.

Lewis was asked if he could explain how such former business leaders as Eric Johnston, now economic stabilization chief for the administration, and Charles E. Wilson, former president of General Electric Company, are "all out" for controls.

Asked About Miners

Without replying as to Wilson, Lewis said:

"I can't explain Eric Johnston. He works both sides of the economic street."

Lewis was asked if his mine workers union intended to make new wage demands soon on the coal industry and use the strike weapon in the process.

He replied that he couldn't say when new demands might be made but "I can't recall when the miners got anything by not striking."

Careless Smoker Burned To Death

LOS ANGELES, July 15 (AP) — William Johnson, 64, died of careless smoking in an auto, police reported today.

He was seated in a neighbor's car, smoking a cigarette. He fell asleep. The cigarette ignited the upholstery and Johnson and the car were burned.

Allied Group Flies To 4th Peace Meeting

Reds Yield To UN Demand For Press

MUNSAN, Korea, Monday, July 16 (AP) — The Allied cease-fire team flew to Kaesong today by helicopter through overcast skies for the fourth session of talks seeking a basis for ending the Korean War.

The five-man delegation began departing in five helicopters at 9:33 a. m. (6:33 p. m. EST Sunday) for the 10 a. m. meeting with the Reds —hopeful that yesterday's harmonious tone would be maintained.

Rain let up just before the 'copter rotor blades began whirring.

The delegation was preceded to Kaesong by an Allied motor convoy which left Munsan at 7:30 a. m. and arrivd at 9:08. The convoy included the second contingent of 20 war correspondents to be admitted to Kaesong.

Reds Yield To U. N.

The first group of correspondents went Sunday after the Reds had yielded to Allied demands for their admission and for demilitarization of the Kaesong area.

In a two-hour meeting Sunday afternoon, negotiators patched up the most serious problem since the talks started on July 10. Communist representatives quickly yielded to U. N. demands for neutralizing Kaesong and providing free movement to that armistice site.

After Sunday's talks in a bullet-scarred, Pagoda roofed former restaurant on a Kaesong hillside an official Allied communique issued at this "peace" camp said:

"Significant of the desires of both delegations to get on with the main work of the conference was the complete absence of any controversy over the arrangement for neutrality of the site."

There was only one short hitch during the day. Over-zealous Red sentries delayed two leading jeeps, bearing Vice Adm. Charles Turner Joy, chief Allied negotiator, and Air Force Maj. Gen. L. C. Craigie, until 16 other vehicles in the allied convoy caught up with them.

Joy Is Late

It caused Joy to be nine minutes late to the meeting. He told the Red delegates that he expected "no repitition of such an event on the part of Communist forces," the communique said.

The Allied announcement said the proposals accepted Sunday by the Communists were:

"1. The road leading to the conference site shall be open to unrestricted use of vehicles of the United Nations command delegation. No notice will be required for such movement.

"2. The neutral area, five miles in radius, with a traffic circle in Kaesong as its center would contain no armed personnel except the minimum needed for military police purposes. Such personnel (MP's) could be armed with small arms.

"3. Any personnel required for security at the conference site would be unarmed. The conference site would be defined as an area having a radius of one-half mile, centered on the conference house."

Red Troops Near Kaesong Area

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Monday, July 16 (AP) — An Eighth Army staff officer said today that elements of a Red regiment were in the area between the cease-fire conference town of Kaesong and the Allied front line.

Kaesong, 35 miles northwest of Seoul, has been designated by mutual agreement as a neutral zone, devoid of armed troops, for a five mile radius from its center. The staff officer said the Red troops were outside the neutral zone.

(Whereabouts of the Allied front line in that area is a matter of military security but presumably it embraces Munsan, 12 miles southeast of Kaesong. An Allied "peace camp" is there, guarded by an American military outfit).

Allied patrols reported meeting light Red resistance Sunday in the Western front area.

On the opposite side of Korea but North of Parallel 38, Allied forces battled four hours before repulsing an attack by a Communist company southwest of Kansong early Sunday. Today's Eighth Army communique said the Reds withdrew after suffering heavy casualties.

Egyptian Officials To Stand Trial

CAIRO, Egypt, July 15 (AP) — Prince Abbas Halim and several former high defense officials were ordered held for trial today following a 13-month investigation of an alleged $5,000,000 arms buying scandal during the Palestine War.

The government prosecutor demanded trial for 13 persons he accused of black market dealings in faulty war materials during Egypt's 1948 war against the Jews in Palestine. Prince Abbas Halim is a second cousin of King Farouk.

Former Wife Of Comedian Milton Berle Tries Suicide

NEW YORK, July 15 (AP) —Joyce Mathews, former wife of Comedian Milton Berle, attempted suicide today in the plush Ziegfeld Theater apartment of Showman Billy Rose.

Police found her lying face down in a bathroom, unconscious and bleeding from slashed wrists.

Rose, who called police, said the blonde actress, 31, had barricaded herself in the bathroom and tried to kill herself.

"Hurry," he pleaded. "See if you can save her. She tried to commit suicide."

In a hospital later, Miss Mathews parried a questioning policeman who wanted to know the motive for her act.

"'I just love razor blades,'" he said she replied.

It took police 15 minutes to open the bathroom door.

Made of metal, it did not yield to a fire axe.

The lock finally was forced with a small letter opened shaped like an oriental sword.

Tourniquets stopped the bleeding and Miss Mathews regained consciousness, pleading not to be taken to a hospital. She protested she did not want the publicity.

Later a hospital spokesman said Miss Mathews probably could be released within three days.

Rose, who once was married to the late Fannie Brice, now is married to Eleanor Holm, the former swimmer.

Mrs. Rose was not at the apartment when police arrived.

She came in some time later, accompanied by an unidentified man. She brushed past reporters.

Miss Mathews and Berle were married twice and twice divorced. Their first marriage ended at Reno in 1947. They were remarried in June, 1949. She want to the Virgin Islands in 1950 for the second divorce.

U. S. Ousts Two Hungarians

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP)—Two Hungarian diplomats, including the acting chief of the Communist country's legation, were ordered out of the United States today. It was a tit-for-tat response to expulsion of two U. S. officials from Budapest.

The formal notification to Hungary said only that the two—Lajos Nagy, second secretary and charge d'affaires, and Peter Varkonyi, attache—were "no longer agreeable" to this government. There was no detail on what makes them disagreeable but a State Department spokesman suggested that a reporter wouldn't miss badly if he drew his own conclusions about retaliation.

Such a notification that a member of a government mission is "persona non grata" leaves his home country no option except to withdraw him. That was the device Hungary used to get rid of Albert W. Sherer, Jr., second secretary of the American legation in Budapest, and Miss Ruth Tryon, head of the U. S. information services there, a little over a week ago.

The United States had turned down a Hungarian request to bring Sherer and Miss Tryon home after prosecution witnesses had sought to implicate them in the trial of Catholic Archbishop Groesz, convicted of working against the Hungarian Red regime.

Coffee Surplus Indicated By Agriculture Department

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP)—The Agriculture Department had good news for coffee drinkers today—coffee supplies may be 10 per cent larger in the 12 months ahead.

A survey of coffee-producing areas indicates production for export this year will total about 33,000,000 bags, or 3,000,000 more than during the past season.

Year before last, exportable supplies were down to 29,000,000 bags—a fact that contributed to sharply higher prices.

Harvesting of the 1951-52 crop began in May in Brazil, Colombia and few other countries. For the other countries, the harvest will not begin until about October.

Assuming favorable weather, Brazil's crop should provide about 17,000,000 bags for export. Colombia should provide about 5,500,000 bags. Other countries should provide a total of about 10,500,000 bags, the department said.

The department cautioned consumers against expecting a price-depressing surplus.

"While some improvement in coffee supply is in prospect, all indications point to a continued upward trend in world coffee imports, and there is no present indication of surplus of coffee in the immediate future," it said.

Production costs were said to be increasing, but present prices were described as sufficiently high to encourage greater production.

Ohioans Plan Orchard Tour

A group of about 150 Ohio fruit growers will visit the Consolidated Orchard Company's orchard at Spring Gap next Wednesday.

Before coming to Spring Gap they are expected to inspect the Consolidated Orchard Company's packing house and cold storage plant at Paw Paw, W. Va.

They will inspect orchards, packing houses and cold storage plants in a tour sponsored by the Ohio State Horticultural Society.

In Washington County, they will visit the peach and apple orchard of R. S. Dillon and Stanley M. Fulton, near Hancock. Extension horticulturist A. F. Vierheller and Associate Horticulturist C. O. Dunbar, both of the University of Maryland, will accompany the group.

Other visits to orchards and installations in Pennsylvania, Virginia and West Virginia are planned.

a 10 per cent wage increase based on their current basic rate (rounded off to the nearest fifty cents) and all employes in the bargaining unit whose present rates are $65.00 or more would have received a 10 percent increase.

"The general increases would have become effective on Sunday July 8, 1951 had an agreement been reached on July 11 and ratified by the employes not later than July 25, 1951.

"Under the company's new proposal individual employes would receive general wage increases in amounts based on their present basic rates of pay in accordance with the following table:"

Present Weekly Wage Rate	Proposed Amount of Increase
Up to $36 Inclusive	$3.00 (except as noted below)
$37 to $42 "	$3.50
$43 to $45 "	4.00
$46 to $50 "	4.50
$51 to $54 "	5.00
$55 to $60 "	5.50
$61 to $64 "	6.00

$78 to $82 "	8.00
$83 to $87 "	8.50
$88 to $92 "	9.00
$93 to $97 "	9.50
$98 to $100 "	10.00

"An increase of $5 was provided at the starting rate instead of the amount indicated above, in the case of certain job classifications such as Plant Craft and clerical employes in the Maryland Suburban exchanges and Plant Craft and certain other Non-Craft employes such as Building Mechanics in the Baltimore Metropolitan Area.

Other Changes Offered

"The company also offered to make certain additional changes in the present contract including arbitration in the case of discharges of employes (except in the case of misconduct) with three or more years of net credited service and demotions of employes having two or more years of continuous service in the jobs from which they were demoted.

"The Union in rejecting the Company's proposal stated that the $5 increase in starting rates in the Maryland Suburban and Baltimore locations should be reduced to a straight 10 per cent on the current basic rates (rounded off to the nearest fifty cents) and that the additional money thus available under the 10 per cent Wage Stabilization formula should be redistributed to the extent possible to employes receiving less than $65.00 per week. The Company took the position that an increase of $5 in the starting rate for certain job classifications in these areas would tend to bring the Telephone Company's starting rates more in line with the community's wage levels and would thus enable the Company to attract and retain the required number of well qualified new employes.

The Company told the Union that it stands ready to resume negotiations whenever the Union desires."

Wednesday on his birthday when his mother took him swimming for the first time in Constitution Park pool. "He loves it," says Mrs. Naughton. She has been taking him to the pool every day since. Many of Bobby's friends from Boone Street go to the pool with him, and they have many enjoyable hours together.

One of Bobby's favorite pastimes is to sit on the front porch of his home and watch the children, all his friends, play baseball or football in the street. He is very interested in sports, and whenever the "kids" play at the end of the street, they take Bobby with them. Mr. Naughton says Bobby is a favorite with the other children, and he always waves when he sees them.

Bobby keeps up with baseball and has chosen the "Phillies" as his team. He saves all clippings and data connected with the game. He also likes comic books and television. His parents have promised to buy him a television set as soon as it is available in the city.

Always Happy

One of Bobby's greatest assets is his ability at always being happy. Although he has to wear braces and is handicapped, Mr. Naughton remembers only once that Bobby was unhappy for a moment. This was during a radio program about the life of Babe Ruth, shortly after his death, in which money was being solicited for use in helping crippled children play baseball. At the end of the program, Bobby glanced at his father, then at his legs and shook his head sadly.

Naughton says Bobby has the mental ability of any child his age. He knows every program on the radio during the day and can identify each sponsor with a gesture. The way in which Bobby examines the newspaper leads Mr. Naughton to believe that sometime his son can read it like an adult.

Bobby has a brother and sister who are very fond of him, Charles, 7, and Deborah, 4. His father is executive vice president of the Cumberland Savings Bank and also chairman of the clearing house for all Cumberland banks.

A group of about 150 Ohio fruit growers will visit the Consolidated Orchard Company's orchard at Spring Gap next Wednesday.

Before coming to Spring Gap they are expected to inspect the Consolidated Orchard Company's packing house and cold storage plant at Paw Paw, W. Va.

They will inspect orchards, packing houses and cold storage plants in a tour sponsored by the Ohio State Horticultural Society.

In Washington County, they will visit the peach and apple orchard of R. S. Dillon and Stanley M. Fulton, near Hancock. Extension horticulturist A. F. Vierheller and Associate Horticulturist C. O. Dunbar, both of the University of Maryland, will accompany the group.

Other visits to orchards and installations in Pennsylvania, Virginia and West Virginia are planned.

a 10 per cent wage increase based on their current basic rate (rounded off to the nearest fifty cents) and all employes in the bargaining unit whose present rates are $65.00 or more would have received a 10 percent increase.

"The general increases would have become effective on Sunday July 8, 1951 had an agreement been reached on July 11 and ratified by the employes not later than July 25, 1951.

"Under the company's new proposal individual employes would receive general wage increases in amounts based on their present basic rates of pay in accordance with the following table:"

Present Weekly Wage Rate	Proposed Amount of Increase
Up to $36 Inclusive	$3.00 (except as noted below)
$37 to $42 "	$3.50
$43 to $45 "	4.00
$46 to $50 "	4.50
$51 to $54 "	5.00
$55 to $60 "	5.50
$61 to $64 "	6.00
$65 to $67 "	6.50
$68 to $72 "	7.00
$73 to $77 "	7.50
$78 to $82 "	8.00
$83 to $87 "	8.50
$88 to $92 "	9.00
$93 to $97 "	9.50
$98 to $100 "	10.00

"An increase of $5 was provided at the starting rate instead of the amount indicated above, in the case of certain job classifications such as Plant Craft and clerical employes in the Maryland Suburban exchanges and Plant Craft and certain other Non-Craft employes such as Building Mechanics in the Baltimore Metropolitan Area.

Other Changes Offered

"The company also offered to make certain additional changes in the present contract including arbitration in the case of discharges of employes (except in the case of misconduct) with three or more years of net credited service and demotions of employes having two or more years of continuous service in the jobs from which they were demoted.

"The Union in rejecting the Company's proposal stated that the $5 increase in starting rates in the Maryland Suburban and Baltimore locations should be reduced to a straight 10 per cent on the current basic rates (rounded off to the nearest fifty cents) and that the additional money thus available under the 10 per cent Wage Stabilization formula should be redistributed to the extent possible to employes receiving less than $65.00 per week. The Company took the position that an increase of $5 in the starting rate for certain job classifications in these areas would tend to bring the Telephone Company's starting rates more in line with the community's wage levels and would thus enable the Company to attract and retain the required number of well qualified new employes.

The Company told the Union that it stands ready to resume negotiations whenever the Union desires."

Wednesday on his birthday when his mother took him swimming for the first time in Constitution Park pool. "He loves it," says Mrs. Naughton. She has been taking him to the pool every day since. Many of Bobby's friends from Boone Street go to the pool with him, and they have many enjoyable hours together.

One of Bobby's favorite pastimes is to sit on the front porch of his home and watch the children, all his friends, play baseball or football in the street. He is very interested in sports, and whenever the "kids" play at the end of the street, they take Bobby with them. Mr. Naughton says Bobby is a favorite with the other children, and he always waves when he sees them.

Bobby keeps up with baseball and has chosen the "Phillies" as his team. He saves all clippings and data connected with the game. He also likes comic books and television. His parents have promised to buy him a television set as soon as it is available in the city.

Always Happy

One of Bobby's greatest assets is his ability at always being happy. Although he has to wear braces and is handicapped, Mr. Naughton remembers only once that Bobby was unhappy for a moment. This was during a radio program about the life of Babe Ruth, shortly after his death, in which money was being solicited for use in helping crippled children play baseball. At the end of the program, Bobby glanced at his father, then at his legs and shook his head sadly.

Naughton says Bobby has the mental ability of any child his age. He knows every program on the radio during the day and can identify each sponsor with a gesture. The way in which Bobby examines the newspaper leads Mr. Naughton to believe that sometime his son can read it like an adult.

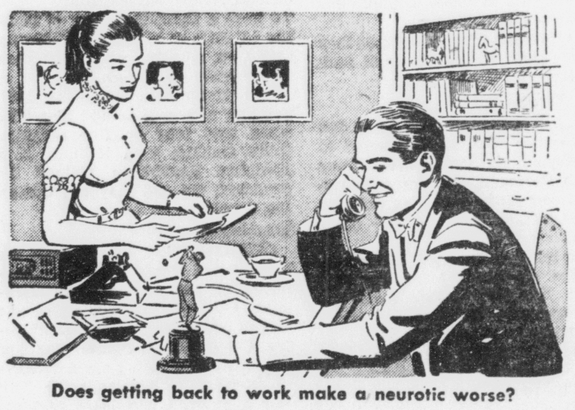
Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

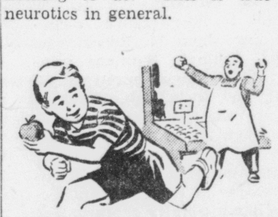


Does getting back to work make a neurotic worse?

Answer: Not often, say psychiatrists of the V. A. Mental Hygiene Clinic, Baltimore, Md. Study of the records of 100 psychoneurotic veterans who have been able to take jobs shows few cases in which their neuroses were made worse by employment conditions, and these usually could be straightened out with the help of the clinic if the management was sympathetic. While it is true that men who have had "nervous breakdowns" have more trouble than the average in getting on in jobs, they are usually better off when working than with nothing to do. This is true of neurotics in general.

Should you urge an alcoholic to seek treatment?

Answer: No, says James L. Free of the Santa Barbara (California) Mental Hygiene Clinic. "It is essential for the patient to come for treatment of his own accord . . . we can accomplish nothing with a man or woman who is dragged or pushed into the clinic by relatives or friends." Let the person know that he can get help when or if he wants it and leave it to him to seek it when he is ready. Urging him will only arouse the "stubbornness" which is characteristic of the alcoholic, and expresses the intensity of his resistance to facing the unpleasant facts he tries to escape by drinking.



Will a normal child steal?

Answer: Quite Possibly—at any rate, the fact that a child takes things which are not "his" is no sign that he is abnormal. No one is born with any realization of the fact that anything he wants "does not belong to him" and it takes both time and patience to bring the unpleasant truth home. With an older child who has accepted the idea of ownership, stealing generally represents a more or less unconscious feeling that he has been cheated out of something — most often his parents' love—and is getting even. But no child is "naturally" honest, or should be expected to be.

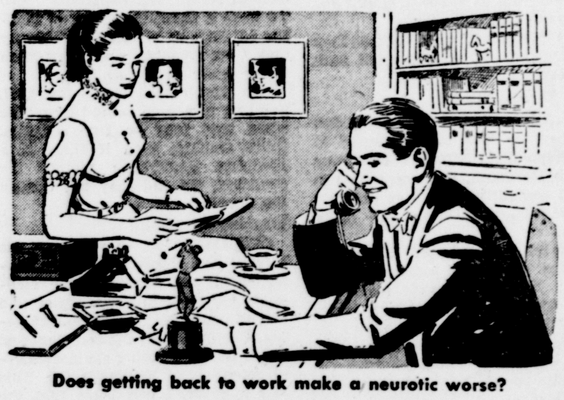
Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist



Does getting back to work make a neurotic worse?

Answer: Not often, say psychiatrists of the V. A. Mental Hygiene Clinic, Baltimore, Md. Study of the records of 100 psychoneurotic veterans who have been able to take jobs shows few cases in which their neuroses were made worse by employment conditions, and these usually could be straightened out with the help of the clinic if the management was sympathetic. While it is true that men who have had "nervous breakdowns" have more trouble than the average in getting on in jobs, they are usually better off when working than with nothing to do. This is true of neurotics in general.

Should you urge an alcoholic to seek treatment?

Answer: No, says James L. Free of the Santa Barbara (California) Mental Hygiene Clinic. "It is essential for the patient to come for treatment of his own accord . . . we can accomplish nothing with a man or woman who is dragged or pushed into the clinic by relatives or friends." Let the person know that he can get help when or if he wants it and leave it to him to seek it when he is ready. Urging him will only arouse the "stubbornness" which is characteristic of the alcoholic, and expresses the intensity of his resistance to facing the unpleasant facts he tries to escape by drinking.

Will a normal child steal?

Answer: Quite Possibly—at any rate, the fact that a child takes things which are not "his" is no sign that he is abnormal. No one is born with any realization of the fact that anything he wants "does not belong to him" and it takes both time and patience to bring the unpleasant truth home. With an older child who has accepted the idea of ownership, stealing generally represents a more or less unconscious feeling that he has been cheated out of something — most often his parents' love—and is getting even. But no child is "naturally" honest, or should be expected to be.

"Persecuted" U. S. Reds

The fact that four of the 11 American communist party leaders have jumped their bail leaves the government with a heavy financial loss on the transaction. The trial cost more than $1,000,000, and the forfeited bonds totaled only $80,000.

Meanwhile, the bail-jumping merely reemphasizes the feebleness of communist attacks on American justice in this trial.

The 11 defendants were free on bail before the trial as well as after it. They were not held incommunicado for 10 weeks before it started, as William Oatis was in Czechoslovakia, in a fiendish campaign to break their grip on themselves until they would "confess" to an assortment of imaginary crimes.

They were not "defended" in court by a stooge appointed by a judge who behaved like a biased prosecutor. Their attorneys were so able to abuse their privileges under American law that at times they almost caused orderly procedure to break down.

With a less patient and determined man than Judge Medina they would have succeeded, and then American justice would have granted them a mistrial.

After conviction they were not sent to prison but freed on bail while their case was appealed all the way to the United States Supreme Court. There a minority of two justices held that the Smith Act under which they were convicted violates the constitutional ban on interference with freedom of speech.

If three more justices had shared this attitude all 11 defendants would have been freed. Finally, four were able to jump bail and get away, at least temporarily.

The seven who are now locked up are entitled to the same privileges as other prisoners, with none of the refinements of torment to which Robert Vogeler was subjected in Hungary. They are not to be kept eternally in solitary, under glaring lights never turned off, watched 24 hours a day by hidden guards who yell at them for innocent acts not forbidden in American jails.

It would be poetic justice if these rats were given such treatment, but it wouldn't be American justice.

Air Sailing

Sailplane enthusiasts are a breed unto themselves. A landlubber, seeing a field of wheat glowing in the July sun, would likely say: "Stacks of bread there." The sailplaner would see a fine thermal, or updraft. To others a lake or woodland may mean peace and beauty, to a sailplaner they signal "downdraft!"

Sailplaners carry on by wits, experience and skill. They haven't a fan out front pulling them along. Grabbing onto a thermal here and there they soar to many thousands of feet and travel hundreds of miles. Sailplanes are to a conventional plane what a fine racing yawl is to a passenger liner. They are pure expressions of man against the elements.

There are more happy endings than not, as observers at the Dupont Airport in Wilmington, Del., discovered the other day. A graceful little ship swooped silently into the field after a flight of four hours from Elmira, N. Y. The flier, Stanley Smith—appropriately an aeronautical engineer—had done just what he had said he would. His landing represented a feat of navigation as well as soaring.

Sailplane pilots have discovered how to join nature, instead of trying to lick her. Much that has been learned over the years about air currents by these air sailors has been written into the texts placed before fledgling military fliers. And the average man is understandably a little envious of them, too.

Imagine having the chance to share with a hawk those breathless vistas of cumulus hills and valleys and all that quiet freedom!

Harnessing The Atom

Because of the international situation practically all discussion recently of atomic energy has been concerned with its use in war. It is gratifying to learn, therefore, that some persons in high places are taking a longer view of the situation.

Among the responsible officials who are looking ahead are the members of the Atomic Energy Commission. With the cooperation of an advisory committee composed of representatives of industry, and especially electric power producers, the AEC is making a continuing study of nuclear energy as a commercial asset.

In an interim report the committee asserts that enough evidence is at hand to "warrant a strong present and future interest in atomic energy on the part of the electric power industry."

That's the kind of talk that was heard immediately after Hiroshima when rosy prospects were painted of the benefits which would accrue to mankind from the peacetime application of the atomic energy principle. It is good to be reminded that scientists have not forgotten their earlier promises.

A Myth Exploded

The old myth that lightning never strikes twice in the same place has been exploded. Westinghouse Electric Corporation engineers say it always strikes twice in the same place and sometimes as many as 40 times. They have been studying the subject for more than 35 years.

They explain that a "lightning channel" is set up between cloud and earth by the first discharge. That is only a trail blazer, however. They contend any number of charge centers in the clouds may use it to send their bolts to earth. There are at least two discharges along the same channel, and more than 40 have been recorded, according to the engineers.

Modern lightning protection equipment, consisting of "lightning traps" maintained on top of tall structures, is virtually foolproof, the scientists say. They reveal also that lightning can be "cold" as well as hot. Hot lightning, which stretches out a low current over a longer period, causes most fires. The explosive kind is described as cold because it expends its high electric current in one burst.

Real Security

A real estate advertisement in a popular magazine is headed by the phrase, "Safely away from any bomb target area." This psychological approach to prospective buyers is an appeal to their desire for security. Fortunately such appeals have not moved any great number of people to seek safety by deserting the cities.

We can achieve real security by working vigorously for peace, by keeping our strength great enough to stop any enemy from damaging our homes, by our faith and by courage constant enough to know that we will rebuild if we must.

How To Keep Well

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

ACCIDENTS AMONG BABIES

We are likely to associate the crippled child with polio, arthritis, cerebral palsy, and rheumatic fever. Nevertheless these causes are not comparable with accidents which account for more deaths and permanent injuries than any of the diseases mentioned. In the first year of life the baby is at the mercy of his parents. In the words of Dr. H. F. Dietrich, they "cannot duck, dodge, or run." The hazards are burning, drowning, mangling, crushing, or poisoning. Suffocation by bedclothes and pillows is reported to be responsible for one-half of all infant fatalities. Physicians question this diagnosis, however, and have found that many of the tragedies ascribed to mechanical suffocation actually are the result of acute respiratory infections. This error has caused grief to hundreds of adults who blame themselves needlessly for the loss of an infant thru carelessness.

•—•—•

Other origins of suffocation are the inhalation of foreign bodies such as pacifiers, marbles, and buttons; and the aspiration of milk, liquid foods, and vomit. Occasionally the little tikes get their heads caught under the arms or trays of the highchair or between wall and crib or the guard rails of the crib. These mishaps may lead to strangling. Babies are burned when cooking utensils are upset. Vaporizers are becoming a more important risk; many are makeshift devices that either set the bedclothes on fire or scald the baby. Only a small percentage of babies meets accidental death thru falls. Drowning in the tub while the mother or nurse answers the phone still occurs despite repeated warnings against this practice.

In the second year the same dangers exist but the child plays a more active role. He wanders about the room almost faster than the eye can follow and has an unlimited reach. The tot cannot help himself; he is following a natural impulse to learn; he is curious and must find out what hurts or burns and what is edible and nonedible.

Mild and logical discipline is needed but in most instances the parents and child profit by eliminating potential trouble makers. Discipline enters the picture when they are not permitted near the stove or open flame. Precautionary measures involve the removal of matches, table lighters, caustic solutions, and vaporing paraphernalia from the youngster's reach. The same can be said of protecting them against electrical connections. Scalding is kept at a minimum if the handles of pans are turned or a percolator cord is disconnected when mother leaves the room. It is well to remember that parents need be careless only once.

Let us not forget that accidents take the lives of 12,000 children annually and permanently disable 30,000 to 50,000. This problem should be fought, not feared. The ostrich stunt of hiding the head in the sand will get us no place. There always are some unavoidable mishaps but the accident rate could be reduced tremendously if we just concentrated on those that are preventable.

HEART MURMUR

Mrs. D. writes: Can a heart murmur come and go?

REPLY

Organic murmurs seldom disappear but the functional variety may be heard only during expiration. It vanishes during inspiration. Because such sounds are influenced by breathing, physicians refer to them as "respiratory murmurs." Those due to anemia or thyroid disturbance disappear when the causative condition is eliminated.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

F. L. writes: Are there any wonder drugs for hypertension?

REPLY

There are many wonder drugs but they do not work wonders in high blood pressure. In the usual forms of this condition, medications are not as important as the manner of living. I doubt if a barrel of drugs would overcome the stimulating effect on the blood pressure of an exciting job that requires a fast pace.

THIRSTY ON RETIRING

R. L. writes: As soon as I fall asleep I am awakened by a terrific thirst. After I get up for a drink I'm wide awake and cannot get back to sleep. Is there any way to correct this condition?

REPLY

This is not a symptom of any disease with which I am familiar. It may represent a habit pattern or conditioned reflex. If so, you may be able to break it by trying to get back to sleep without quenching your thirst.

ELECTROCARDIOGRAM

H. V. writes: Is the electrocardiogram useful in diagnosing angina pectoris?

REPLY

Individuals with angina pectoris often have a normal electrocardiogram. The exceptions are those who have had previous attacks of coronary thrombosis or who have suffered from angina over a period of years.

PERITONITIS

N. J. writes: Is peritonitis curable?

REPLY

Yes, with the sulfonamides and antibiotics. In many instances, surgery also is required.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Chiang Brother-In-Law Tries To Corner Soybean Market; From "Ham And Eggs" To "Oil And Gold"; GOP Outlines Campaign Targets For '52

WASHINGTON—American truce negotiators in Korea have noted with interest that the Chinese Communists are using American Jeeps. The American public has also wondered not only how the Communists were able to obtain American equipment, but why the Nationalist government was driven out of China.

The sub-rosa operations of the Chiang Kai-Shek family may be one of the answers. Another of their operations has just come to light—a move by a Chiang brother-in-law, with other wealthy Chinese to corner the soybean market at the expense of the American public.

Theb rother-in-law is T. L. Soong, brother of Foreign Minister T. V. Soong, who formerly handled much of the three and a half billion dollars worth of supplies which the United States sent to China during the war. The soybean pool netted a profit of $30,000,000 and shot up the cost to the American consumer $1 a bushel.

One of the strange things about the soybean manipulation was that its operators knew exactly the right time to buy up the world's soybean supply — a few weeks before the Communists invaded Korea.

Recently this column told how Eugene Soong, son of T. L. Soong, together with L. K. Kung, son of Dr. H. H. Kung, another brother-in-law, sold a huge quantity of precious tin to the Chinese communists. As a result Secretary of Commerce Sawyer has now barred this group, together with three law partners of ex-Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson, from getting export licenses to trade with any country for three years.

It was the father of Eugene Soong, T. L. Soong, who bought up half a million bushels of soybeans before the Korean war in May, 1950.

Soybeans are used for cattle and human food, in manufacturing plastics and paints, and are essential for war production. And 56 Chinese bought up the huge quantity of 6,986,000 bushels on the Chicago Board of Trade at $2.34 a bushel.

Shortly, threafter the price began to climb. It soared and soared. Finally, five days after the Communists invaded Korea, the price hit $3.45-½ a bushel, and the group sold out.

T. L. Soong is the same man in charge of supplies sent over the Burma road at a time when a series of warehouse fires and "sabotage" caused the disappearance of large quantities of war material.

Shortly thereafter, Soong left for the United States on a diplomatic passport, and was moved into an even more important spot in Washington—chief procurement officer of Chinese war supplies.

Soong is still here. But, instead of handling war supplies, he is now speculating in soybeans at the expense of the American public.

Operations like this may be one reason why the disillusioned Chinese people threw out the Soong-Kung dynasty and accepted communism as a lesser evil.

Oil And Gold

Ex.-Sen. Shediran Downey of California recently met radio correspondent Rudy Block in a Capitol corridor. Downey, who rose to political fame on an old-age pension scheme known as "ham and eggs," is now lobbying at $3,000 a month for Tidelands Oil.

"Well, Senator," said Block, as they shook hands. "I see it's from ham and eggs to oil and gold."

GOP Targets For '52

A frank outline of GOP campaign strategy for 1952 was presented to key Republican Senators' assistants by Ab Hermann, the energetic national committee executive director, in a private meeting the other night.

The tall, banjo-eyed Hermann, onetime big-league ballplayer, confided: "We won Senate seats last year wherever we took our gloves off. There were only two states we should have taken and didn't, and that was because our nominees refused to punch hard—Missouri and Connecticut.

"Why," complained Hermann, "we had to bootleg speakers like McCarthy into Connecticut."

The "prime targets" in 1950, he said were Scott Lucas in Illinois; Francis Myers in Pennsylvania; Elbert Thomas of Utah, and Millard Tydings of Maryland.

Turning to Frank Smith, assistant to Sen. John M. Butler, who defeated Tydings, Hermann continued: "We did a beautiful job in Maryland and Utah, Frank. I don't see why the Democrats yelled so much about the composite picture in your campaign, when, by comparison with the anti-Thomas newspaper in Utah, your publicity was like a country gentleman's."

He referred to the fact that in Utah, a supposed "congressional record" with statements attacking Thomas as a pro-Communist was circulated to all mailboxes in the last hours of the campaign—so late that Thomas had no opportunity to reply.

"We all know Senator Thomas was not a Communist," Hermann explained, "But these tactics were necessary to balance the pseudo-liberal newspapers which were for him.

Pointing to Dick Cardall, administrative aide to Sen. Arthur Watkins of Utah, Hermann continued: "There's the fellow who gets a lot of credit for that victory. Senator Bennett (the Republican who beat Thomas) is very much indebted to him."

The 1952 target areas, Hermann indicated, were to retain all Republican seats in the New England and Atlantic States, and pick up new senators in Arizona, New Mexico and Wyoming.

"We have Republican governors and some patronage strength to put on real scraps," he explained. "Also we have a fighting chance of picking up seats in Maryland, Kentucky and West Virginia and strengthen our position in the south.

"On the other hand," he said, pointing to a map behind him, "We could lose four or five senators. Quite frankly, even if there is a sweeping Republican victory for president, we still may not control the Senate."

CORRECTION: In reporting the vote of the House Judiciary Committee for and against giving Tidelands Oil back to three states and the oil companies, I erroneously listed Congressman Claude Bakewell of St. Louis as voting against federal retention of Tidelands Oil. This was in error. I now learn that the congressman voted for federal retention....I was also in error in reporting the vote of Congressman Hamilton Jones of North Carolina. It was Congressman Woodrow Jones also of North Carolina who voted against federal retention of Tidelands Oil ... sincere apologies ....Hamilton Jones, incidentally, has been a strong supporter of education...Democratic Chairman Bill Boyle was warned by White House advisers not to send telegrams to Democratic National Committeemen urging them to pressure congress on price controls. "We've got 30 to 40 Republicans votes lined up," Boyle was warned, "and we may lose them if this looks like a Democratic issue."....Erudite Sen. Joe O'Mahoney of Wyoming is so overworked that his secretaries and executive assistants have to come to the radio recording room of the senate in order to squeeze in a word with him .... Nervous Senator Cain of Washington got in wrong with other GOP-eers for jumping the gun on part of the MacArthur committee report on the eve of cease-fire talks in Korea. Senator Brewster of Maine begged him to wait, but Cain wouldn't .... The globetrotting Senate Foreign Relations Committee gave out quite an imposing list of people it would interview abroad. But it omitted one name—Franco. Apparently the solons weren't enthusiastic about publicizing their visit with the dictator.

These Days

Bipartisanism

The administration has either wilfully or by necessity, in the Korean episode, chosen to by-pass the clear provisions of the constitution which give to Congress the responsibility for making war. The device was to call that war a "police action" by the United Nations, the United States, however, providing 90 per cent of the military strength and 100 per cent of the provisions.

Similarly, the constitution was bypassed at Teheran and Yalta, the decisions reached at those conferences not being concluded in treaties and therefore never being referred to the Senate for ratification as the constitution clearly provides.

Congress cannot do anything about this, particularly as any changes in the Teheran and Yalta agreements can only lead to war. But the time has come to call a halt to unconstitutional procedures.

The founding fathers, with rare wisdom, rejected the concept of secret diplomacy, recognizing that the best - intentioned men often move into queer mazes in the despairs of partisan politics. Therefore, they provided that although the President conducts the foreign policy of the United States, he must, constitutionally, in time place the entire matter before the Senate for ratification. Of course, if the Senate waives its constitutional authority and integrity, nothing can be done about it.

The bipartisan foreign policy, product of the thinking of Senator Vandenberg, John Foster Dulles, Thomas E. Dewey, General George Marshall and Secretary of State Cordell Hull, weakened the authority of the Senate by removing the minority party from knowledge of and opposition to national policies.

Like so many other World War II measures which did not work out, the bipartisan foreign policy seemed to be the right thing to do to many Republicans, even to some who disagreed with the Harry Hopkins program of appeasement of Soviet Russia. Furthermore, with great skill, the program of bipartisanship was sold to the country and few politicians were willing to risk opposition to it. Therefore, for a prolonged period, the bipartisan foreign policy was accepted by large numbers as sacrosanct.

The State Department used this policy to evade consultation with the Senate, even on matters which later required ratification. It became clear, during the MacArthur hearings, that few Senators, even on the foreign relations committee of the Senate, were adequately informed concerning matters which involved war and the loss of American lives. The minority partner of bipartisanship was never informed, consulted or recognized once it had consented to bipartisanship. It was more a public relations activity than a procedure of government.

President Roosevelt was careful to keep Senator Vandenberg informed. President Truman selected his own Republicans whom he recognized as proxies for that party. By this device, he was able to say that he even had Republicans in the State Department and therefore it was not necessary to deal either with Republican members of the foreign relations committee or the Republican leadership in Congress. By utilizing the services of John Foster Dulles, he paid his complete debt to bipartisanship.

The danger in this method is that the people have no way of knowing what they are pledged to until it is too late to do anything about it. The Korean War, which has been our first military defeat, is a case in point. What would have happened on June 25, 1950, if Congress were called in session to pass a joint resolution declaring war? It is even possible that they might not have done it or that they would have demanded information now available but then not known even to high officials of the government.

For instance, had Congress known then that Dean Acheson had committed the United States to Great Britain to recognize Soviet China — would Congress have risked this war?

Yet, the responsibility for war rests strictly upon Congress and the responsibility for a treaty between the United States and a new government involving recognition, peace, amity, trade must be ratified by the Senate.

The issue can no longer be whether the bipartisan foreign policy is sound or not; it is whether the constitution functions or not. And that question ought not to be ignored by members of Congress, particularly of the Senate, if that body is to be respected by the American people. Its responsibilities are clear and cannot be dodged. If it retreats from those responsibilities and permits an unconstitutional procedure in the field of foreign relations, the Senate is in default and Americans must then ponder the effectiveness of constitutional provisions.

Housewife's Dilemma

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass. — The housewife complains that food prices are too high. Her budget is showing—in the red. No wonder! Only during the last twelve months, consumer prices for moderate income families have risen approximately 8.3%. Food prices have climbed 11%, clothing 10%, and rents 3%.

Living Standards Endangered

Higher and higher prices are endangering the living standards of millions of moderate income, middle-class families. The record shows that their food prices have increased 105% in the last decade;—apparel, 95%; rents, 30%; house furnishings, 100%; and such miscellaneous items as recreation, toilet articles, dry cleaning, and doctors' bills, 60%. The earnings of this group just haven't kept pace with prices.

This unfortunate situation especially hurts that large segment of professional and white-collar workers. These feel the squeeze most,—doctors, lawyers, teachers, clergy, civic leaders, accountants, office workers—and others with fixed incomes and pensions. In a very real sense many of these workers of our communities are the people who create ideas, those most interested in moral and spiritual values. These men and their wives are the forgotten people of today. For the good of our country, they need to be remembered.

Inflation And Simple Economics

Ever since the depression of the thirties we have been scared to death of Deflation. Everyone has wanted economic security. For the farmers this has meant price-support and subsidies. Labor leaders have encouraged price rises in order to give the unions good ammunition for wage rises. Business, in turn, has sanctioned wage increases and then encouraged inflation to pay the worker.

The unjust part of high prices is that they suck the life from the public for the benefit of the privileged few. The manufacturer anticipates enjoying inflation because he can get more for his products. Sooner or later his employees want more and more of his profits to pay the grocer's bill, and either he pays or their standard of living goes down. The worker, at the outset, enjoys inflation because of his hopes of higher wages, but both employer and employe lose in the long run. They find the price of the new car they want or the supper steak has gone up.

What We Need To Do

In short, we have been kidding ourselves into thinking that we can gain more in an inflated seller's market than we can lose in a deflated buyer's market. The history of Germany, Italy, France, Great Britain, and Russia clearly indicates that unbridled inflation undermines private enterprise, causes industries to shut down and throws people out of work.

I may be old-fashioned, but years of experience tell me that you won't ever remove the housewife's burden by rationing or allocations or price or wage controls. These current stopgap measures, in the long run, will deprive you of your economic liberties. The way to lower prices is to balance the national budget, raise interest rates, increase legal reserve ratios, curb installment buying, and ESPECIALLY INCREASE PRODUCTION WITH LOWER COSTS.

Up To The Women

If a large enough group of determined housewives decide to bring prices down, they can! My suggestion to the housewives is to band together and work together. Bring your group influence to bear day in and day out, not only on your congressman but also upon manufacturers and labor leaders. I, for one, do not want to contest the power of a woman!

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — The Chinese and North Korean representatives at the "cease fire" conference were visibly disturbed when they learned that General Ridgway would break off the negotiations if the newsmen accompanying the UN conferees were not given free access to Kaesong.

Presumably the refusal the next day to permit the newsmen to go forward was due to the failure of the Moscow and Peiping authorities to send word back in time to prevent the stoppage at the entrance to the Kaesong area.

The UN negotiators have instructions of a rather firm character. They are anxious to establish promptly whether the Communists are concerned with the form or the substance.

If it's merely the form, there are plenty of ways to patch up the differences. Thus, an agreement might be reached to exclude all photographers and newsmen till the negotiations have reached a later stage or to select a certain number from both sides to be present in the city but not at the conferences.

Will Show Hand

If the Communist negotiators really are acting in good faith, they will be able to show very soon what their purpose was in arranging for the conferences at Kaesong. Up to the time the negotiations came to a halt over the question of admitting newsmen, other obstacles had arisen. The Communists, for example, began to talk at one of the first conferences about withdrawing UN troops from Korea. This, of course, is a "political" subject and the UN representatives said frankly they had not been and would not be authorized to discuss political questions.

It was all the more surprising to the UN envoys to hear such things raised because Russia's Deputy Foreign Minister Gromyko had assured American Ambassador Kirk at Moscow that the "cease fire" negotiations would concern military matters only and that political subjects would be left to subsequent negotiation after the armistice had taken effect.

Communication Problem

On the surface, this might appear to mean that the Chinese Communists were far more insistent on carrying on the war than the Russians. The chances are that such an interpretation is not the true one and that difficulties of communication are really at fault. The Chinese could not possibly be in any more bellicose mood than the Russians, from whom they get the bulk of their supplies.

As yet there is no evidence as to what caused the Soviets to encourage the "cease fire" negotiations. One reason advanced is that the economic blockade was about to pinch the Soviets harder than is generally known and that the drain of the Korean War on Soviet supplies and equipment was a bit too much for Moscow.

The American government, which is steering the negotiations, is quite well aware of the unfavorable impression made by the early dispatches about the "cease fire" negotiations which spoke of American military men going to Kaesong virtually in the guise of peace seekers while the Communists stood armed around the conference. The idea that the UN has come begging for an armistice will not only be spread throughout Asia but it has already affected many Americans. Yet the argument in favor of going into enemy-held territory was that the UN could afford to make concessions on the "form" — that it could afford to risk the unfavorable impression of those first few days if in the end the UN got the "substance."

What the UN wants is an armistice line north of the 38th parallel at the present military position of both forces. Also the UN wants access to North Korea for its commission to supervise the armistice. There are other vital points which must be agreed upon before there is a "cease fire." Meanwhile, General Ridgway is just as suspicious as anyone would want him to be, for he is well aware of the build-up going on behind the Chinese lines.

If a resumption of fighting is forced, the Communists will suffer heavy punishment and maybe the ban on bombing Manchurian bases will be lifted. This correspondent gets the impression here that officials of our government expect the "cease fire" to be consummated after a series of conferences.

"Persecuted" U. S. Reds

The fact that four of the 11 American communist party leaders have jumped their bail leaves the government with a heavy financial loss on the transaction. The trial cost more than $1,000,000, and the forfeited bonds totaled only $80,000.

Meanwhile, the bail-jumping merely reemphasizes the feebleness of communist attacks on American justice in this trial.

The 11 defendants were free on bail before the trial as well as after it. They were not held incommunicado for 10 weeks before it started, as William Oatis was in Czechoslovakia, in a fiendish campaign to break their grip on themselves until they would "confess" to an assortment of imaginary crimes.

They were not "defended" in court by a stooge appointed by a judge who behaved like a biased prosecutor. Their attorneys were so able to abuse their privileges under American law that at times they almost caused orderly procedure to break down.

With a less patient and determined man than Judge Medina they would have succeeded, and then American justice would have granted them a mistrial.

After conviction they were not sent to prison but freed on bail while their case was appealed all the way to the United States Supreme Court. There a minority of two justices held that the Smith Act under which they were convicted violates the constitutional ban on interference with freedom of speech.

If three more justices had shared this attitude all 11 defendants would have been freed. Finally, four were able to jump bail and get away, at least temporarily.

The seven who are now locked up are entitled to the same privileges as other prisoners, with none of the refinements of torment to which Robert Vogeler was subjected in Hungary. They are not to be kept eternally in solitary, under glaring lights never turned off, watched 24 hours a day by hidden guards who yell at them for innocent acts not forbidden in American jails.

It would be poetic justice if these rats were given such treatment, but it wouldn't be American justice.

Air Sailing

Sailplane enthusiasts are a breed unto themselves. A landlubber, seeing a field of wheat glowing in the July sun, would likely say: "Stacks of bread there." The sailplaner would see a fine thermal, or updraft. To others a lake or woodland may mean peace and beauty, to a sailplaner they signal "downdraft!"

Sailplaners carry on by wits, experience and skill. They haven't a fan out front pulling them along. Grabbing onto a thermal here and there they soar to many thousands of feet and travel hundreds of miles. Sailplanes are to a conventional plane what a fine racing yawl is to a passenger liner. They are pure expressions of man against the elements.

There are more happy endings than not, as observers at the Dupont Airport in Wilmington, Del., discovered the other day. A graceful little ship swooped silently into the field after a flight of four hours from Elmira, N. Y. The flier, Stanley Smith—appropriately an aeronautical engineer—had done just what he had said he would. His landing represented a feat of navigation as well as soaring.

Sailplane pilots have discovered how to join nature, instead of trying to lick her. Much that has been learned over the years about air currents by these air sailors has been written into the texts placed before fledgling military fliers. And the average man is understandably a little envious of them, too.

Imagine having the chance to share with a hawk those breathless vistas of cumulus hills and valleys and all that quiet freedom!

Harnessing The Atom

Because of the international situation practically all discussion recently of atomic energy has been concerned with its use in war. It is gratifying to learn, therefore, that some persons in high places are taking a longer view of the situation.

Among the responsible officials who are looking ahead are the members of the Atomic Energy Commission. With the cooperation of an advisory committee composed of representatives of industry, and especially electric power producers, the AEC is making a continuing study of nuclear energy as a commercial asset.

In an interim report the committee asserts that enough evidence is at hand to "warrant a strong present and future interest in atomic energy on the part of the electric power industry."

That's the kind of talk that was heard immediately after Hiroshima when rosy prospects were painted of the benefits which would accrue to mankind from the peacetime application of the atomic energy principle. It is good to be reminded that scientists have not forgotten their earlier promises.

A Myth Exploded

The old myth that lightning never strikes twice in the same place has been exploded. Westinghouse Electric Corporation engineers say it always strikes twice in the same place and sometimes as many as 40 times. They have been studying the subject for more than 35 years.

They explain that a "lightning channel" is set up between cloud and earth by the first discharge. That is only a trail blazer, however. They contend any number of charge centers in the clouds may use it to send their bolts to earth. There are at least two discharges along the same channel, and more than 40 have been recorded, according to the engineers.

Modern lightning protection equipment, consisting of "lightning traps" maintained on top of tall structures, is virtually foolproof, the scientists say. They reveal also that lightning can be "cold" as well as hot. Hot lightning, which stretches out a low current over a longer period, causes most fires. The explosive kind is described as cold because it expends its high electric current in one burst.

Real Security

A real estate advertisement in a popular magazine is headed by the phrase, "Safely away from any bomb target area." This psychological approach to prospective buyers is an appeal to their desire for security. Fortunately such appeals have not moved any great number of people to seek safety by deserting the cities.

We can achieve real security by working vigorously for peace, by keeping our strength great enough to stop any enemy from damaging our homes, by our faith and by courage constant enough to know that we will rebuild if we must.

How To Keep Well

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

ACCIDENTS AMONG BABIES

We are likely to associate the crippled child with polio, arthritis, cerebral palsy, and rheumatic fever. Nevertheless these causes are not comparable with accidents which account for more deaths and permanent injuries than any of the diseases mentioned. In the first year of life the baby is at the mercy of his parents. In the words of Dr. H. F. Dietrich, they "cannot duck, dodge, or run.", The hazards are burning, drowning, mangling, crushing, or poisoning. Suffocation by bedclothes and pillows is reported to be responsible for one-half of all infant fatalities. Physicians question this diagnosis, however, and have found that many of the tragedies ascribed to mechanical suffocation actually are the result of acute respiratory infections. This error has caused grief to hundreds of adults who blame themselves needlessly for the loss of an infant thru carelessness.

•—•—•

Other origins of suffocation are the inhalation of foreign bodies such as pacifiers, marbles, and buttons; and the aspiration of milk, liquid foods, and vomit. Occasionally the little tikes get their heads caught under the arms or trays of the highchair or between wall and crib or the guard rails of the crib. These mishaps may lead to strangling. Babies are burned when cooking utensils are upset. Vaporizers are becoming a more important risk; many are makeshift devices that either set the bedclothes on fire or scald the baby. Only a small percentage of babies meets accidental death thru falls. Drowning in the tub while the mother or nurse answers the phone still occurs despite repeated warnings against this practice.

In the second year the same dangers exist but the child plays a more active role. He wanders about the room almost faster than the eye can follow and has an unlimited reach. The tot cannot help himself; he is following a natural impulse to learn; he is curious and must find out what hurts or burns and what is edible and nonedible.

Mild and logical discipline is needed but in most instances the parents and child profit by eliminating potential trouble makers. Discipline enters the picture when they are not permitted near the stove or open flame. Precautionary measures involve the removal of matches, table lighters, caustic solutions, and vaporing paraphernalia from the youngster's reach. The same can be said of protecting them against electrical connections. Scalding is kept at a minimum if the handles of pans are turned or a percolator cord is disconnected when mother leaves the room. It is well to remember that parents need be careless only once.

Let us not forget that accidents take the lives of 12,000 children annually and permanently disable 30,000 to 50,000. This problem should be fought, not feared. The ostrich stunt of hiding the head in the sand will get us no place. There always are some unavoidable mishaps but the accident rate could be reduced tremendously if we just concentrated on those that are preventable.

HEART MURMUR

Mrs. D. writes: Can a heart murmur come and go?

REPLY

Organic murmurs seldom disappear but the functional variety may be heard only during expiration. It vanishes during inspiration. Because such sounds are influenced by breathing, physicians refer to them as "respiratory murmurs." Those due to anemia or thyroid disturbance disappear when the causative condition is eliminated.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

F. L. writes: Are there any wonder drugs for hypertension?

REPLY

There are many wonder drugs but they do not work wonders in high blood pressure. In the usual forms of this condition, medications are not as important as the manner of living. I doubt if a barrel of drugs would overcome the stimulating effect on the blood pressure of an exciting job that requires a fast pace.

THIRSTY ON RETIRING

R. L. writes: As soon as I fall asleep I am awakened by a terrific thirst. After I get up for a drink I'm wide awake and cannot get back to sleep. Is there any way to correct this condition?

REPLY

This is not a symptom of any disease with which I am familiar. It may represent a habit pattern or conditioned reflex. If so, you may be able to break it by trying to get back to sleep without quenching your thirst.

ELECTROCARDIOGRAM

H. V. writes: Is the electrocardiogram useful in diagnosing angina pectoris?

REPLY

Individuals with angina pectoris often have a normal electrocardiogram. The exceptions are those who have had previous attacks of coronary thrombosis or who have suffered from angina over a period of years.

PERITONITIS

N. J. writes: Is peritonitis curable?

REPLY

Yes, with the sulfonamides and antibiotics. In many instances, surgery also is required.

Chiang Brother-In-Law Tries To Corner Soybean Market; From "Ham And Eggs" To "Oil And Gold"; GOP Outlines Campaign Targets For '52

WASHINGTON—American truce negotiators in Korea have noted with interest that the Chinese Communists are using American Jeeps. The American public has also wondered not only how the Communists were able to obtain American equipment, but why the Nationalist government was driven out of China.

The sub-rosa operations of the Chiang Kai-Shek family may be one of the answers. Another of their operations has just come to light—a move by a Chiang brother-in-law, with other wealthy Chinese to corner the soybean market at the expense of the American public.

Theb rother-in-law is T. L. Soong, brother of Foreign Minister T. V. Soong, who formerly handled much of the three and a half billion dollars worth of supplies which the United States sent to China during the war. The soybean pool netted a profit of $30,000,000 and shot up the cost to the American consumer $1 a bushel.

One of the strange things about the soybean manipulation was that its operators knew exactly the right time to buy up the world's soybean supply — a few weeks before the Communists invaded Korea.

Recently this column told how Eugene Soong, son of T. L. Soong, together with L. K. Kung, son of Dr. H. H. Kung, another brother-in-law, sold a huge quantity of precious tin to the Chinese communists. As a result Secretary of Commerce Sawyer has now barred this group, together with three law partners of ex-Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson, from getting export licenses to trade with any country for three years.

It was the father of Eugene Soong, T. L. Soong, who bought up half a million bushels of soybeans before the Korean war in May, 1950.

Soybeans are used for cattle and human food, in manufacturing plastics and paints, and are essential for war production. And 56 Chinese bought up the huge quantity of 6,986,000 bushels on the Chicago Board of Trade at $2.34 a bushel.

Shortly, threafter the price began to climb. It soared and soared. Finally, five days after the Communists invaded Korea, the price hit $3.45-½ a bushel, and the group sold out.

T. L. Soong is the same man in charge of supplies sent over the Burma road at a time when a series of warehouse fires and "sabotage" caused the disappearance of large quantities of war material.

Shortly thereafter, Soong left for the United States on a diplomatic passport, and was moved into an even more important spot in Washington—chief procurement officer of Chinese war supplies.

Soong is still here. But, instead of handling war supplies, he is now speculating in soybeans at the expense of the American public.

Operations like this may be one reason why the disillusioned Chinese people threw out the Soong-Kung dynasty and accepted communism as a lesser evil.

Oil And Gold

Ex.-Sen. Shediran Downey of California recently met radio correspondent Rudy Block in a Capitol corridor. Downey, who rose to political fame on an old-age pension scheme known as "ham and eggs," is now lobbying at $3,000 a month for Tidelands Oil.

"Well, Senator," said Block, as they shook hands. "I see it's from ham and eggs to oil and gold."

GOP Targets For '52

A frank outline of GOP campaign strategy for 1952 was presented to key Republican Senators' assistants by Ab Hermann, the energetic national committee executive director, in a private meeting the other night.

The tall, banjo-eyed Hermann, onetime big-league ballplayer, confided: "We won Senate seats last year wherever we took our gloves off. There were only two states we should have taken and didn't, and that was because our nominees refused to punch hard—Missouri and Connecticut.

"Why," complained Hermann, "we had to bootleg speakers like McCarthy into Connecticut."

The "prime targets" in 1950, he said were Scott Lucas in Illinois; Francis Myers in Pennsylvania; Elbert Thomas of Utah, and Millard Tydings of Maryland.

Turning to Frank Smith, assistant to Sen. John M. Butler, who defeated Tydings, Hermann continued: "We did a beautiful job in Maryland and Utah, Frank. I don't see why the Democrats yelled so much about the composite picture in your campaign, when, by comparison with the anti-Thomas newspaper in Utah, your publicity was like a country gentleman's."

He referred to the fact that in Utah, a supposed "congressional record" with statements attacking Thomas as a pro-Communist was circulated to all mailboxes in the last hours of the campaign—so late that Thomas had no opportunity to reply.

"We all know Senator Thomas was not a Communist," Hermann explained, "But these tactics were necessary to balance the pseudo-liberal newspapers which were for him.

Pointing to Dick Cardall, administrative aide to Sen. Arthur Watkins of Utah, Hermann continued: "There's the fellow who gets a lot of credit for that victory. Senator Bennett (the Republican who beat Thomas) is very much indebted to him."

The 1952 target areas, Hermann indicated, were to retain all Republican seats in the New England and Atlantic States, and pick up new senators in Arizona, New Mexico and Wyoming.

"We have Republican governors and some patronage strength to put on real scraps," he explained. "Also we have a fighting chance of picking up seats in Maryland, Kentucky and West Virginia and strengthen our position in the south.

"On the other hand," he said, pointing to a map behind him, "We could lose four or five senators. Quite frankly, even if there is a sweeping Republican victory for president, we still may not control the Senate."

Washington Pipelin

CORRECTION: In reporting the vote of the House Judiciary Committee for and against giving Tidelands Oil back to three states and the oil companies, I erroneously listed Congressman Claude Bakewell of St. Louis as voting against federal retention of Tidelands Oil. This was in error. I now learn that the congressman voted for federal retention....I was also in error in reporting the vote of Congressman Hamilton Jones of North Carolina. It was Congressman Woodrow Jones also of North Carolina who voted against federal retention of Tidelands Oil ... sincere apologies ....Hamilton Jones, incidentally, has been a strong supporter of education...Democratic Chairman Bill Boyle was warned by White House advisers not to send telegrams to Democratic National Committeemen urging them to pressure congress on price controls. "We've got 30 to 40 Republicans votes lined up," Boyle was warned, "and we may lose them if this looks like a Democratic issue."....Erudite Sen. Joe O'Mahoney of Wyoming is so overworked that his secretaries and executive assistants have to come to the radio recording room of the senate in order to squeeze in a word with him .... Nervous Senator Cain of Washington got in wrong with other GOP-eers for jumping the gun on part of the MacArthur committee report on the eve of cease-fire talks in Korea. Senator Brewster of Maine begged him to wait, but Cain wouldn't .... The globetrotting Senate Foreign Relations Committee gave out quite an imposing list of people it would interview abroad. But it omitted one name—Franco. Apparently the solons weren't enthusiastic about publicizing their visit with the dictator.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Bipartisanism

The administration has either wilfully or by necessity, in the Korean episode, chosen to by-pass the clear provisions of the constitution which give to Congress the responsibility for making war. The device was to call that war a "police action" by the United Nations, the United States, however, providing 90 per cent of the military strength and 100 per cent of the provisions.

Similarly, the constitution was bypassed at Teheran and Yalta, the decisions reached at those conferences not being concluded in treaties and therefore never being referred to the Senate for ratification as the constitution clearly provides.

Congress cannot do anything about this, particularly as any changes in the Teheran and Yalta agreements can only lead to war. But the time has come to call a halt to unconstitutional procedures.

The founding fathers, with rare wisdom, rejected the concept of secret diplomacy, recognizing that the best - intentioned men often move into queer mazes in the despairs of partisan politics. Therefore, they provided that although the President conducts the foreign policy of the United States, he must, constitutionally, in time place the entire matter before the Senate for ratification. Of course, if the Senate waives its constitutional authority and integrity, nothing can be done about it.

The bipartisan foreign policy, product of the thinking of Senator Vandenberg, John Foster Dulles, Thomas E. Dewey, General George Marshall and Secretary of State Cordell Hull, weakened the authority of the Senate by removing the minority party from knowledge of and opposition to national policies.

Like so many other World War II measures which did not work out, the bipartisan foreign policy seemed to be the right thing to do to many Republicans, even to some who disagreed with the Harry Hopkins program of appeasement of Soviet Russia. Furthermore, with great skill, the program of bipartisanship was sold to the country and few politicians were willing to risk opposition to it. Therefore, for a prolonged period, the bipartisan foreign policy was accepted by large numbers as sacrosanct.

The State Department used this policy to evade consultation with the Senate, even on matters which later required ratification. It became clear, during the MacArthur hearings, that few Senators, even on the foreign relations committee of the Senate, were adequately informed concerning matters which involved war and the loss of American lives. The minority partner of bipartisanship was never informed, consulted or recognized once it had consented to bipartisanship. It was more a public relations activity than a procedure of government.

President Roosevelt was careful to keep Senator Vandenberg informed. President Truman selected his own Republicans whom he recognized as proxies for that party. By this device, he was able to say that he even had Republicans in the State Department and therefore it was not necessary to deal either with Republican members of the foreign relations committee or the Republican leadership in Congress. By utilizing the services of John Foster Dulles, he paid his complete debt to bipartisanship.

The danger in this method is that the people have no way of knowing what they are pledged to until it is too late to do anything about it. The Korean War, which has been our first military defeat, is a case in point. What would have happened on June 25, 1950, if Congress were called in session to pass a joint resolution declaring war? It is even possible that they might not have done it or that they would have demanded information now available but then not known even to high officials of the government.

For instance, had Congress known then that Dean Acheson had committed the United States to Great Britain to recognize Soviet China — would Congress have risked this war?

Yet, the responsibility for war rests strictly upon Congress and the responsibility for a treaty between the United States and a new government involving recognition, peace, amity, trade must be ratified by the Senate.

The issue can no longer be whether the bipartisan foreign policy is sound or not; it is whether the constitution functions or not. And that question ought not to be ignored by members of Congress, particularly of the Senate, if that body is to be respected by the American people. Its responsibilities are clear and cannot be dodged. If it retreats from those responsibilities and permits an unconstitutional procedure in the field of foreign relations, the Senate is in default and Americans must then ponder the effectiveness of constitutional provisions.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — The Chinese and North Korean representatives at the "cease fire" conference were visibly disturbed when they learned that General Ridgway would break off the negotiations if the newsmen accompanying the UN conferees were not given free access to Kaesong.

Presumably the refusal the next day to permit the newsmen to go forward was due to the failure of the Moscow and Peiping authorities to send word back in time to prevent the stoppage at the entrance to the Kaesong area.

The UN negotiators have instructions of a rather firm character. They are anxious to establish promptly whether the Communists are concerned with the form or the substance.

If it's merely the form, there are plenty of ways to patch up the differences. Thus, an agreement might be reached to exclude all photographers and newsmen till the negotiations have reached a later stage or to select a certain number from both sides to be present in the city but not at the conferences.

Will Show Hand

If the Communist negotiators really are acting in good faith, they will be able to show very soon what their purpose was in arranging for the conferences at Kaesong. Up to the time the negotiations came to a halt over the question of admitting newsmen, other obstacles had arisen. The Communists, for example, began to talk at one of the first conferences about withdrawing UN troops from Korea. This, of course, is a "political" subject and the UN representatives said frankly they had not been and would not be authorized to discuss political questions.

It was all the more surprising to the UN envoys to hear such things raised because Russia's Deputy Foreign Minister Gromyko had assured American Ambassador Kirk at Moscow that the "cease fire" negotiations would concern military matters only and that political subjects would be left to subsequent negotiation after the armistice had taken effect.

Communication Problem

On the surface, this might appear to mean that the Chinese Communists were far more insistent on carrying on the war than the Russians. The chances are that such an interpretation is not the true one and that difficulties of communication are really at fault. The Chinese could not possibly be in any more bellicose mood than the Russians, from whom they get the bulk of their supplies.

As yet there is no evidence as to what caused the Soviets to encourage the "cease fire" negotiations. One reason advanced is that the economic blockade was about to pinch the Soviets harder than is generally known and that the drain of the Korean War on Soviet supplies and equipment was a bit too much for Moscow.

The American government, which is steering the negotiations, is quite well aware of the unfavorable impression made by the early dispatches about the "cease fire" negotiations which spoke of American military men going to Kaesong virtually in the guise of peace seekers while the Communists stood armed around the conference. The idea that the UN has come begging for an armistice will not only be spread throughout Asia but it has already affected many Americans. Yet the argument in favor of going into enemy-held territory was that the UN could afford to make concessions on the "form" — that it could afford to risk the unfavorable impression of those first few days if in the end the UN got the "substance."

What the UN wants is an armistice line north of the 38th parallel at the present military position of both forces. Also the UN wants access to North Korea for its commission to supervise the armistice. There are other vital points which must be agreed upon before there is a "cease fire." Meanwhile, General Ridgway is just as suspicious as anyone would want him to be, for he is well aware of the build-up going on behind the Chinese lines.

If a resumption of fighting is forced, the Communists will suffer heavy punishment and maybe the ban on bombing Manchurian bases will be lifted. This correspondent gets the impression here that officials of our government expect the "cease fire" to be consummated after a series of conferences.

Compatability Is A Wonderful Thing

Compatability, a word which has hitherto been applied chiefly to people, especially married folk, is getting a brand new run for its money in the world of electronics, specifically in color television. During the past week we in New York, have been permitted to witness RCA's color television system. A handful have managed to get into the RCA exhibit hall and see a half hour show in three colors and also on adjoining sets in black and white.

Some 4,000,000 other set owners in the metropolitan area, if they weren't at the dishes at 10 a.m. which is almost the only practical hour NBC was allowed to run its field tests, were exposed to RCA's color system in black and white and got the comfortable feeling of being let in on something which has previously been only for a few privileged, haughty people — Senators, F. C. C. commissioners, vice-presidents—who were bandying about our electronic destiny behind what almost amounted to locked doors.

• — • — •

CBS's field sequential or whirling disk system, buttresssed by the United States Supreme Court, is now the law of the land. Yet it is still an uncomfortable secret which CBS would like to share with the rest of us but doesn't quite know how to go about it. The RCA system, while not exactly illegal, is terribly unofficial. But the public—at least in the New York area and eventually in others—has access to it as they had access to the speakeasy, another highly unofficial institution in its day. Compatability is a wonderful thing.

So is color television—when, as and if anyone can afford it. As to the merits of the two systems, it would be pretty hard to determine unless CBS and the improved RCA receiver were set side by side. The differences, I suspect, would be of great interest to the engineers but probably wouldn't be very noticeable to you and me. RCA color, I think, is sometimes a little more pallid, not quite so rich in texture as the CBS brand. Just the same it's good color transmission. It would certainly brighten your home. And don't forget its' compatible in case you're a black-and-white lad whose home doesn't need brightening and who prefers Milton Berle in monochrome.

The splendor of color enhances almost everything on television—the fabrics, the gowns, the scenery—everything, in fact, except people.

The RCA show I saw opened with a parade of Conover models whose pari-tinted habiliments were greatly enriched by color cameras but whose own personalities, it seemed to me, were somewhat dimmed by all the tri-colored radiance. These babes could be watched on black and white or in color and I thought they looked both younger and prettier in b & w. Also they looked more like people. I've been looking at people for some time now and I guess they have always come through to me in black and white or in suitable shades of gray. On color television, they're tinted from head to foot and look a little phoney like dolls.

One of the features of the show was a remote pickup from a Palisades Park pool where the water was a magnificent emerald and Buster Crabbe was a sort of cedar and the whole thing—as Ben Grauer proudly told us—was illuminated only by nature. Well, nature isn't always right—an aphorism I picked up at my mother's knee—and I would have preferred Mr. Crabbe in some less conspicuous shade like, say, clay pink. Eventually, all sorts of sports will be in color. This will bring out the full splendor of the Polo Grounds but what about Ed Stanky? Stanky in three colors might easily produce technicolored nightmares in the children.

Nature — another expression I picked up from mother—abhors a vacuum tube unless the installments have been paid on it. Just now television needs a lot of things—imagination, taste and money, to name three; it needs almost everything except color. The progress of the art—if I may make so bold—would be seriously interrupted by any non-compatible system like CBS's; it would be left unimpaired and possibly unchanged for years to come by RCA color, which would give us set owners a chance to pay for the present set and still see the color broadcasts (if only in black and white).

• — • — •

Just one other small point. One of the entertainers on the RCA color show was introduced as "the brand new singing sensation." The language of broadcasting is neither more nor less colorful than it was—black and white, or for that matter, in radio.

Speeding Crackdown Starts In Ridgeley

A crackdown on speeders in Ridgeley was announced Saturday by Police Commissioner Charles Fryer.

The commissioner explained the limit in the West Virginia community is 25 miles an hour but that a number of complaints have been received that autos are exceeding this limit.

Fryer said most complaints deal with Potomac, Main, Knobley and Blocher streets. He also said there has been considerable parking on red lines and noted this will be stopped.

It was explained by the commissioner that a traffic light will be installed soon at Third Avenue and Potomac Street.

During the past week we in New York, have been permitted to witness RCA's color television system. A handful have managed to get into the RCA exhibit hall and see a half hour show in three colors and also on adjoining sets in black and white.

Some 4,000,000 other set owners in the metropolitan area, if they weren't at the dishes at 10 a.m. which is almost the only practical hour NBC was allowed to run its field tests, were exposed to RCA's color system in black and white and got the comfortable feeling of being let in on something which has previously been only for a few privileged, haughty people — Senators, F. C. C. commissioners, vice-presidents—who were bandying about our electronic destiny behind what almost amounted to locked doors.

• — • — •

CBS's field sequential or whirling disk system, buttresssed by the United States Supreme Court, is now the law of the land. Yet it is still an uncomfortable secret which CBS would like to share with the rest of us but doesn't quite know how to go about it. The RCA system, while not exactly illegal, is terribly unofficial. But the public—at least in the New York area and eventually in others—has access to it as they had access to the speakeasy, another highly unofficial institution in its day. Compatability is a wonderful thing.

So is color television—when, as and if anyone can afford it. As to the merits of the two systems, it would be pretty hard to determine unless CBS and the improved RCA receiver were set side by side. The differences, I suspect, would be of great interest to the engineers but probably wouldn't be very noticeable to you and me. RCA color, I think, is sometimes a little more pallid, not quite so rich in texture as the CBS brand. Just the same it's good color transmission. It would certainly brighten your home. And don't forget its' compatible in case you're a black-and-white lad whose home doesn't need brightening and who prefers Milton Berle in monochrome.

The splendor of color enhances almost everything on television—the fabrics, the gowns, the scenery—everything, in fact, except people. The RCA show I saw opened with a parade of Conover models whose vari-tinted habiliments were greatly enriched by color cameras but whose own personalities, it seemed to me, were somewhat dimmed by all the tri-colored radiance. These babes could be watched on black and white or in color and I thought they looked both younger and prettier in b & w. Also they looked more like people. I've been looking at people for some time now and I guess they have always come through to me in black and white or in suitable shades of gray. On color television, they're tinted from head to foot and look a little phoney like dolls.

One of the features of the show was a remote pickup from a Palisades Park pool where the water was a magnificent emerald and Buster Crabbe was a sort of cedar and the whole thing—as Ben Grauer proudly told us—was illuminated only by nature. Well, nature isn't always right—an aphorism I picked up at my mother's knee—and I would have preferred Mr. Crabbe in some less conspicuous shade like, say, clay pink. Eventually, all sorts of sports will be in color. This will bring out the full splendor of the Polo Grounds but what about Ed Stanky? Stanky in three colors might easily produce technicolored nightmares in the children.

Nature — another expression I picked up from mother—abhors a vacuum tube unless the installments have been paid on it. Just now television needs a lot of things—imagination, taste and money, to name three; it needs almost everything except color. The progress of the art—if I may make so bold—would be seriously interrupted by any non-compatible system like CBS's; it would be left unimpaired and possibly unchanged for years to come by RCA color, which would give us set owners a chance to pay for the present set and still see the color broadcasts (if only in black and white).

• — • — •

Just one other small point. One of the entertainers on the RCA color show was introduced as "the brand new singing sensation." The language of broadcasting is neither more nor less colorful than it was—black and white, or for that matter, in radio.

Speeding Crackdown Starts In Ridgeley

A crackdown on speeders in Ridgeley was announced Saturday by Police Commissioner Charles Fryer.

The commissioner explained the limit in the West Virginia community is 25 miles an hour but that a number of complaints have been received that autos are exceeding this limit.

Fryer said most complaints deal with Potomac, Main, Knobley and Blocher streets. He also said there has been considerable parking on red lines and noted this will be stopped.

It was explained by the commissioner that a traffic light will be installed soon at Third Avenue and Potomac Street.

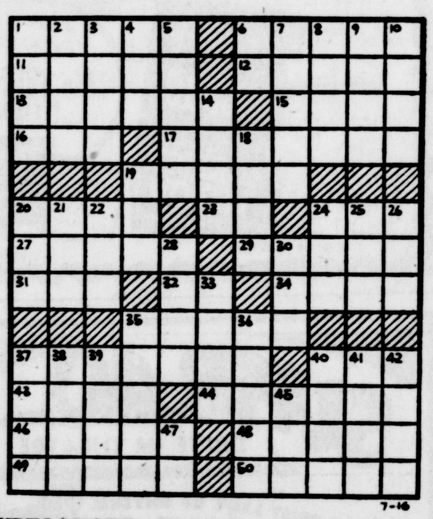
Saturday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

BASSINGBOURN, Eng., July 15 (INS) — This was a good gutty U. S. Army Eighth Air Force field in World War II. Its young men, or at least those who survived their tour of duty, were mainly gay guys, lived life to the full, were less "military" than any other branch of the service, wore "raunchy" caps and sometimes silk scarves and, between missions, were in the oat-sowing business in London.

Today this massive field, shared by the U. S. Air Force and the R. A. F., is one of half a dozen bases in Britain from which A-bombs could be flown if necessary.

One notices an almost eerie difference between the Bassingbourn of, say 1943, and the Bassingbourn of today. The world of aviation has changed intensely in that short stretch. So have the men concerned. So has the weapon at hand.

A single Eniwetok-type A-bomb, dropped on a target, could produce more destruction than many months of missions of the sort I saw start from this base eight years ago. We considered the B-17 of 1943, with its two ton load of 500-pound high explosive bombs, an overpowering war machine.

• — • — •

If war with Russia broke out today, a single B-50, carrying a single bomb which apparently weighs less than the load the old B-17 carried would be airborne with rapidity fit to make the head swim.

From Bassingbourn, if all went well, it could reach Moscow in about three hours. The bomb it would drop would be the equivalent of 50,000 tons of TNT, if it is true, as reported by the AEC, that the new A-bomb is "several" times more powerful than the Hiroshima bomb, which had the potential of 20,000 tons of TNT.

A lone B-17 once based at Bassingbourn in a more primitive age of aerial warfare could drop two tons on a target. In other words, that hypothetical B-17 would have had to make about 25,000 trips to Moscow (if it could have gotten there) to wreak as much damage as one of Lt. Gen. Curtis Lemay's '50's.

Not that the Air Force is thinking of A-bombing Moscow or any other city. But it is in a state of intense preparation, as if it were a fine fighter who, though he has no match actually scheduled, keeps in fighting shape.

Under the command of a brilliant young World War II vet, Lt. Col. "Casey" Stengel, the Bassingbourn branch of our Air Force overseas reflects, as do the other bases, the tremendous esprit de corps of the Strategic Air Command. The men sense quietly that they are the free world's first line of defense, and are ready to be the first to be called upon in the event of a great war.

"We're professionals," Col. Stengel put it.

• — • — •

The Air Force retains its "college try" but has divorced itself from its collegiate manner. Many of the B-17's which flew out of this base in the air war against Germany were, by comparison to the B-50, little more than cross-bows.

One of the '50's four Pratt and Whitney engines develops as much power as all four engines of the '17. As an electric power plant, a '50 could light a good-sized American city. Its crew — headed by officers of the rank of major and lieutenant colonel — are past masters in the intricacies of radar, bomb-sights, pressurization, remote control of guns, and the like. Above all, they have been schooled in the handling and use of the most sensitive and combustible weapon in history — the A-bomb.

A B-50, without its bomb and its intensively-trained crew, represents a price tag of about $750,000. Hence the 2-hour pre-flight test before one takes off on a practice mission. Hence the intensive training, the complete intolerance of mistakes on the part of a commander of one of the craft, the sobriety of the men of SAC.

"It's a different world," Capt. Tony Alligood, of Tampa, Fla., who flew '17's for the Eighth Air Force in 1944, mused in the ready room at Bassingbourn. "A fellow doesn't want to go to London any more."

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

Washington, D. C. — July 15 — At a conference here, I took some notes on what employers from all over the country gave as reasons why many business girls fail to get ahead. The three primary ones have nothing to do with ability; they are matters of conduct and personality over which every girl has full control.

If you fail on your job because of one of these three errors, the chances are that you will never be told about it. You just won't get the promotion, you'll be demoted, or your connection with the company will be severed and some impersonal reason will be given.

Serious Charges

To see whether you are out of line for success, see whether you are in line on any one of these criticisms with which working girls were charged:

1. Being more interested in their social lives than in their jobs. As one man put it, "It beats me how any work gets done with all the yakity-yak that goes on."

2. Dressing inappropriately and in ways that lower the tone of a place of business. The young crowd togs out as though going to a picnic. Older girls err by looking like movie sirens or else they are just tacky.

3. Lack of poise in dealing with colleagues and the company's callers. The "go away, you bother me" technique or the "imperious lady" approach have no place in business.

Business Girl's Code

After an honest examination of your own ways, you may very well be able to pronounce yourself guiltless of such uncharming behavior. But if you look around you, you can easily see many who, unless they quickly change their ways, are earmarked for failure.

Strict attention to the job in business hours; crisp, basic clothes for office wear; a receptive, co-operative and gracious manner at all times are the touchstones of success. Never swerve from them, if you want to make your mark!

The Old Second Guesser

By JOHN N. WHEELER

Shining Up A Show For Broadway

It was a big opening night. Two lines form a lane from the curb to the theater entrance, the crowd held back by police, while late kibitzers bulge out in the gutter, making a fringe along the street. They are seeking celebrities and hope some of the glamor may rub off. The Duke and Duchess of Windsor dismount from their limousine chariot, and walk to the door, as he fishes in his p[illegible]et for the tickets like any other husband. He throws away the butt of a cigar he's been smoking. An alert bobby soxer slips between the cops and grabs it.

"I got it," she shouts triumphantly, holding it up.

Then when it's over, the director, the producer, the backers and other interested parties sit up, sweating it out until they see the morning paper reviews. According to managers, the Times and News are the two most important to have on your side with favorable reports. Nowadays, it may cost $300,000 to put on a big musical, and that ain't hay. Usually a show has a group of stage-struck guys and dames who invest their money in it. Once the producer risked his own coin without backers, but then it didn't involve so much. Even at that time everybody concerned had first night jitters.

Requires Patience

The other day I sought out George Abbott, one of the most successful directors, to ascertain how and where he started to turn out a finished product for a Broadway opening. It seems to be a tedious process which requires a lot of patience. When the cast is tentatively selected, rehearsals get under way, and the rough edges are finally smoothed down, and the whole thing begins to take shape. Before exposing it to a Broadway audience, there is a tryout on the road.

"What town do you like best for this?" I asked him.

"New Haven," he replied. "It has the finest theater, which is well run, and the best audiences."

"How about the Yale boys—don't they roughhouse a show sometimes?"

Like Father, Like Son

"No, they are in the minority, and we've never had any trouble with them. Once in a while a few will get drunk and come around in the alley to try to pick up some of the girls. Maybe they start a fight with a couple of stagehands who protect the performers. But their fathers are likely to do the same thing later when we reach New York."

"Do you throw out actors and actresses as you put a show under the out-of-town microscope?"

"I don't, but others do. I have made up my mind during rehearsals about the performers. Russell Nype, who had only played small parts before, is a great hit in 'Call Me Madam.' When we were on the road, some of my associates didn't like him. I stuck to him."

"Can you pretty well tell after you've opened in a town like New Haven whether it will do?"

"Usually, although often you decide there is something wrong, and then you have to fish around until you find out what it is and correct it. Before we brought 'A Tree Grows In Brooklyn' into New York, we threw out the biggest and most expensive set, which cost $15,000. When we put the production together we thought it was necessary, but it wasn't, so it went into the ash can."

Move To Big Towns

After New Haven, the troupe usually moves on to Boston and Philadelphia.

"After we get into New York, we keep on working. Only the other day, I went to 'Call Me Madam' and made notes. Then I called the cast together and rehearsed them for two hours. An actor or actress soon finds out where he is going to get the laughs, and he builds up to these so he does not play the character smoothly. That hurts the show. Russell Nype got to burlesquing his part without knowing it until I showed him.

"'Do I really walk like that?" he asked. He tries hard and has not been spoiled by success and because he has become the darling of Society including the Windsors. On the opening night he went into Sardi's restaurant after the performance, and everybody stood and applauded. Instead of swelling up, he said,

"'Thanks. Now I've certainly got to work hard.'

"Yes, we have skull practice in show business to keep the cast on its toes just like they do in baseball and football."

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

BASSINGBOURN, Eng., July 15 (INS) — This was a good gutty U. S. Army Eighth Air Force field in World War II. Its young men, or at least those who survived their tour of duty, were mainly gay guys, lived life to the full, were less "military" than any other branch of the service, wore "raunchy" caps and sometimes silk scarves and, between missions, were in the oat-sowing business in London.

Today this massive field, shared by the U. S. Air Force and the R. A. F., is one of half a dozen bases in Britain from which A-bombs could be flown if necessary.

One notices an almost eerie difference between the Bassingbourn of, say 1943, and the Bassingbourn of today. The world of aviation has changed intensely in that short stretch. So have the men concerned. So has the weapon at hand.

A single Eniwetok-type A-bomb, dropped on a target, could produce more destruction than many months of missions of the sort I saw start from this base eight years ago. We considered the B-17 of 1943, with its two ton load of 500-pound high explosive bombs, an overpowering war machine.

If war with Russia broke out today, a single B-50, carrying a single bomb which apparently weighs less than the load the old B-17 carried would be airborne with rapidity fit to make the head swim.

From Bassingbourn, if all went well, it could reach Moscow in about three hours. The bomb it would drop would be the equivalent of 50,000 tons of TNT, if it is true, as reported by the AEC, that the new A-bomb is "several" times more powerful than the Hiroshima bomb, which had the potential of 20,000 tons of TNT.

A lone B-17 once based at Bassingbourn in a more primitive age of aerial warfare could drop two tons on a target. In other words, that hypothetical B-17 would have had to make about 25,000 trips to Moscow (if it could have gotten there) to wreak as much damage as one of Lt. Gen. Curtis Lemay's '50's.

Not that the Air Force is thinking of A-bombing Moscow or any other city. But it is in a state of intense preparation, as if it were a fine fighter who, though he has no match actually scheduled, keeps in fighting shape.

Under the command of a brilliant young World War II vet, Lt. Col. "Casey" Stengel, the Bassingbourn branch of our Air Force overseas reflects, as do the other bases, the tremendous esprit de corps of the Strategic Air Command. The men sense quietly that they are the free world's first line of defense, and are ready to be the first to be called upon in the event of a great war.

"We're professionals," Col. Stengel put it.

The Air Force retains its "college try" but has divorced itself from its collegiate manner. Many of the B-17's which flew out of this base in the air war against Germany were, by comparison to the B-50, little more than cross-bows.

One of the '50's four Pratt and Whitney engines develops as much power as all four engines of the '17. As an electric power plant, a '50 could light a good-sized American city. Its crew — headed by officers of the rank of major and lieutenant colonel — are past masters in the intricacies of radar, bomb-sights, pressurization, remote control of guns, and the like. Above all, they have been schooled in the handling and use of the most sensitive and combustible weapon in history — the A-bomb.

A B-50, without its bomb and its intensively-trained crew, represents a price tag of about $750,000. Hence the 2-hour pre-flight test before one takes off on a practice mission. Hence the intensive training, the complete intolerance of mistakes on the part of a commander of one of the craft, the sobriety of the men of SAC.

"It's a different world," Capt. Tony Alligood, of Tampa, Fla., who flew '17's for the Eighth Air Force in 1944, mused in the ready room at Bassingbourn. "A fellow doesn't want to go to London any more."

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

Washington, D. C. — July 15 — At a conference here, I took some notes on what employers from all over the country gave as reasons why many business girls fail to get ahead. The three primary ones have nothing to do with ability; they are matters of conduct and personality over which every girl has full control.

If you fail on your job because of one of these three errors, the chances are that you will never be told about it. You just won't get the promotion, you'll be demoted, or your connection with the company will be severed and some impersonal reason will be given.

Serious Charges

To see whether you are out of line for success, see whether you are in line on any one of these criticisms with which working girls were charged:

1. Being more interested in their social lives than in their jobs. As one man put it, "It beats me how any work gets done with all the yakity-yak that goes on."

2. Dressing inappropriately and in ways that lower the tone of a place of business. The young crowd togs out as though going to a picnic. Older girls err by looking like movie sirens or else they are just tacky.

3. Lack of poise in dealing with colleagues and the company's callers. The "go away, you bother me" technique or the "imperious lady" approach have no place in business.

Business Girl's Code

After an honest examination of your own ways, you may very well be able to pronounce yourself guiltless of such uncharming behavior. But if you look around you, you can easily see many who, unless they quickly change their ways, are earmarked for failure.

Strict attention to the job in business hours; crisp, basic clothes for office wear; a receptive, co-operative and gracious manner at all times are the touchstones of success. Never swerve from them, if you want to make your mark!

Tomorrow: Which type of walk have you?

P. S. from J. R. P.

YOUR STEPS TO A SUCCESSFUL CAREER

A worthwhile investment in charm for every girl starting a business career — every girl or woman now in business who is eager to reach top-flight success. It tells you how to make that important "good impression" to get your job . . . reveals secrets on how to hold your job. See how easy it is to choose a suitable wardrobe. Save time — uncertainty — needless worry through these short cut steps in charm that lead to your success. The Old Second Guesser

By JOHN N. WHEELER

Shining Up A Show For Broadway

It was a big opening night. Two lines form a lane from the curb to the theater entrance, the crowd held back by police, while late kibitzers bulge out in the gutter, making a fringe along the street. They are seeking celebrities and hope some of the glamor may rub off. The Duke and Duchess of Windsor dismount from their limousine chariot, and walk to the door, as he fishes in his p et for the tickets like any other husband. He throws away the butt of a cigar he's been smoking. An alert bobby soxer slips between the cops and grabs it.

"I got it," she shouts triumphantly, holding it up.

Then when it's over, the director, the producer, the backers and other interested parties sit up, sweating it out until they see the morning paper reviews. According to managers, the Times and News are the two most important to have on your side with favorable reports. Nowadays, it may cost $300,000 to put on a big musical, and that ain't hay. Usually a show has a group of stage-struck guys and dames who invest their money in it. Once the producer risked his own coin without backers, but then it didn't involve so much. Even at that time everybody concerned had first night jitters.

Requires Patience

The other day I sought out George Abbott, one of the most successful directors, to ascertain how and where he started to turn out a finished product for a Broadway opening. It seems to be a tedious process which requires a lot of patience. When the cast is tentatively selected, rehearsals get under way, and the rough edges are finally smoothed down, and the whole thing begins to take shape. Before exposing it to a Broadway audience, there is a tryout on the road.

"What town do you like best for this?" I asked him.

"New Haven," he replied. "It has the finest theater, which is well run, and the best audiences."

Like Father, Like Son

"No, they are in the minority, and we've never had any trouble with them. Once in a while a few will get drunk and come around in the alley to try to pick up some of the girls. Maybe they start a fight with a couple of stagehands who protect the performers. But their fathers are likely to do the same thing later when we reach New York."

"Do you throw out actors and actresses as you put a show under the out-of-town microscope?"

"I don't, but others do. I have made up my mind during rehearsals about the performers. Russell Nype, who had only played small parts before, is a great hit in 'Call Me Madam.' When we were on the road, some of my associates didn't like him. I stuck to him."

"Can you pretty well tell after you've opened in a town like New Haven whether it will do?"

"Usually, although often you decide there is something wrong, and then you have to fish around until you find out what it is and correct it. Before we brought 'A Tree Grows In Brooklyn' into New York, we threw out the biggest and most expensive set, which cost $15,000. When we put the production together we thought it was necessary, but it wasn't, so it went into the ash can."

Move To Big Towns

After New Haven, the troupe usually moves on to Boston and Philadelphia.

"After we get into New York, we keep on working. Only the other day, I went to 'Call Me Madam' and made notes. Then I called the cast together and rehearsed them for two hours. An actor or actress soon finds out where he is going to get the laughs, and he builds up to these so he does not play the character smoothly. That hurts the show. Russell Nype got to burlesquing his part without knowing it until I showed him.

"'Do I really walk like that?" he asked. He tries hard and has not been spoiled by success and because he has become the darling of Society including the Windsors. On the opening night he went into Sardi's restaurant after the performance, and everybody stood and applauded. Instead of swelling up, he said,

"'Thanks. Now I've certainly got to work hard.'

"Yes, we have skull practice in show business to keep the cast on its toes just like they do in baseball and football."

Athletics Cop Double Header From Chicago

Hooper And Zoldak Triumph, 3-1, 5-0

CHICAGO, July 15 (AP) — Sam Zoldak pitched a one hitter, facing only 28 batters, as the Philadelphia Athletics dumped the Chicago White Sox, 5-0, after pitcher Bob Hooper blasted a three run, ninth inning homer to beat the Pale Hose, 3-1, in the opener of a twin bill today.

Only hit against Zoldak was a third inning clean single to left field by Shortstop Chico Carrasquel.

The Pale Hose, who kept tottering in second place despite the double defeat, propelled only eight balls to the outfield against Zoldak, including Carrasquel's single.

Hooper, continuing his amazing mastery over the Sox, blasted his game winning circuit clout in the opener with two out and the count against him 3-2. Box:

Dodgers Lose Pair To Reds

Blackwell, Ramsdell Notch 5-2, 6-5 Wins

BROOKLYN, July 15 (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds took both ends of a doubleheader from the league-leading Brooklyn Dodgers today, 5-2 and 6-5, to extend Brooklyn's losing streak to four games. Ewell Blackwell socked his first major league homer and went all the way to win the opener. The Reds scored five runs in the seventh to take the nightcap.

The Dodgers, beaten twice by Chicago Saturday, now lead the runner-up St. Louis Cardinals by eight games. The Cards split with Philadelphia today.

Johnny Schmitz made his fourth start for Brooklyn in the second game and blew a 3-1 lead when the Reds erupted for five runs in the seventh.

Willie Ramsdell started and received credit for the victory. Box:

South Wins Over North, 12-1, In Interstate All-Star Tilt

Victors Collect 18 Hits; Gaffney Paces Attack; 600 See Game

Manager Ellis "Pat" Patterson's South tossers collected 18 hits and trounced the North team headed by Frank Hite in the Inter-state Baseball League's annual all-star game yesterday at Moorefield. The score was 12-1.

Thirty-two of the 41 players nominated for the contest participated in the game in which the North team comprising players of Hyndman VFW, Centerville and the Cumberland Black Sox were blanked until the ninth inning when a hit batsmen, two fielder's choices and Homer Rose's single averted a shutout.

12 Of 16 Hit Safely

Twelve of the 16 players in the South's lineup obtained one or more hits. Jim Gaffney of the Cumberland Moose sparked the winners with two doubles and a single in four trips and Dane McGee, of Romney; "Huck" Seymour and Bill Harman, Moorefield, and Mickey Clark of the Moose, rapped two safeties each.

Seymour hit for the circuit in the sixth inning and excelled at third base for the winners by handling seven chances without a slipup. Bob Bryant, second baseman, and Veryl Nave, centerfielder, starred afield for the North.

Trio Yields Four Blows

Homer Rose obtained two of the four blows yielded by the South's pitching trio of "Pete" Elliott, Norman Geatz and Paul Raines.

Glenn Deremer, first of five North pitchers, was the loser while "Pete" Elliott was the winner.

Approximately 600 persons witnessed the contest. Box:

Garver Beats Red Sox, 3-1

Boston Gets Split, Takes Second, 9-5

ST. LOUIS, July 15 (AP) — Billy Goodman sparked the Boston Red Sox to a 9-5 decision over the St. Louis Browns today in the second game of a doubleheader after the Red Sox bowed to Ned Garver and the Browns 3-1 in the opener. Goodman hit a double and three singles for four trips in the nightcap.

The doubleheader drew 10,790, largest Browns home crowd of the season.

The split enabled the league-leading Red Sox to pick up ground over the second-place Cricago White Sox, who dropped a doubleheader to Philadelphia.

The Bosox knocked out starter Bill Kennedy and scored six runs on seven straight hits in a big second inning in the second game. These included six singles and a double by Lou Boudreau.

Garver pitched a five-hitter in the opener for his 12th victory against four losses. It was Garver's third straight triumph and the lone Boston run was only the third scored off him in his last 27 innings of work. Box:

Furgol Is Victor In Western Open

Marty Posts 270, Edges Middlecoff

DAVENPORT, Ia., July 15 (AP)—Marty Furgol, a 34-year-old World War II navy veteran, won the Western Open Golf Tournament today with an exciting 65 finish for a 270 total for 72 holes.

Furgol dropped a 3½ foot putt for a birdie 3 on the 18th green to edge Cary Middlecoff, the former Memphis dentist, by a single stroke.

Sam Snead, seeking his third straight western title, blew his chances when he blasted his 16th hole tee shot into a creek and carded a 6, two over par. Sam finished with a 71 and a 273 total, good for third place.

George Fazio, Pine Valley, N. J., professional deadlocked with Snead at the start of the final 18 holes, faded to a 73 and a 275 figure in seventh position.

Lloyd Mangrum, Niles, Ill., Johnny Palmer, Badin, N. C., and Jim Ferrier, winner of the Canadian Open last week, tied for fourth at 274.

Mangrum, only a shot away from the lead at the 54-hole mark, carded a 71 fourth round.

Ferrier moved up fast with a five-under-par 65, matching Furgol's finish for the lowest round of the day.

Furgol, professional at the Cog-Hill Club, Lemont, Ill., picked up $2,250 for his winning performance. It was his second major tournament conquest this season. He was the top hand in the Houston, Tex., open.

Tigers, Yanks Split

DETROIT, July 15 (AP)—Allie (No-Hit) Reynolds strode in as a relief pitcher in the ninth inning to halt a Detroit rally and give the New York Yankees an 8-7 win in the second game of a doubleheader today. The Tigers won the first game 5-3 on brawny Vic Wertz's two-run triple.

Detroit pinchhitter Charley Keller's three-run homer with one out in the ninth drove starter Tom Morgan, the winner, to the showers and brought in Reynolds.

Reynolds, who pitched a no-hitter last week, gave up a single and a walk but retired the side as 45,919 fans moaned.

The Yankees' double-header jinx — they haven't swept both games this year—was maintained when Freddie Hutchinson hurled his eighth win in the opener. Box:

EQUALS BROTHER'S FEAT — Ricardo Mellon, 12, (above) of McCoole, won the fourth annual Cumberland Soap Box Derby Saturday on Pennsylvania Avenue, defeating Bobby Gero, Cumberland in the finals, before a turnout estimated at 5,000 persons. Ricardo thus equalled the performance of his brother, Ernesto Mellon, winner of the Derby here in 1950. Mellon made the best time of the day, 29½ seconds in defeating Gero. The champion was sponsored by Grayson's Sporting Goods Store, Keyser. Gero's sponsor was Reynolds' Cigar Store. Through his victory, Mellon earned the right to go to Akron, Ohio, on a 4-day trip as representative of this city in the All-American event August 12. Mellon is shown above with the Chevrolet plaque, which was presented to him by Frederic W. Eiler of Eiler Chevrolet which sponsored the event along with the Cumberland Times-News, Junior Association of Commerce, and South End Business Men's Association.

Athletics Cop Double Header From Chicago

Hooper And Zoldak Triumph, 3-1, 5-0

CHICAGO, July 15 (AP) — Sam Zoldak pitched a one hitter, facing only 28 batters, as the Philadelphia Athletics dumped the Chicago White Sox, 5-0, after pitcher Bob Hooper blasted a three run, ninth inning homer to beat the Pale Hose, 3-1, in the opener of a twin bill today.

Only hit against Zoldak was a third inning clean single to left field by Shortstop Chico Carrasquel.

The Pale Hose, who kept tottering in second place despite the double defeat, propelled only eight balls to the outfield against Zoldak, including Carrasquel's single.

Hooper, continuing his amazing mastery over the Sox, blasted his game winning circuit clout in the opener with two out and the count against him 3-2. Box:

Manager Ellis "Pat" Patterson's South tossers collected 18 hits and trounced the North team headed by Frank Hite in the Inter-state Baseball League's annual all-star game yesterday at Moorefield. The score was 12-1.

Thirty-two of the 41 players nominated for the contest participated in the game in which the North team comprising players of Hyndman VFW, Centerville and the Cumberland Black Sox were blanked until the ninth inning when a hit batsmen, two fielder's choices and Homer Rose's single averted a shutout.

12 Of 16 Hit Safely

Twelve of the 16 players in the South's lineup obtained one or more hits. Jim Gaffney of the Cumberland Moose sparked the winners with two doubles and a single in four trips and Dane McGee, of Romney; "Huck" Seymour and Bill Harman, Moorefield, and Mickey Clark of the Moose, rapped two safeties each.

Seymour hit for the circuit in the sixth inning and excelled at third base for the winners by handling seven chances without a slipup. Bob Bryant, second baseman, and Veryl Nave, centerfielder, starred afield for the North.

Trio Yields Four Blows

Homer Rose obtained two of the four blows yielded by the South's pitching trio of "Pete" Elliott, Norman Geatz and Paul Raines.

Glenn Deremer, first of five North pitchers, was the loser while "Pete" Elliott was the winner.

Approximately 600 persons witnessed the contest. Box:

Garver Beats Red Sox, 3-1

Boston Gets Split, Takes Second, 9-5

ST. LOUIS, July 15 (AP) — Billy Goodman sparked the Boston Red Sox to a 9-5 decision over the St. Louis Browns today in the second game of a doubleheader after the Red Sox bowed to Ned Garver and the Browns 3-1 in the opener. Goodman hit a double and three singles for four trips in the nightcap.

The doubleheader drew 10,790, largest Browns home crowd of the season.

The split enabled the league-leading Red Sox to pick up ground over the second-place Cricago White Sox, who dropped a doubleheader to Philadelphia.

The Bosox knocked out starter Bill Kennedy and scored six runs on seven straight hits in a big second inning in the second game. These included six singles and a double by Lou Boudreau.

Garver pitched a five-hitter in the opener for his 12th victory against four losses. It was Garver's third straight triumph and the lone Boston run was only the third scored off him in his last 27 innings of work. Box:

Furgol Is Victor In Western Open

Marty Posts 270, Edges Middlecoff

DAVENPORT, Ia., July 15 (AP)—Marty Furgol, a 34-year-old World War II navy veteran, won the Western Open Golf Tournament today with an exciting 65 finish for a 270 total for 72 holes.

Furgol dropped a 3½ foot putt for a birdie 3 on the 18th green to edge Cary Middlecoff, the former Memphis dentist, by a single stroke.

Sam Snead, seeking his third straight western title, blew his chances when he blasted his 16th hole tee shot into a creek and carded a 6, two over par. Sam finished with a 71 and a 273 total, good for third place.

George Fazio, Pine Valley, N. J., professional deadlocked with Snead at the start of the final 18 holes, faded to a 73 and a 275 figure in seventh position.

Lloyd Mangrum, Niles, Ill., Johnny Palmer, Badin, N. C., and Jim Ferrier, winner of the Canadian Open last week, tied for fourth at 274.

Mangrum, only a shot away from the lead at the 54-hole mark, carded a 71 fourth round.

Ferrier moved up fast with a five-under-par 65, matching Furgol's finish for the lowest round of the day.

Furgol, professional at the Cog-Hill Club, Lemont, Ill., picked up $2,250 for his winning performance. It was his second major tournament conquest this season. He was the top hand in the Houston, Tex., open.

Tigers, Yanks Split

DETROIT, July 15 (AP)—Allie (No-Hit) Reynolds strode in as a relief pitcher in the ninth inning to halt a Detroit rally and give the New York Yankees an 8-7 win in the second game of a doubleheader today. The Tigers won the first game 5-3 on brawny Vic Wertz's two-run triple.

Detroit pinchhitter Charley Keller's three-run homer with one out in the ninth drove starter Tom Morgan, the winner, to the showers and brought in Reynolds.

Reynolds, who pitched a no-hitter last week, gave up a single and a walk but retired the side as 45,919 fans moaned.

The Yankees' double-header jinx — they haven't swept both games this year—was maintained when Freddie Hutchinson hurled his eighth win in the opener. Box:

The booster doubleheader was played at Penn Avenue Field to raise funds to send members of the four teams to Pittsburgh to see a major league game.

No particulars were reported on the Rotary-Optimists game.

The Lions moved into first place with a 9-2 record. The Optimists are second with 9-3 and B'nai B'rith is third with 9-5.

Trabert Tops Larsen

CHICAGO, July 15 (AP)—Cincinnati's Tony Trabert upset favored Art Larsen today in the finals of the National Clay Court Tennis Championships, smashing through to a 6-8, 2-6, 6-4, 6-3, 8-6 victory.

Trabert, intercollegiate champion who was third-seeded in the meet, reached a peak in the aggressive play that had marked him the most improved player of the week-long tournment.

Charles And Walcott Windup Heavy Drills

PITTSBURGH, July 15 (AP) — Heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles and challenger Jersey Joe Walcott predicted knockouts today as they wound up heavy drills for the 15 round title fight Wednesday night (9 p. m. EST) at Forbes Field.

Charles, who makes his ninth defense, worked out secretly at the high school gym in Ligonier, Pa. He'll finish training tomorrow.

The 37-year-old Walcott, who gets his fifth crack at the title and his third against Charles, attended church services and then boxed 10 fast rounds with three sparring partners at the nearby McKeesport training camp before 4,000 fans.

Promoters estimate a crowd of 20,000 with a gross of $300,000, including television and radio rights. Dumont will carry the TV portion and CBS the radio account. The telecast will be blacked out within a 100 mile radius of Pittsburgh.

In Memoriam

Sadly missed by husband and children: Susie A. O'Neal who died July 16th, 1946, five years ago today.

On the Resurrection Morning soul and body meet again, no more sorrow, Or weeping, no more pain.
Here a while we must be parted and the flesh it's Sabbath keeps
Waiting in a holy stillness wrapped in sleep, for a space the tired body waits in place the morning dawn . . .
When there breaks the last and brightest Easter Morn,
On that happy Easter Morn all the graves their dead restore, father, mother, sister, brother meet once more; soul and body reunited.

In Memoriam

Sadly missed by husband and children: Susie A. O'Neal who died July 16th, 1946, five years ago today.

On the Resurrection Morning soul and body meet again, no more sorrow,
Or weeping, no more pain.
Here a while we must be parted and the flesh it's Sabbath keeps
Waiting in a holy stillness wrapped in sleep, for a space the tired body waits in place the morning dawn. . .
When there breaks the last and brightest Easter Morn.
On that happy Easter Morn all the graves their dead restore, father, mother, sister, brother meet once more; soul and body reunited.

In Memoriam

Sadly missed by husband and children: Susie A. O'Neal who died July 16th, 1946, five years ago today.

On the Resurrection Morning soul and body meet again, no more sorrow, Or weeping, no more pain.
Here a while we must be parted and the flesh it's Sabbath keeps
Waiting in a holy stillness wrapped in sleep, for a space the tired body waits in place the morning dawn. . .
When there breaks the last and brightest Easter Morn.
On that happy Easter Morn all the graves their dead restore, father, mother, sister, brother meet once more; soul and body reunited.

In Memoriam

Sadly missed by husband and children: Susie A. O'Neal who died July 16th, 1946, five years ago today.

On the Resurrection Morning soul and body meet again, no more sorrow, Or weeping, no more pain.
Here a while we must be parted and the flesh it's Sabbath keeps
Waiting in a holy stillness wrapped in sleep, for a space the tired body waits in place the morning dawn . . .
When there breaks the last and brightest Easter Morn.
On that happy Easter Morn all the graves their dead restore, father, mother, sister, brother meet once more; soul and body reunited.

Chandler Bows Out

READING, Pa., July 15 (AP) — A. B. "Happy" Chandler ended his six year tenure as commissioner of baseball today by singing "My Old Kentucky Home" to 3,000 persons.

The unaccompanied vocal rendition came at the end of a speech dedicating Reading's $650,000 Municipal Memorial Stadium.

Happy told the crowd he is going to look for a new job but first: "I'm going fishing in Kentucky."

Cubs, Braves Draw

BOSTON, July 15 (AP)—After being blanked, 7-0, by Lefty Warren Spahn in the opener, the Chicago Cubs rebounded for a 10-4 victory today to divide a doubleheader with the Boston Braves. Sam Jethroe and Willard Marshall homered for the Braves in the first game and Hank Sauer clouted his fifth four-bagger in the last six games for the Cubs in the night cap. Box:

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Charles E. Krapf and William F. Krapf vs. Clyde F. Adams, Frank H. Krapf, Florence Adams Whitefield, Roy E. Adams, Philip D. Adams, Nonda Adams Rockwell, Anna Adams Arthurs, and Melvin Deal. No. 22,178 Equity, in the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a Decree of Court declaring null and void a deed from Charles E. Krapf and William F. Krapf to Charles Krapf, late of Allegany County, deceased, dated December 18, 1934 and recorded in Liber 171, folio 103 of the Land Records of Allegany County, Maryland, and for an accounting of rents and profits from the property covered thereby, and further relief.

The Bill states that Mary J. Krapf died intestate on November 14, 1933, owning property at 243-245 Virginia Avenue, in Cumberland; that her husband, Charles Krapf and her grandsons, Charles E. Krapf and William F. Krapf, each inherited a ⅓ interest in said property; that on December 18, 1934 Charles Krapf prevailed upon said plaintiffs to convey to him their interest therein for the unfair sum of $1000.00 each, said property being of considerable more value, and that plaintiffs were mere youths of no business experience, and resided with Charles Krapf and relied upon his counsel and reposed trust and confidence in him so that he could, and did, influence their wills, and he lead them to believe that said property would return to them at his death, but that upon the death of said Charles Krapf on September 8, 1950 he willed said property to defendants Clyde F. Adams, Florence Adams Whitefield, Roy E. Adams, Philip D. Adams, Nonda Adams Rockwell, Anna Adams Arthurs, and Melvin Deal, all non-residents of the State of Maryland; and that plaintiffs expended work and money on said property, but never received any rents and profits therefrom.

IT IS THEREUPON this 30th day of June, 1951, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, in Equity, ordered that the plaintiffs by causing a copy of this order to be published in some newspaper, once in each of four successive weeks before the 2nd day of August, 1951, give notice to the said absent defendants of the object and purpose of this suit, and warn them to be and appear in this Court in person or by solicitor, on or before the 20th day of August, 1951, to show cause, if any they have, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

Westvaco's Papermakers took over the runner-up spot in the Bi-State Baseball League, one-full game back of the Frostburg Demons, by handing the Cumberland Merchants their 15th consecutive setback yesterday at Memorial Park, Westernport. The score was 7-4.

"Woody" Woodson, Westvaco righthander, weathered a stormy first inning when he yielded four runs but the home team fought an uphill battle, tied it up at 4-4 in the 6th and rallied for three in the 8th to put the game on ice.

Vance Shears hit a three-run homer and Cooper and Shimmenger doubled for the Merchants' four runs in the first inning. Bob Muir homered with Woodson aboard to give Westvaco two runs in the third. Woodson and Muir then drove in two tallies in the 6th. In the 8th, Woodson scored what proved to be the winning marker on a wild pitch, Mosser squeezed over another on a sacrifice bunt and Inskeep doubled in the 7th and final marker.

Muir collected four hits in five trips. Inskeep had a double and single and Leo Ryan rapped two singles for Westvaco. Kirk, Cooper and Cage had two blows each for Cumberland.

'Coney Tops Demons

Bill Duffy, Lonaconing pitcher, yielded 13 hits but the Frostburg Demons were unable to solve his slants in the pinches and they went down to defeat at Lonaconing to the tune of 8-1.

Twenty-two men were left on the bases in this game in which thirty hits were recorded. 'Coney got 17 hits and had 10 runners stranded. Frostburg garnered 13 hits and had 12 perish on the paths.

Five of Lonaconing's runs came on homers. Lou Fisher of Smock, Pa., hit for the circuit with Powers aboard, Bill Duffy, also of Smock banged one with Billy Smith on base and Watson connected with the bases empty.

Fisher had a homer, double and single, George Marble two doubles and two singles and Tommy Powers three singles for the winners. Frank Urbas smacked two doubles and a single and Ted Durbin rapped three singles to pace the league leaders at the plate. Bob Duffy and Watson, 'Coney's keystone combination, featured afield.

Rain washed out the Keyser Firemen at Hyndman Firemen contest. The scores:

Chandler Bows Out

READING, Pa., July 15 (AP) — A. B. "Happy" Chandler ended his six year tenure as commissioner of baseball today by singing "My Old Kentucky Home" to 3,000 persons.

The unaccompanied vocal rendition came at the end of a speech dedicating Reading's $650,000 Municipal Memorial Stadium.

Happy told the crowd he is going to look for a new job but first: "I'm going fishing in Kentucky."

Cubs, Braves Draw

BOSTON, July 15 (AP)—After being blanked, 7-0, by Lefty Warren Spahn in the opener, the Chicago Cubs rebounded for a 10-4 victory today to divide a doubleheader with the Boston Braves. Sam Jethroe and Willard Marshall homered for the Braves in the first game and Hank Sauer clouted his fifth four-bagger in the last six games for the Cubs in the night cap. Box:

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is to obtain a divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII of the Plaintiff from the Defendant.

The bill states that the parties were married on March 15, 1942, in Cumberland, Maryland, and that two children were born of said marriage, namely, Eleanor Lee Elkins, age 8 and Richard Elkins, age 9; that the Defendant on May 1st, 1944, without just cause or reason deserted and abandoned the Plaintiff and has declared his intention to live with her no longer, and that such desertion and abandonment has been continuous and uninterrupted for more than eighteen (18) months and is deliberate and final and without any reasonable hope of reconciliation; that the Plaintiff is a resident of Allegany County, Maryland, and that the Defendant is a non-resident.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Charles E. Krapf and William F. Krapf vs. Clyde F. Adams, Frank H. Krapf, Florence Adams Whitefield, Roy E. Adams, Philip D. Adams, Nonda Adams Rockwell, Anna Adams Arthurs, and Melvin Deal. No. 22,178 Equity, in the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a Decree of Court declaring null and void a deed from Charles E. Krapf and William F. Krapf to Charles Krapf, late of Allegany County, deceased, dated December 18, 1934 and recorded in Liber 171, folio 103 of the Land Records of Allegany County, Maryland, and for an accounting of rents and profits from the property covered thereby, and further relief.

The Bill states that Mary J. Krapf died intestate on November 14, 1933, owning property at 243-245 Virginia Avenue, in Cumberland; that her husband, Charles Krapf and her grandsons, Charles E. Krapf and William F. Krapf, each inherited a ⅓ interest in said property; that on December 18, 1934 Charles Krapf prevailed upon said plaintiffs to convey to him their interest therein for the unfair sum of $1000.00 each, said property being of considerable more value, and that plaintiffs were mere youths of no business experience, and resided with Charles Krapf and relied upon his counsel and reposed trust and confidence in him so that he could, and did, influence their wills, and he lead them to believe that said property would return to them at his death, but that upon the death of said Charles Krapf on September 8, 1950 he willed said property to defendants Clyde F. Adams, Florence Adams Whitefield, Roy E. Adams, Philip D. Adams, Nonda Adams Rockwell, Anna Adams Arthurs, and Melvin Deal, all non-residents of the State of Maryland; and that plaintiffs expended work and money on said property, but never received any rents and profits therefrom.

IT IS THEREUPON this 30th day of June, 1951, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, in Equity, ordered that the plaintiffs by causing a copy of this order to be published in some newspaper, once in each of four successive weeks before the 2nd day of August, 1951, give notice to the said absent defendants of the object and purpose of this suit, and warn them to be and appear in this Court in person or by solicitor, on or before the 20th day of August, 1951, to show cause, if any they have, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

Westvaco's Papermakers took over the runner-up spot in the Bi-State Baseball League, one-full game back of the Frostburg Demons, by handing the Cumberland Merchants their 15th consecutive setback yesterday at Memorial Park, Westernport. The score was 7-4.

"Woody" Woodson, Westvaco righthander, weathered a stormy first inning when he yielded four runs but the home team fought an uphill battle, tied it up at 4-4 in the 6th and rallied for three in the 8th to put the game on ice.

Vance Shears hit a three-run homer and Cooper and Shimmenger doubled for the Merchants' four runs in the first inning. Bob Muir homered with Woodson aboard to give Westvaco two runs in the third. Woodson and Muir then drove in two tallies in the 6th. In the 8th, Woodson scored what proved to be the winning marker on a wild pitch, Mosser squeezed over another on a sacrifice bunt and Inskeep doubled in the 7th and final marker.

Muir collected four hits in five trips, Inskeep had a double and single and Leo Ryan rapped two singles for Westvaco. Kirk, Cooper and Cage had two blows each for Cumberland.

'Coney Tops Demons

Bill Duffy, Lonaconing pitcher, yielded 13 hits but the Frostburg Demons were unable to solve his slants in the pinches and they went down to defeat at Lonaconing to the tune of 8-1.

Twenty-two men were left on the bases in this game in which thirty hits were recorded. 'Coney got 17 hits and had 10 runners stranded. Frostburg garnered 13 hits and had 12 perish on the paths.

Five of Lonaconing's runs came on homers. Lou Fisher of Smock, Pa., hit for the circuit with Powers aboard, Bill Duffy, also of Smock banged one with Billy Smith on base and Watson connected with the bases empty.

Fisher had a homer, double and single, George Marble two doubles and two singles and Tommy Powers three singles for the winners. Frank Urbas smacked two doubles and a single and Ted Durbin rapped three singles to pace the league leaders at the plate. Bob Duffy and Watson, 'Coney's keystone combination, featured afield.

Rain washed out the Keyser Firemen at Hyndman Firemen contest. The scores:

Bob Staley registered his 10th consecutive victory of the season as Terra Alta downed Kitzmiller, 3 to 0. Only seven hits were made by the teams. Fraley struck out eight for the Preston Countians who are unbeaten in 11 starts this season.

Swanton took Aurora into camp by the score of 7-5. The longest hit of this game was a triple by Jack Miller of the Dodgers.

Ralph Zook, Martinsburg, Pa., pitched Friendsville to a 2-0 decision over Accident. He fanned a dozen batsmen. Ray Hoover, also of Martinsburg, batted in both runs in the 8th inning. Butler got four of Accident's six hits and Joe Blumbaugh banged a pair of two-baggers for Friendsville. Dale Glass turned in several nice catches in centerfield for the winners.

Wellersburg pulled within a half game of second place in the Pen-Mar Baseball League by defeating Eckhart yesterday at Wellersburg by the score of 8-6.

Johnny Horworth went the route for the Pennsylvanians, pitched shutout ball until the 7th inning, fanned nine and registered his 7th win against a single loss. Valentine, Weimer and Starkey of Wellersburg and Brodie and Felker of Eckhart had two hits each.

Ralph Dickel pitched Mt. Savage to a 10-1 win over the Colts at Klondyke. Deffenbaugh and Cunningham rapped three hits each for the winners while Loar and McMullen had two apiece for the Dobbins. Dickel now has a 5-0 record.

With Danny Cullen in rare form and the home team belting the pellet for 13 hits, Zihlman took Ellerslie into camp, 13 to 2. For the victors, Leo Brady had three hits, Tom Dunn banged two triples and Harold Hawkins had a triple and single and turned in several nice catches in left field. Beall Will Seek Federal Funds For Local Airport

City To Protest Line's Petition

Federal funds will be sought by Rep. J. Glenn Beall to make the Cumberland Municipal Airport more useful for commercial airline traffic.

Rep. Beall said he will contact the Civil Aeronautics Authority and other federal sources to learn whether money can be found to improve the local field.

He will join local authorities in protesting the petition of All American Airways, Inc., to drop its Cumberland flights from its Pittsburgh to Washington-Baltimore run.

Rep. Beall said he has always felt the traffic on All-American at Cumberland would have been greater, and more beneficial, if the schedule had been adapted to local needs.

To be most effective here, he said, the Washington bound plane would have to leave in the early morning, preferably between 8 and 9 a. m.

News that the line sought to eliminate Cumberland from its schedule brought sharp protests from Adolf Blunk, chairman of the Cumberland Airport Commission, who said the city will take steps to have the flights continued.

Blunk said the board will seek a conference with company officials to learn minimum needs for the continuation of local service.

He also asked W. Earle Cobey, city attorney, to file a formal complaint with the CAB against the temporary abandonment of service.

Cobey is slated to advise the Mayor and Council today of the anticipated action of the airline, including the request from the Airport Commission for a formal protest.

Geppert said she is believed involved in a robbery which took place in the Idle Hour Tavern recently. The case has to do with the taking of $500 in bills from the pocket of Percy Combs, 20 Spring Street, Keyser, W. Va.

Lloyd Long, Park Street, is also awaiting action of the October Grand Jury on a charge of larceny in the same case.

Housing Project To Get Underway In Near Future

Contractor Due In City Today

Construction of a public housing project in Mapleside is slated to get underway in the near future.

Officials of the O. H. Martin Company, Pittsburgh, have received orders to proceed with the work, and will be here today to make final plans for beginning the project.

James B. Raines, executive secretary of the Housing Authority of Cumberland, said a ground breaking ceremony will be held when actual construction begins.

Proceed orders, effective as of today, have been received from the Public Housing Administration for the beginning of the 125 units of low rent housing.

The contract won by the Martin firm calls for work to be completed within 300 calendar days from today.

The Pittsburgh firm submitted a low bid of $1,380,000 for the Mapleside housing development, which will include 17 buildings containing 125 dwelling units.

The cost of the project will amount to $1,780 a room. Bids received on other projects in cities of comparable size to Cumberland average about $2,000 a room.

The site of the project is located in the general area bordered by First Street, Memorial Avenue, Somerville Avenue and Second Street.

Plans For Bus Strike Abandoned

Officials of Local 1110, Bus Drivers Union (AFL), reported last night that plans for a strike today on the Cumberland Transit Lines have been called off.

They said the plans were dropped after the firm fulfilled a contract clause regarding a safe driving bonus.

The 55 workers met Saturday morning and voted not to work today if the contract clause was not fulfilled.

Visitors Begin To Arrive For Fairgo Meet

Races Will Start Tuesday Afternoon

Visitors were already thronging to this city yesterday for the 27th annual racing meet which will get under way at Fairgo tomorrow.

Post time Tuesday at 2:30 p. m. will not only mark the opening of the Fairgo meet but also the beginning of the half-mile track season in Maryland.

Track officials report all preparations for the opening have been completed.

City officials have been rushing temporary paving jobs on a number of streets in Cumberland so that traffic lanes will be able to handle the heavy traffic expected during the racing season.

The track regarded as one of the cleanest half-mile tracks in the state, has been placed in top condition by crews directed by Edgar Reynolds.

W. Riggs Mahoney will again be mutuels manager. His father, Mortimer M. Mahoney, Sr. was the first mutuels manager here.

Mahoney, who operates the mutuels at Monmouth track in New Jersey, the Revere dog racing track and the Detroit Racing Association, has as his assistant here William Fisher, of Laurel, veteran of east coast horse racing.

The key men of the mutuels to be here for the ten-day Fairgo race meet include many veterans of this track. Among them are J. Austin White, Charles "Chuck" Schlosser and Edmund Fladung, all of Baltimore; Robert Littleton, who will go from here to be mutuels manager at Hagerstown race meet; Robert Hancock, comptometer operator, and William Ennis, one of Mahoney's top men.

Early Showdown Slated In Phone Contract Talks

Company Explains Wage Proposals

An early showdown in the contract dispute between the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company and the CWA-CIO was predicted here last night by a union official.

Robert O. Slemmer, president of Local 2105, CWA-CIO, said the time has come for either a satisfactory settlement or more definite action by the membership.

Slemmer reported talks were still deadlocked.

The union, he said, has received strike authorization from the international union and Local 2105 has authorized a strike at any time by a better than 14-1 margin.

Principal demand of the union, he said, is a 10 per cent wage boost on all schedules, rounded off to the nearest 50 cents, plus several contract changes.

Won't Accept Less

Slemmer said the company offer has still not come up to settlements made in other Bell systems through the United States and the negotiating committee does not feel it could accept less than is being offered elsewhere.

Another stumbling block, he added, is that the company refuses to give a seniority clause equal to that granted by other C. and P. companies.

The union, he noted, recently gave up the issue of maintaining the present spread of wage-zone differentials in an effort to reach a settlement.

Explains Proposals

The company reported yesterday it saw no justification for a strike of plant employes in the Washington suburban area Friday since it came at a time when the union had before it a liberalized wage proposal.

W. Griffin Morrel, company vice president, said:

"Under this expanded offer, the general increases proposed for approximately 2,800 plant employes ranged from $3.00 to $10.00 per week. The offer provided for 70 per cent of all department employes to receive

Flood Work Closes Streets

Beginning today, city officials said, Frederick Street will be closed from North Centre Street to the alley beside the Stein Funeral Home. Traffic from George Street can by-pass through the alley by Stein's to Centre Street by way of Henry Street, however.

Water Street at Lehigh Street will be closed to traffic for the next two weeks, but local traffic may pass on each side of the intersection.

Greene Street is now open to two-way traffic, but Beall Street at Walnut Alley will be closed for the next ten days. Paca Street at Walnut Alley will be closed this morning until July 31. Paca Street will also be closed between South Smallwood and Johnson Streets until the high pressure water line can be tested.

Area Stressed As Rehabilitation Parley Starts

State Conference Held At College

The limelight was scheduled to be focused on Western Maryland this morning at the opening business session of the five-day Maryland Rehabilitation Conference and Workshop, being held for the second successive year at Frostburg State Teachers College.

Tops In State

Reason for special attention for this part of the state is that R. C. Thompson, director of the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation of the State Department of Education, will present a citation to the Western Maryland District, one of five within his division. The district embraces Allegany, Garrett, Washington and Frederick Counties.

The citation, the first annual award of its type, will be presented to the Western Maryland District for having the largest number of rehabilitations per counselor in the fiscal year which ended June 30.

Last night the conference got underway with an informal dinner in the college dining room. Thompson presided at this dinner, at which two officials of the college extended greetings to delegates.

Greetings came from Miss Lillian C. Compton, college president, and Dr. Ivan C. Diehl, college dean. Both expressed a hope that the conference will prove successful and offered full facilities of the college.

Delaney Chairman

J. Leo Delaney, dirctor of vocational rehabilitation for Allegany and Garrett Counties, is local chairman of arrangements for the conference.

One of the authorities at the week-long conference which ends Friday will be Edgar B. Porter of the Office of Vocational Rehabilitation in Washington, who is acting as a consultant for the sessions.

The vocational rehabilitation program, under the direction of the State Board of Education, is set up to enable the physically or mentally handicapped person to be trained so that they might be gainfully employed and become self-supporting. Assisting the state group are other state agencies such

K. Of C. Council Told To Abide By Principles

Dinner Concludes Golden Jubilee

A challenge to Cumberland Council No. 586, Knights of Columbus, to live up to the principles of the order as well as to the American principles as exemplified in the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution came last night at the dinner which climaxed the all-day golden jubilee observance of the local council.

Issues Challenge

The challenge came from William H. Collins, Washington, D. C., principal speaker last night at a dinner at the K. of C. Home in observance of the jubilee. A native of Massachusetts, but an attorney in Washington since 1919, Collins is past master of the Fourth Degree of the District of Columbia. In 1949 he was awarded the Vercelli Medal by the National Holy Name Society, which embraces the United States and Canada. He was the sixth man to win the coveted prize.

"The Ravages of Secularism" was the topic of Collins' speech. He lamented the growing tendency in this country to disclaim the principles of the Divine in daily activities of mankind.

Then he harkened back to the Revolutionary period with the high principles emphasized in the Declaration of Independence, now 175 years old. He traced the tendency toward secularism that has followed until today fewer than half of the American citizens are church goers.

Alley To Communism

"This drifting to secularism is the alley that inevitably leads to atheistic Communism." he added. "Unless the American people return to the fundamental Christian principles there is grave danger that our land will follow the same path to destruction that other countries have taken."

The all-day jubilee began with members of the council attending the 8:30 mass at St. Patrick's Catholic Church. Joseph M. Foley, past state deputy of New York, spoke at a Communion breakfast afterwards in the parish social center. Exemplication of major degrees began at noon at SS. Peter and Paul Hall and the dinner concluded the activities.

LOVES WATER — Mrs. Marcus A. Naughton, 9 Boone Street, embraces her nine-year-old son, Bobby as they swim in Constitution Park Pool. Bobby, who was born with a brain injury hampering his control of muscles, went swimming for the first time on his birthday last week. His mother says, "He loves the water." Mrs. Naughton plans to take him to the pool every day. Bobby cannot walk or talk, but through the daily attention and help of Mrs. Naughton and the help of the League for Crippled Children, he is getting along fine. Many of the children from Boone Street, who have made Bobby their favorite friend, went to the pool with him. Bobby and his friends have "lots of fun" playing in the water. In the past week, Bobby has made more friends at the pool.

Local Eleven-Year-Old Boy Is Happy Despite Handicap

By LARRY T. GRECO
News Staff Writer

The rewards of faith, patience, courage and love are clearly shown in the progress of eleven-year-old Bobby Naughton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Naughton, 9 Boone Street.

Bobby was born with a brain injury which has hampered his control of muscles, but with the daily attention of his mother, the help of the Allegany County League for Crippled Children, teachers and an unshakable faith, Bobby is getting along fine.

The youth must wear braces on his legs and cannot walk or talk. Mrs. Naughton gives Bobby his routine of exercises every day using the parallel bars, standing table and crutches. The mother's constant attention and love have produced great results, and his doctors believe he is showing much progress. The parents say they have good prospects for Bobby and know he will be better as time goes on. Although Bobby cannot talk, Mr. and Mrs. Naughton understand his every expression and gesture.

The League for Crippled Children has assigned a speech teacher for Bobby. The League also sends two physical therapists to the home from time to time. The Board of Education provides a teacher who goes to Bobby's home twice a week. Mrs. Naughton says people have been wonderful.

Horseshoe, Box Hockey Finals Slated Friday

All Playgrounds Enter Contestants

The annual Box Hockey and Horseshoe Tournaments of the Cumberland Recreation Association will be held Friday afternoon.

Edmund F. Hoey, city recreation director, said both events will get under way at 1 p. m. at North End Playground.

Competition will be held in five classes, boys 16 to 18; boys 13 through 15, girls 13 through 15, boys 9 through 12 and girls 9 through 12.

Preliminary contests will be held this week at each of the city's 15 playgrounds, and winners in each class will compete in the city-wide event Friday.

In box hockey, Hoey said, play will be two out of three games up to the semi-finals and finals, when three out of five games will be used to select winners.

In horseshoe pitching, all games will be singles with 21 point games all through the competition.

The tournaments will be run simultaneously due to the number of contestants.

Bronze medals will be awarded to winners in each class.

A point system will be used for scoring toward playground banners, with 10 points for first place, five for second, three for third and one point for fourth place in each tournament.

Hoey said box hockey, a new game on the playgrounds this year, has proved very popular.

Boxes for the box hockey games were made here during the winter.

The first of the master playground events, the talent night, will be held today at 7:30 p. m. in the amphitheater at Constitution Park. The contest was postponed from Friday because of rain.

Weather

Yesterday was warm and clear most of the day until clouds appeared in late afternoon. The air was humid and uncomfortable, but some relief was brought by a slight breeze in early afternoon. Local pools reported a fair crowd of swimmers. Constitution Park reported the high temperature as 88 degrees, the low as 65, and at 8:05 p. m., the thermometer was marked at 79. Humidity was recorded as 83 per cent. The weatherman says, "Warm and humid for today with possible thundershowers."

5 Persons Hurt In Accidents Over Weekend

Five persons were admitted to Memorial Hospital as a result of accidents occurring over the weekend.

Mrs. Mary Mongold, 78, Wiley Ford, was hurt in an auto accident at Wiley Ford, W. Va., shortly before midnight Friday. She was a passenger in an auto operated by Byron Mongold, 58, Wiley Ford. Authorities said the rear of Mongold's car was struck by an automobile driven by James Eugene Barkley, also of Wiley Ford, near the post office in Wiley Ford.

According to hospital attendants, Mrs. Mongold was examined for chest injuries and was still being held for observation yesterday evening.

Another accident occurring near Romney Saturday morning, resulted in the injury of Mrs. Olive McMillen, 38, of 2828 Broadway, Pittsburgh.

The accident happened six miles east of Romney, W. Va. on Route 50. Sgt. L. W. Kelley, of the West Virginia State Police at Romney, reported that the truck driven by Wilbur Virgil Shanholtz, Augusta, W. Va., pulled into the path of the westbound sedan operated by Milton A. McMillen, of Pittsburgh.

The McMillen auto rolled over several times, Sgt. Kelley said. Mrs. McMillen, riding with her husband in the front seat, was hurt and taken to Memorial Hospital.

Two of their children, Mary Alice, 11, and Ralph, 5, were in the back seat. The daughter suffered lacerations and bruises, while the son escaped injury.

McMillen was treated by a physician in Romney for a lacerated left arm and was being examined for possible back and pelvis injuries.

Mrs. McMillen was reported improving from abrasions and contusions yesterday evening by hospital attendants.

Joseph Simmons, 13, of Ruuddle, W. Va., son of Mr. and Mrs. Lon Simmons, was admitted to Memorial Hospital after suffering a possible fractured skull when struck by a rock thrown by one of his brothers.

Hospital attendants said that he was improving yesterday evening.

The condition of Elmer A. Pliss, 48, of Hyndman, Pa., a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad employe was reported improving last night. He was admitted to Memorial Hospital Friday night after being thrown from a railroad car at Hyndman.

Man Will Face Questioning In Father's Death

B. And O. Trackman Is Drowning Victim

A Rawlings man will be questioned by the State's Attorney's office today regarding the drowning of his father who, State Police said, was either pushed or fell from the boat in which they were riding in the Potomac River near their home Saturday.

The man, Benjamin Harrison Gordon, Jr., about 23, is being held in the County Jail pending the completion of an investigation into the tragedy.

The body of his father, Benjamin H. Gordon, Sr., 61, was recovered from the Potomac River about 10 p. m. Saturday night.

State Police said Gordon, a B. and O. track worker, was either pushed or fell from a boat in which his son was also riding about one mile south of Rawlings about noon Saturday.

Gordon was reported missing about 4:30 p. m. Saturday by his son, according to Trooper William F. Baker, criminal investigator at LaBale barracks of the Maryland State Police.

Young Gordon, Trooper Baker said, reported that he and his father left their home in Rawlings about 10 a. m. to go groundhog hunting.

The son was carrying a .22 caliber rifle and the father a shotgun, Trooper Baker said.

Young Gordon, he said, informed him that at noon, after both of them had been drinking, they went out on the river in a row boat.

Rescue Unsuccessful

He told police the boat upset and that he tried unsuccessfully to save his father. Young Gordon went to Rawlings at 4:30 p. m. and reported his father's drowning.

Trooper Baker, aided by Roy Minke, Christie Road, dragged the river until dark and later continued the work under lights furnished by the Cresaptown Volunteer Fire Company.

Frederic "Buck" Dreyer and his river rescue squad joined the search and recovered the body about 10 p. m.

Trooper Baker said Gordon's hat was found washed ashore near the spot where the son said his father went down. The boat was found about 600 yards down the river.

The trooper said the rifle and some shells were in the boat but the shotgun had not been found.

Death was attributed to drowning.

A native of Rawlings, Mr. Gordon was a son of the late Ulysses G. and Bessie Crabtree Gordon.

He was a member of Rawlings Methodist Church and the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employes.

Surviving are his widow, the former Marian Lease; three sons, Arlie M., Benjamin H., Jr. and Ernest G. Gordon and one daughter, Annie Marie, all at home; five brothers, James, Rawlings; Robert, RFD 3, Keyser, W. Va.; Wilbert and Jacob, Rawlings, and Philip, Danville, and three sisters, Mrs. Renix Hamilton and Mrs. James Bobo, both of McCoole, and Mrs. Cora Dawson, Rawlings.

The body is at George Funeral Home.

Today's Sermonette

By REV. GORDON R. HALL

Today's sermonette is a digest of the sermon preached yesterday at Elliott Memorial Methodist Church by the pastor, Rev. Gordon H. Hall. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

Second Coming . . . Christs!

Behold, The Lord Cometh.

This majestic fragment of a long-lost book, like some surviving torso, gives us a conception of what must have been the perfection of the whole world. It shows the character of Enoch's piety, who is described as, "walking with God," and is commended as having "pleased God," by his faith.

It was not the substantial piety of the deist, who worships God merely as the Author of Nature, but it has faith in the God of revelation, who had revealed Himself to Adam as the Holy One and the Just, who was revealing Himself to Enoch in his capacity as prophet, and who would reveal Himself again and again in fulfillment of his word.

The God of the deist never comes. The God of the Bible has come and is ever coming.

It is significant that this most ancient recorded prophecy should begin with that which the last Old Testament prophet ends the ancient literature or Israel, and with which the prophet of Patmos also closes the New Testament.

"Behold the Lord Cometh," says Enoch. "The Lord whom ye seek shall suddenly come," says Malachi. Christ's name in the Apocalypse is still the Coming One. He says in the end of that book of mystery, "Surely I come quickly," and the Church answers, "Even so, come Lord Jesus."

Christ's Advent is the chief burden of the prophetic message. Reference to a few leading passages will illustrate this fact.

In Deuteronomy, 32:2, Moses speaks of God's revelation of Himself to Israel in the wilderness. In Psalms 40:7, 8, Christ, Himself speaks of his Advent. In Psalms 96:12,13, David predicts the Advent. In Isiah, 59:20, the Prophet predicts the appearing of the Redeemer.

Since, then, the coming of God means in Scripture, God's revelation of Himself, there have been as many comings as occasions of revelation. The divers manner of action, speech, and influence, whereby God manifested Himself of old, were all so many comings.

He came to destroy the cities of the Plain. He came to Mount Siani. He came to deliver Israel from Egypt. He came to His temple. He came whenever an inspired prophet prophesied.

But as all revelation culminates in Christ the Mediator, the appearing of Christ is called the Coming.

And as there has been one appearing of Christ which is the object of our Faithful and loving remembrance, and there is to be another which is the object of our hopeful anticipation, so we speak of the First and Second Advents of our Lord. These two Advents are the two chief moments in the history of the World, and give character to all our revealed religion.

The Scriptures speak not only of coming of God to men, but of men coming to God. It is the merciful intention of the one to bring about the other. All our religion takes its character from Divine revelation. If God reveals Himself to us as our righteous Lord, loving Father, and self-sacrificing Redeemer, it is ours to yield to Him in faith, gratitude and service.

Placed as we are between two Advents, looking back on one and forward on the other, we should come in obedience to the invitation of the first, and the invitation of the second shall be ours also.

Today Marks Sixth Anniversary Of First Atomic Bomb Test In U. S.

Just six years ago today, the United States tested its first atomic bomb on the New Mexico desert near Los Alamos.

It was quite a blast.

The steel tower from which it was dropped was vaporized and men standing as much as five miles away were knocked down by the force of the explosion.

Heat from the detonation, which scientists estimate reached about 50,000,000 degrees, was felt 100 miles away.

A few weeks later, the new weapon got its first practical test when, on August 6, 1945, at 8:15 a. m. the Enola Gay, a B-29, dropped an atom bomb on the city of Hiroshima, Japan.

Some 90,000 of the city's 320,000 inhabitants were killed by the blast.

Five days later, a second and more effective bomb was dropped upon Nagasaki, killing or wounding 43,000 persons to the square mile.

Bomb Is Tested

Tests at Bikini, which gave the name to a famous bathing suit which would offer little protection during an atomic blast, gave further proof of the worth of the bomb as a military weapon.

Test Able, on July 1, 1946, demonstrated the power of the bomb dropped from the air as was done at Hiroshima and Nagasaki and Test Baker, on July 25, indicated the terrific destruction which could be wrought from a shallow underwater explosion.

The history of the atom bomb in America began on January 26, 1939, when American physicists learned of European experiments showing that one of the uranium isotopes underwent fission, with the release of nuclear energy, when bombarded with slow neutrons.

Einstein Assists

Much of the credit for the bomb goes to one of the nation's most famous amateur fiddlers.

He is Albert Einstein, through whose initiative this country began intensive research on the bomb and whose discoveries on relativity made the bomb theoretically possible.

It was after Einstein wrote to President Roosevelt in 1939, stating that a controlled chain reaction of atomic fission was feasible . . . and that the Germans were working on an atom bomb, that scientists got the go-ahead on atomic research and construction.

Three years of scientific teamwork resulted on December 2, 1942, in the first self maintaining nuclear chain reaction in a uranium-graphite pile at Stagg Field, Chicago.

Not too well known is the fact that a woman, Dr. Lise Meitner, a German refugee, was one of the scientists who gave us the Atomic bomb.

Beall Will Seek Federal Funds For Local Airport

City To Protest Line's Petition

Federal funds will be sought by Rep. J. Glenn Beall to make the Cumberland Municipal Airport more useful for commercial airline traffic.

Rep. Beall said he will contact the Civil Aeronautics Authority and other federal sources to learn whether money can be found to improve the local field.

He will join local authorities in protesting the petition of All American Airways, Inc., to drop its Cumberland flights from its Pittsburgh to Washington-Baltimore run.

Rep. Beall said he has always felt the traffic on All-American at Cumberland would have been greater, and more beneficial, if the schedule had been adapted to local needs.

To be most effective here, he said, the Washington bound plane would have to leave in the early morning, preferably between 8 and 9 a. m.

News that the line sought to eliminate Cumberland from its schedule brought sharp protests from Adolf Blunk, chairman of the Cumberland Airport Commission, who said the city will take steps to have the flights continued.

Blunk said the board will seek a conference with company officials to learn minimum needs for the continuation of local service.

He also asked W. Earle Cobey, city attorney, to file a formal complaint with the CAB against the temporary abandonment of service.

Cobey is slated to advise the Mayor and Council today of the anticipated action of the airline, including the request from the Airport Commission for a formal protest.

DISTRICT GETS CITATION — For having the largest number of rehabilitations per counselor during the fiscal year which ended June 30, the Western Maryland District of the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation will receive a citation from the division. R. C. Thompson, director of the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation, a branch of the State Department of Education, seated, is shown signing the citation at his office in Baltimore. Looking on are K. G. Stoner, left, supervisor of the Western Maryland District, and J. Leo Delaney, director of vocational rehabilitation for Allegany and Garrett Counties. The citation will be presented this morning at the opening session of the Maryland Rehabilitation Conference and Workshop which will run through Friday at State Teachers College.

Area Stressed As Rehabilitation Parley Starts

State Conference Held At College

The limelight was scheduled to be focused on Western Maryland this morning at the opening business session of the five-day Maryland Rehabilitation Conference and Workshop, being held for the second successive year at Frostburg State Teachers College.

Tops In State

Reason for special attention for this part of the state is that R. C. Thompson, director of the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation of the State Department of Education, will present a citation to the Western Maryland District, one of five within his division. The district embraces Allegany, Garrett, Washington and Frederick Counties.

The citation, the first annual award of its type, will be presented to the Western Maryland District for having the largest number of rehabilitations per counselor in the fiscal year which ended June 30.

Last night the conference got underway with an informal dinner in the college dining room. Thompson presided at this dinner, at which two officials of the college extended greetings to delegates.

Greetings came from Miss Lillian C. Compton, college president, and Dr. Ivan C. Diehl, college dean. Both expressed a hope that the conference will prove successful and offered full facilities of the college.

Delaney Chairman

J. Leo Delaney, dirctor of vocational rehabilitation for Allegany and Garrett Counties, is local chairman of arrangements for the conference.

One of the authorities at the week-long conference which ends Friday will be Edgar B. Porter of the Office of Vocational Rehabilitation in Washington, who is acting as a consultant for the sessions.

The vocational rehabilitation program, under the direction of the State Board of Education, is set up to enable the physically or mentally handicapped person to be trained so that they might be gainfully employed and become self-supporting. Assisting the state group are other state agencies such LOVES WATER — Mrs. Marcus A. Naughton, 9 Boone Street, embraces her nine-year-old son, Bobby as they swim in Constitution Park Pool. Bobby, who was born with a brain injury hampering his control of muscles, went swimming for the first time on his birthday last week. His mother says, "He loves the water." Mrs. Naughton plans to take him to the pool every day. Bobby cannot walk or talk, but through the daily attention and help of Mrs. Naughton and the help of the League for Crippled Children, he is getting along fine. Many of the children from Boone Street, who have made Bobby their favorite friend, went to the pool with him. Bobby and his friends have "lots of fun" playing in the water. In the past week, Bobby has made more friends at the pool.

Housing Project To Get Underway In Near Future

Contractor Due In City Today

Construction of a public housing project in Mapleside is slated to get underway in the near future.

Officials of the O. H. Martin Company, Pittsburgh, have received orders to proceed with the work, and will be here today to make final plans for beginning the project.

James B. Raines, executive secretary of the Housing Authority of Cumberland, said a ground breaking ceremony will be held when actual construction begins.

Proceed orders, effective as of today, have been received from the Public Housing Administration for the beginning of the 125 units of low rent housing.

The contract won by the Martin firm calls for work to be completed within 300 calendar days from today.

The Pittsburgh firm submitted a low bid of $1,380,000 for the Mapleside housing development, which will include 17 buildings containing 125 dwelling units.

The cost of the project will amount to $1,780 a room. Bids received on other projects in cities of comparable size to Cumberland average about $2,000 a room.

The site of the project is located in the general area bordered by First Street, Memorial Avenue, Somerville Avenue and Second Street.

Former Resident Will Enter Duke

Spencer Rossell of Flushing, N. Y., formerly of 435 Williams Street, has been notified that he has been accepted for enrollment as a freshman at Duke University, Durham, N. C.

Plans For Bus Strike Abandoned

Officials of Local 1110, Bus Drivers Union (AFL), reported last night that plans for a strike today on the Cumberland Transit Lines have been called off.

They said the plans were dropped after the firm fulfilled a contract clause regarding a safe driving bonus.

The 55 workers met Saturday morning and voted not to work today if the contract clause was not fulfilled.

Visitors Begin To Arrive For Fairgo Meet

Races Will Start Tuesday Afternoon

Visitors were already thronging to this city yesterday for the 27th annual racing meet which will get under way at Fairgo tomorrow.

Post time Tuesday at 2:30 p. m. will not only mark the opening of the Fairgo meet but also the beginning of the half-mile track season in Maryland.

Track officials report all preparations for the opening have been completed.

City officials have been rushing temporary paving jobs on a number of streets in Cumberland so that traffic lanes will be able to handle the heavy traffic expected during the racing season.

The track regarded as one of the cleanest half-mile tracks in the state, has been placed in top condition by crews directed by Edgar Reynolds.

W. Riggs Mahoney will again be mutuels manager. His father, Mortimer M. Mahoney, Sr. was the first mutuels manager here.

Mahoney, who operates the mutuels at Monmouth track in New Jersey, the Revere dog racing track and the Detroit Racing Association, has as his assistant here William Fisher, of Laurel, veteran of east coast horse racing.

The key men of the mutuels to be here for the ten-day Fairgo race meet include many veterans of this track. Among them are J. Austin White, Charles "Chuck" Schlosser and Edmund Fladung, all of Baltimore; Robert Littleton, who will go from here to be mutuels manager at Hagerstown race meet; Robert Hancock, comptometer operator, and William Ennis, one of Mahoney's top men.

Early Showdown Slated In Phone Contract Talks

Company Explains Wage Proposals

An early showdown in the contract dispute between the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company and the CWA-CIO was predicted here last night by a union official.

Robert O. Slemmer, president of Local 2105, CWA-CIO, said the time has come for either a satisfactory settlement or more definite action by the membership.

Slemmer reported talks were still deadlocked.

The union, he said, has received strike authorization from the international union and Local 2105 has authorized a strike at any time by a better than 14-1 margin.

Principal demand of the union, he said, is a 10 per cent wage boost on all schedules, rounded off to the nearest 50 cents, plus several contract changes.

Won't Accept Less

Slemmer said the company offer has still not come up to settlements made in other Bell systems through the United States and the negotiating committee does not feel it could accept less than is being offered elsewhere.

Another stumbling block, he added, is that the company refuses to give a seniority clause equal to that granted by other C. and P. companies.

The union, he noted, recently gave up the issue of maintaining the present spread of wage-zone differentials in an effort to reach a settlement.

Explains Proposals

The company reported yesterday it saw no justification for a strike of plant employes in the Washington suburban area Friday since it came at a time when the union had before it a liberalized wage proposal.

W. Griffin Morrel, company vice president, said:

"Under this expanded offer, the general increases proposed for approximately 2,800 plant employes ranged from $3.00 to $10.00 per week. The offer provided for 70 per cent of all department employes to receive

K. Of C. Council Told To Abide By Principles

Dinner Concludes Golden Jubilee

A challenge to Cumberland Council No. 586, Knights of Columbus, to live up to the principles of the order as well as to the American principles as exemplified in the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution came last night at the dinner which climaxed the all-day golden jubilee observance of the local council.

Issues Challenge

The challenge came from William H. Collins, Washington, D. C., principal speaker last night at a dinner at the K. of C. Home in observance of the jubilee. A native of Massachusetts, but an attorney in Washington since 1919, Collins is past master of the Fourth Degree of the District of Columbia. In 1949 he was awarded the Vercelli Medal by the National Holy Name Society, which embraces the United States and Canada. He was the sixth man to win the coveted prize.

"The Ravages of Secularism" was the topic of Collins' speech. He lamented the growing tendency in this country to disclaim the principles of the Divine in daily activities of mankind.

Then he harkened back to the Revolutionary period with the high principles emphasized in the Declaration of Independence, now 175 years old. He traced the tendency toward secularism that has followed until today fewer than half of the American citizens are church goers.

Alley To Communism

"This drifting to secularism is the alley that inevitably leads to atheistic Communism," he added. "Unless the American people return to the fundamental Christian principles there is grave danger that our land will follow the same path to destruction that other countries have taken."

The all-day jubilee began with members of the council attending the 8:30 mass at St. Patrick's Catholic Church. Joseph M. Foley, past state deputy of New York, spoke at a Communion breakfast afterwards in the parish social center. Exemplication of major degrees began at noon at SS. Peter and Paul Hall and the dinner concluded the activities.

Local Eleven-Year-Old Boy Is Happy Despite Handicap

By LARRY T. GRECO
News Staff Writer

The rewards of faith, patience, courage and love are clearly shown in the progress of eleven-year-old Bobby Naughton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Naughton, 9 Boone Street.

Bobby was born with a brain injury which has hampered his control of muscles, but with the daily attention of his mother, the help of the Allegany County League for Crippled Children, teachers and an unshakable faith, Bobby is getting along fine.

The youth must wear braces on his legs and cannot walk or talk. Mrs. Naughton gives Bobby his routine of exercises every day using the parallel bars, standing table and crutches. The mother's constant attention and love have produced great results, and his doctors believe he is showing much progress. The parents say they have good prospects for Bobby and know he will be better as time goes on. Although Bobby cannot talk, Mr. and Mrs. Naughton understand his every expression and gesture.

The League for Crippled Children has assigned a speech teacher for Bobby. The League also sends two physical therapists to the home from time to time. The Board of Education provides a teacher who goes to Bobby's home twice a week. Mrs. Naughton says people have been wonderful.

Bobby received a big thrill last

Horseshoe, Box Hockey Finals Slated Friday

All Playgrounds Enter Contestants

The annual Box Hockey and Horseshoe Tournaments of the Cumberland Recreation Association will be held Friday afternoon.

Edmund F. Hoey, city recreation director, said both events will get under way at 1 p. m. at North End Playground.

Competition will be held in five classes, boys 16 to 18; boys 13 through 15, girls 13 through 15, boys 9 through 12 and girls 9 through 12.

Preliminary contests will be held this week at each of the city's 15 playgrounds, and winners in each class will compete in the city-wide event Friday.

In box hockey, Hoey said, play will be two out of three games up to the semi-finals and finals, when three out of five games will be used to select winners.

In horseshoe pitching, all games will be singles with 21 point games all through the competition.

The tournaments will be run simultaneously due to the number of contestants.

Bronze medals will be awarded to winners in each class.

A point system will be used for scoring toward playground banners, with 10 points for first place, five for second, three for third and one point for fourth place in each tournament.

Hoey said box hockey, a new game on the playgrounds this year, has proved very popular.

Boxes for the box hockey games were made here during the winter.

The first of the master playground events, the talent night, will be held today at 7:30 p. m. in the amphitheater at Constitution Park. The contest was postponed from Friday because of rain.

Weather

Yesterday was warm and clear most of the day until clouds appeared in late afternoon. The air was humid and uncomfortable, but some relief was brought by a slight breeze in early afternoon. Local pools reported a fair crowd of swimmers. Constitution Park reported the high temperature as 88 degrees, the low as 65, and at 8:05 p. m., the thermometer was marked at 79. Humidity was recorded as 83 per cent. The weatherman says, "Warm and humid for today with possible thundershowers."

5 Persons Hurt In Accidents Over Weekend

Five persons were admitted to Memorial Hospital as a result of accidents occurring over the weekend.

Mrs. Mary Mongold, 78, Wiley Ford, was hurt in an auto accident at Wiley Ford, W. Va., shortly before midnight Friday. She was a passenger in an auto operated by Byron Mongold, 58, Wiley Ford. Authorities said the rear of Mongold's car was struck by an automobile driven by James Eugene Barkley, also of Wiley Ford, near the post office in Wiley Ford.

According to hospital attendants, Mrs. Mongold was examined for chest injuries and was still being held for observation yesterday evening.

Another accident occurring near Romney Saturday morning, resulted in the injury of Mrs. Olive McMillen, 38, of 2828 Broadway, Pittsburgh.

The accident happened six miles east of Romney, W. Va. on Route 50. Sgt. L. W. Kelley, of the West Virginia State Police at Romney, reported that the truck driven by Wilbur Virgil Shanholtz, Augusta, W. Va., pulled into the path of the westbound sedan operated by Milton A. McMillen, of Pittsburgh.

The McMillen auto rolled over several times, Sgt. Kelley said. Mrs. McMillen, riding with her husband in the front seat, was hurt and taken to Memorial Hospital.

Two of their children, Mary Alice, 11, and Ralph, 5, were in the back seat. The daughter suffered lacerations and bruises, while the son escaped injury.

McMillen was treated by a physisian in Romney for a lacerated left arm and was being examined for possible back and pelvis injuries.

Mrs. McMillen was reported improving from abrasions and contusions yesterday evening by hospital attendants.

Joseph Simmons, 13, of Ruuddle, W. Va., son of Mr. and Mrs. Lon Simmons, was admitted to Memorial Hospital after suffering a possible fractured skull when struck by a rock thrown by one of his brothers.

Hospital attendants said that he was improving yesterday evening.

The condition of Elmer A. Pliss, 48, of Hyndman, Pa., a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad employe was reported improving last night. He was admitted to Memorial Hospital Friday night after being thrown from a railroad car at Hyndman.

Man Will Face Questioning In Father's Death

B. And O. Trackman Is Drowning Victim

A Rawlings man will be questioned by the State's Attorney's office today regarding the drowning of his father who, State Police said, was either pushed or fell from the boat in which they were riding in the Potomac River near their home Saturday.

The man, Benjamin Harrison Gordon, Jr., about 23, is being held in the County Jail pending the completion of an investigation into the tragedy.

The body of his father, Benjamin H. Gordon, Sr., 61, was recovered from the Potomac River about 10 p. m. Saturday night.

State Police said Gordon, a B. and O. track worker, was either pushed or fell from a boat in which his son was also riding about one mile south of Rawlings about noon Saturday.

Gordon was reported missing about 4:30 p. m. Saturday by his son, according to Trooper William F. Baker, criminal investigator at LaBale barracks of the Maryland State Police.

Young Gordon, Trooper Baker said, reported that he and his father left their home in Rawlings about 10 a. m. to go groundhog hunting.

The son was carrying a .22 caliber rifle and the father a shotgun, Trooper Baker said.

Young Gordon, he said, informed him that at noon, after both of them had been drinking, they went out on the river in a row boat.

Rescue Unsuccessful

He told police the boat upset and that he tried unsuccessfully to save his father. Young Gordon went to Rawlings at 4:30 p. m. and reported his father's drowning.

Trooper Baker, aided by Roy Minke, Christie Road, dragged the river until dark and later continued the work under lights furnished by the Cresaptown Volunteer Fire Company.

Frederic "Buck" Dreyer and his river rescue squad joined the search and recovered the body about 10 p. m.

Trooper Baker said Gordon's hat was found washed ashore near the spot where the son said his father went down. The boat was found about 600 yards down the river.

The trooper said the rifle and some shells were in the boat but the shotgun had not been found.

Death was attributed to drowning.

A native of Rawlings, Mr. Gordon was a son of the late Ulysses G. and Bessie Crabtree Gordon.

He was a member of Rawlings Methodist Church and the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employes.

Surviving are his widow, the former Marian Lease; three sons, Arlie M., Benjamin H., Jr. and Ernest G. Gordon and one daughter, Annie Marie, all at home; five brothers, James, Rawlings; Robert, RFD 3, Keyser, W. Va.; Wilbert and Jacob, Rawlings, and Philip, Danville, and three sisters, Mrs. Renix Hamilton and Mrs. James Bobo, both of McCoole, and Mrs. Cora Dawson, Rawlings.

The body is at George Funeral Home.

According to William H. Geppert, assistant state's attorney, she was being held on a charge of larceny.

Geppert said she is believed involved in a robbery which took place in the Idle Hour Tavern recently. The case has to do with the taking of $500 in bills from the pocket of Percy Combs, 20 Spring Street, Keyser, W. Va.

Lloyd Long, Park Street, is also awaiting action of the October Grand Jury on a charge of larceny in the same case.

Today's Sermonette

By REV. GORDON R. HALL

Today's sermonette is a digest of the sermon preached yesterday at Elliott Memorial Methodist Church by the pastor, Rev. Gordon H. Hall. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

Second Coming . . . Christs!

Behold, The Lord Cometh.

This majestic fragment of a long-lost book, like some surviving torso, gives us a conception of what must have been the perfection of the whole world. It shows the character of Enoch's piety, who is described as, "walking with God," and is commended as having "pleased God," by his faith.

It was not the substantial piety of the deist, who worships God merely as the Author of Nature, but it has faith in the God of revelation, who had revealed Himself to Adam as the Holy One and the Just, who was revealing Himself to Enoch in his capacity as prophet, and who would reveal Himself again and again in fulfillment of his word.

The God of the deist never comes. The God of the Bible has come and is ever coming.

It is significant that this most ancient recorded prophecy should begin with that which the last Old Testament prophet ends the ancient literature or Israel, and with which the prophet of Patmos also closes the New Testament.

"Behold the Lord Cometh," says Enoch. "The Lord whom ye seek shall suddenly come," says Malachi. Christ's name in the Apocalypse is still the Coming One. He says in the end of that book of mystery, "Surely I come quickly," and the Church answers, "Even so, come Lord Jesus."

Christ's Advent is the chief burden of the prophetic message. Reference to a few leading passages will illustrate this fact.

In Deuteronomy, 32:2, Moses speaks of God's revelation of Himself to Israel in the wilderness. In Psalms 40:7, 8, Christ, Himself speaks of his Advent. In Psalms 96:12,13, David predicts the Advent. In Isiah, 59:20, the Prophet predicts the appearing of the Redeemer.

Since, then, the coming of God means in Scripture, God's revelation of Himself, there have been as many comings as occasions of revelation. The divers manner of action, speech, and influence, whereby God manifested Himself of old, were all so many comings.

He came to destroy the cities of the Plain. He came to Mount Siani. He came to deliver Israel from Egypt. He came to His temple. He came whenever an inspired prophet prophesied.

But as all revelation culminates in Christ the Mediator, the appearing of Christ is called the Coming.

And as there has been one appearing of Christ which is the object of our Faithful and loving remembrance, and there is to be another which is the object of our hopeful anticipation, so we speak of the First and Second Advents of our Lord. These two Advents are the two chief moments in the history of the World, and give character to all our revealed religion.

The Scriptures speak not only of coming of God to men, but of men coming to God. It is the merciful intention of the one to bring about the other. All our religion takes its character from Divine revelation. If God reveals Himself to us as our righteous Lord, loving Father, and self-sacrificing Redeemer, it is ours to yield to Him in faith, gratitude and service.

Placed as we are between two Advents, looking back on one and forward on the other, we should come in obedience to the invitation of the first, and the invitation of the second shall be ours also.

Pfc. Beale Reports To MacDill AF Base

Pfc. Richard R. Beale, son of Mr. and Mrs. V. L. Beale, 428 Beall Street, has reported to MacDill Air Force Base, Fla., for duty.

Flood Work Closes Streets

Beginning today, city officials said, Frederick Street will be closed from North Centre Street to the alley beside the Stein Funeral Home. Traffic from George Street can by-pass through the alley by Stein's to Centre Street by way of Henry Street, however.

Water Street at Lehigh Street will be closed to traffic for the next two weeks, but local traffic may pass on each side of the intersection.

Greene Street is now open to two-way traffic, but Beall Street at Walnut Alley will be closed for the next ten days. Paca Street at Walnut Alley will be closed this morning until July 31. Paca Street will also be closed between South Smallwood and Johnson Streets until the high pressure water line can be tested.

Today Marks Sixth Anniversary Of First Atomic Bomb Test In U. S.

Just six years ago today, the United States tested its first atomic bomb on the New Mexico desert near Los Alamos.

It was quite a blast.

TRUCE TALKS ARE AGAIN UNDERWAY

Flood Begins To Recede On 4th Day

Congress To Act On Kansas Emergency

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 15 (AP)—The costliest flood in the nation's history gushed for 400 miles along the Kansas and Missouri Rivers, strangling this great gateway city to the southwest for the fourth straight day.

To the west of this metropolitan area of 900,000 the Kansas River was receding slowly but the murky waters still ran through homes in scores of cities and towns, some with light and power and water plants paralyzed.

To the east for more than 200 miles, the Missouri River—known as the Big Muddy—was beginning to push its way into cities and towns between here and St. Louis.

The whole area was on an emergency basis. President Truman has designated the flood sections of both states as disaster areas. In Washington, Congress tomorrow will act on a request by the President for a $15,000,000 emergency appropriation.

Damage At $500,000,000.

Major Gen. Lewis A. Pick, chief of army engineers, here to direct the gigantic battle against the water, says damage will be around the $500,000,000 mark, more than any other flood has cost. Many others have had a higher death toll. Alertness and prompt evacuations have held the loss of lives to 17 in the present disaster.

Upwards of 75,000 persons have been moved from their homes and General Pick's office says more than 400,000 more have been affected—stranded by paralyzed transportation, unable to get to their places of business or employment, or otherwise carry out normal pursuits.

Here in these Twin Cities where the Kansas and Missouri Rivers meet, the great industrial areas are a sea of destruction by water and fire. From the bluffs of the Missouri side at the edge of the downtown section to the central business section of Kansas City, Kas., the water stretches over vast warehouses, stockyards, railroads and manufacturing plants.

Great billows of black smoke boil up from a fire that has raged for three days in the midst of flood waters. Eleven storage tanks containing 800,000 gallons of furnace oil exploded this afternoon.

In the path of the flames were three more tanks containing 820,000 gallons of similar fluid. Already the flames have destroyed an area two blocks wide and five blocks long. Firemen fought fire floating on the water, hopeful they could keep it from spreading.

Sherman Leaves For Talks With Spain Officials

Admiral Will Confer On Defense Structure

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP) — Admiral Forrest Sherman, Joint Chiefs of Staff member, left today for a series of talks with American officials and those of Western European nations — including Spain.

It was the first time a member of the American military high command had headed for talks with officials of Spain, a nation outside the North Atlantic Treaty Organization but which holds a vitally strategic position in the Western European defense picture.

To See Eisenhower

A Navy announcement said Sherman was going to Europe to confer with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, supreme commander of Western European defense forces, U. S. Naval commanders in Europe and the Mediterranean areas.

Sherman, said the Navy, "also will visit a number of European countries, including England, Italy and Spain, in each of which he hopes to have an exchange of views with American representatives and with foreign officials on questions of mutual interest between the United States and the country concerned."

Spain, under the totalitarian government of Franco, had been left alone in European defense planning. But its geographical position, coupled with whatever potential military strength Spain might have, could not be completely ignored.

Spain Ready To Sign

In recent months there had been reports that the Spanish government was ready to sign a direct military alliance with the United States, patterned on the Atlantic Pact. On June 5, the Spanish ambassador to the United States, in a speech at Detroit, proposed the U. S. give economic and military aid to his country.

Some highly tentative studies made here indicate that at least $300,000,000 might be needed to modernize Spain's military forces should the U. S. decide to send arms to bulwark that nation's defenses.

The iron regime of Franco has worked against earlier acceptance of Spain into the family of Western World Free Nations.

10 Persons Are Killed In Iran Riot

Protest Harriman's Arrival In Tehran

TEHRAN, Iran, July 15 (AP)—Anti-Communists attacked Reds demonstrating in an anti-American rally tonight in front of the Iranian Parliament building. At least 10 persons were killed and more than 100 injured in the riot, which was finally broken up by army tanks and tear gas.

Ten thousand Communist "peace partisans" touched off the dusk riot with a demonstration against the arrival earlier today of U. S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, diplomatic trouble shooter for President Truman. Harriman, here as the result of an offer by Mr. Truman to premier Mohammed Mossadegh, is confident friendly talks can settle the oil dispute between Iran and Britain.

Five Reds Dead

Red sources said five of their number were killed. Others known dead were two policemen and three civilians.

As the Reds marched into Parliament Square, tight columns of anti-Communists—supporters of Mossadegh's National Front government—attacked from side streets. Stones flew, clubs whacked, and finally there were scattered pistol shots on both sides.

Police and troops stationed at strategic spots moved in with tear gas, firing shots into the air. More than half a dozen tanks were summoned from army headquarters, where they had been stationed in the event of trouble.

Tanks were stationed at a street corner near the American and British embassies, which are half a mile from Parliament Square. A small crowd of Red demonstrators gathered outside the iron fence of the U. S. Embassy shouting: "Down with Imperialism!" They were quickly dispersed.

The rest of the city remained quiet, although many truckloads of police and soldiers rumbled through the streets.

Feeling Runs High

Feeling had been running high between supporters of Mossadegh's National Front and the Reds, who parade openly here although the Communist Party, which calls itself Tudeh, has been declared illegal. The Reds have been denouncing Harriman's visit bitterly, calling it an act of American intervention. Mossadegh has welcomed Harriman's presence, although the Premier has given no signs of willingness to compromise on the nationalization of the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Co.

Before the clash the Communists paraded for a mile to Parliament Square.

Harriman expects to meet Premier Mohammed Mossadegh Monday in an opening round of talks designed to start the oil flowing freely again from the nationalized Abadan refinery of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company. He also will give Mossadegh a personal message from the president.

36 Are Injured As Trains Collide

SWANTON, Vt., July 15 (AP) — A slowly moving Central Vermont Railway passenger train crashed into the rear of an idling freight train today injuring 36 persons — none critically.

The collision crushed the freight train's caboose and knocked three freight cars off the track, tying up traffic for several hours.

Thirty persons were treated at Kerbs Memorial Hospital, St. Albans, and six at St. Albans Hospital, St. Albans. Hospital attaches said most of them suffered cuts and bruises.

Troops Quell Rioters

A living barricade is formed by steel-helmeted Illinois National Guardsmen while blocking an estimated mob of 10,000 intent on destroying a Cicero apartment house into which a Negro family had attempted to move. Many persons were hurt including several of the guards and officers attempting to quell the riot when the mob surged into bayonets. Fires resulted from dynamite caps and magnesium flares thrown into the building. The Negro family's furniture also was thrown into the yard and burned. Guards finally had to place barbed wire barricades around the structure to avert further violence. (International)

German Typist To Marry Army Private By Telephone

TRAUNSTEIN, Germany, July 15 (AP) — A 24-year-old German typist said today she would marry an American soldier by transatlantic telephone at 6 a.m. (12 noon EST) tomorrow.

Hildegard Streitwieser, who lives with her parents in this small Bavarian town, said she had a telegram from her sweetheart, Pfc. Harry C. Kline, 20 of Reading, Penna., that all arrangements had been made.

Kline is now stationed at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, where the minister is to perform the rites.

"I'm all excited," she told reporters. "I must have an American witness, and I don't know whether he must be a lawyer or notary public. I must hurry and find out."

The girl said she met Kline in 1949 when he was stationed in Nuernberg, where she was employed. At that time they became engaged, but Kline was transferred back to America before he could get all necessary marriage documents processed.

FORT LEAVENWORTH, Kas., July 15 (AP) — Pvt. Harry C. Kline is getting up before the bugle call tomorrow morning.

It is his wedding day.

He will be married by transatlantic telephone to Hildegard Streitwieser, who lives in Traunstein, Germany.

When she steps up to the telephone to take her vows it will be noon. But Private Kline will have to get up before reveille at this Army post to get dressed and to the telephone by 6 a.m.

Kline completed all the arrangements last night. He talked to her by telephone Friday night. That cost him $22.50. Yesterday he received the health certificate of the bride-to-be. It cost 100 marks ($25).

But Kline was happy.

"By the time it's all over it'll be a hundred dollar wedding."

House To Speed Action On Bills

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP)—A speed-up of House action on the economic controls bill is in prospect this week. The reason given is that administration backers who have known for days they couldn't really win have decided the record is now clear for the voters to read in 1952.

That summation of the outlook was given to a reporter by a leading supporter of President Truman's much-mauled plans for tighter curbs to combat inflation and speed defense production. The lawmaker would not permit use of his name.

Up to this point the Truman forces have been fighting tooth and nail as first the Senate, then the House Banking Committee, and for the last week the House itself, chopped hunks out of the requested powers.

That process consumed time and broke up plans to get final action on the new defense production measure last week. It also put the members on record, and the Congressman said that is one reason his side kept it going.

Now the schedule calls for passage, perhaps by Thursday, of whatever the administration can get to replace the original law. That act, carrying powers for wage and price control, materials allocation and other such measures, was due to expire June 30 but is kept in force for this month, with some curbs on action under it, by a Congressional resolution.

Woman's Body Found In Bed

SEATTLE, July 15 (AP) — The body of a 35-year-old woman, clad in a disarranged nightgown, was found today on a bed in her apartment.

She was Kathryn Gonsoulin, listed on her voters' registration as a stenographer.

James Adams, deputy coroner, said the body bore numerous bruises, some of them on the neck.

"We are going on the assumption it was a murder, pending results of an autopsy," said Detective Sgt. I. A. O'Mera.

The body was found by Walt Gardner, who said he had been seeing Miss Gonsoulin every day, and Dengo Kusakabe, manager of the apartment house.

Actor, Oil Man Fight In Club

HOLLYWOOD, July 15 (AP) — Glenn McCarthy, Texas oil man, admitted today that he and another Texan, Actor Don (Red) Barry, staged a fistic argument at Ciro's last night in the traditional Hollywood nightlife manner.

A few blows were struck. Neither participant was injured. Both shook hands and parted friends. The only casualty was a broken mirror.

U. S. Ousts Two Hungarians

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP)—Two Hungarian diplomats, including the acting chief of the Communist country's legation, were ordered out of the United States today. It was a tit-for-tat response to expulsion of two U. S. officials from Budapest.

The formal notification to Hungary said only that the two—Lajos Nagy, second secretary and charge d'affaires, and Peter Varkonyi, attache—were "no longer agreeable" to this government. There was no detail on what makes them disagreeable but a State Department spokesman suggested that a reporter wouldn't miss badly if he drew his own conclusions about retaliation.

Such a notification that a member of a government mission is "persona non grata" leaves his home country no option except to withdraw him. That was the device Hungary used to get rid of Albert W. Sherer, Jr., second secretary of the American legation in Budapest, and Miss Ruth Tryon, head of the U. S. information services there, a little over a week ago.

The United States had turned down a Hungarian request to bring Sherer and Miss Tryon home after prosecution witnesses had sought to implicate them in the trial of Catholic Archbishop Groesz, convicted of working against the Hungarian Red regime.

U. S. Doesn't Want Showdown In Korean War

Acheson Reveals Government Policy

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP) — Secretary Acheson said in a statement made public tonight by the State Department that the administration is urgently trying to keep the showdown with Communism from coming now in Korea.

He advised also that "if we allow ourselves to be lulled" by Korean truce developments "we will be hit within the next six months to a year with a much tougher blow somewhere else."

Off-Record Speech

His views were given in the transcript of an off-record speech which the Secretary made here on June 29 to a group of magazine and book publishers. The State Department said it was made public at the request of several who were present.

Referring to Korea in a discussion of the global East-West struggle, Acheson took issue with a description of the United Nations effort as the "reluctant crusade." He said this implied both sides were being led by events into a showdown.

"Now if anything is important, if anything is true about the situation in Korea, it is the overwhelming importance of not forcing a showdown on our side in Korea and not permitting our opponents to force a showdown," he said.

Heart Of Policy

"That has been the whole heart and essence of the policy which the administration has been following."

"If it is possible to bring about an end of the fighting in Korea, it will be because of the efforts which we have already made and the sacrifices of the men in Korea," he said further.

The American Goal, Acheson said, is a world situation where the normal course of settling disputes will be by negotiation. The experience of the Western Hemisphere shows this is not a hopeless ambition, he added.

King Leopold Abdicates Today

BRUSSELS, Belgium, July 15 (AP) — The unhappy 17-year reign of King Leopold III ends formally tomorrow at a private abdication ceremony in the Brussels Palace ballroom.

The next day the Belgians will get their fifth king, 20-year-old Baudouin 1, who will take the oath as his father's successor.

Leopold, on his own initiative, decided that July 16 should put a full stop to his reign. His son, Baudouin, became acting ruler 11 months ago when Leopold delegated his powers temporarily to avert a threatened revolutionary march on Brussels by the Socialists of Wallonia, in Southern Belgium.

Leopold, now 49, became king on Nov. 23, 1934 after his father King Albert was killed in a mountain climbing accident on Feb. 17, 1934. Only a year later the young king, on a holiday in Switzerland, crashed his car into a tree, killing his wife, Swedish-born Queen Astrid.

Five years later, he surrendered at the head of his army to the Germans. Eventually he was taken to Germany under Gestapo escort, and finally went into exile in Switzerland when one of the bitterest disputes Belgium ever has known revolved about his return to the country.

Blaze Damages Fruit Plant

COVINA, Calif., July 15 (AP) —Fire swept through a California fruit growers exchange citrus processing plant today and caused damage estimated at $250,000.

The plant, largest in Covina, was used to make fruit juices and concentrates.

Beer Truckers Strike As Towns Swelter In Heat

HAMMOND, Ind., July 15 (AP) — Sizzling in 90 degree weather, beer drinkers in Lake County, Ind., today faced a shortage of the foamy brew.

Beer truck drivers for 11 of 16 beer distributors in Hammond, Gary, Whiting and other Lake County cities in the industrial area southeast of Chicago last night went on strike for more pay.

An AFL teamsters union leader said the drivers now get $80.70 a week but they want a basic wage of $40 plus salesman commissions of 12 cents a case on bottled beer and 8 cents of canned beer which they sell to retailers. The distributors offered a six per cent wage boost.

Lewis Critical Of Government Controls Policy

Praises MacArthur In TV Interview

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP) — John L. Lewis said tonight that if President Truman and Senator Taft (R-Ohio) are opposing candidates in the next election, it will be like choosing "between Scylla and Charybdis."

The reference was to the dilemma in Greek mythology where a choice had to be made between a monster and a deadly whirlpool.

Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers Union, refused to say whether he thought Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower would make a good candidate but praised Gen. Douglas MacArthur as "one of the greatest of our contemporary Americans."

Wait On Eisenhower

Lewis said he would have to wait and see if Eisenhower would be a presidential candidate, on what ticket he might run and what he stood for.

Interviewed on the television program "Meet The Press" — NBC, Lewis said the only thing holding back the formation of a united labor movement in the country is labor's leadership.

He said rank and file members of all unions were virtually unanimous for a single labor organization, working in unison.

Asked if he were "a dictator," Lewis replied that the question itself was "a soft impeachment." And it really mattered nothing to him if someone thought he was one. His union has democratic election processes, he said.

Lewis sharply criticized the administration's economic controls program, particularly the wage control system. But he said if controls are to continue, there ought to be curbs on profits and dividends, too.

Lewis was asked if he could explain how such former business leaders as Eric Johnston, now economic stabilization chief for the administration, and Charles E. Wilson, former president of General Electric Company, are "all out" for controls.

Asked About Miners

Without replying as to Wilson, Lewis said:

"I can't explain Eric Johnston. He works both sides of the economic street."

Lewis was asked if his mine workers union intended to make new wage demands soon on the coal industry and use the strike weapon in the process.

He replied that he couldn't say when new demands might be made but "I can't recall when the miners got anything by not striking."

Careless Smoker Burned To Death

LOS ANGELES, July 15 (AP) — William Johnson, 64, died of careless smoking in an auto, police reported today.

He was seated in a neighbor's car, smoking a cigarette. He fell asleep. The cigarette ignited the upholstery and Johnson and the car were burned.

Allied Group Flies To 4th Peace Meeting

Reds Yield To UN Demand For Press

MUNSAN, Korea, Monday, July 16 (AP) — The Allied cease-fire team flew to Kaesong today by helicopter through overcast skies for the fourth session of talks seeking a basis for ending the Korean War.

The five-man delegation began departing in five helicopters at 9:33 a. m. (6:33 p. m. EST Sunday) for the 10 a. m. meeting with the Reds —hopeful that yesterday's harmonious tone would be maintained.

Rain let up just before the 'copter rotor blades began whirring.

The delegation was preceded to Kaesong by an Allied motor convoy which left Munsan at 7:30 a. m. and arrivd at 9:08. The convoy included the second contingent of 20 war correspondents to be admitted to Kaesong.

Reds Yield To U. N.

The first group of correspondents went Sunday after the Reds had yielded to Allied demands for their admission and for demilitarization of the Kaesong area.

In a two-hour meeting Sunday afternoon, negotiators patched up the most serious problem since the talks started on July 10. Communist representatives quickly yielded to U. N. demands for neutralizing Kaesong and providing free movement to that armistice site.

After Sunday's talks in a bullet-scarred, Pagoda roofed former restaurant on a Kaesong hillside an official Allied communique issued at this "peace" camp said:

"Significant of the desires of both delegations to get on with the main work of the conference was the complete absence of any controversy over the arrangement for neutrality of the site."

There was only one short hitch during the day. Over-zealous Red sentries delayed two leading jeeps, bearing Vice Adm. Charles Turner Joy, chief Allied negotiator, and Air Force Maj. Gen. L. C. Craigie, until 16 other vehicles in the allied convoy caught up with them.

Joy Is Late

It caused Joy to be nine minutes late to the meeting. He told the Red delegates that he expected "no repitition of such an event on the part of Communist forces," the communique said.

The Allied announcement said the proposals accepted Sunday by the Communists were:

"1. The road leading to the conference site shall be open to unrestricted use of vehicles of the United Nations command delegation. No notice will be required for such movement.

"2. The neutral area, five miles in radius, with a traffic circle in Kaesong as its center would contain no armed personnel except the minimum needed for military police purposes. Such personnel (MP's) could be armed with small arms.

"3. Any personnel required for security at the conference site would be unarmed. The conference site would be defined as an area having a radius of one-half mile, centered on the conference house."

Red Troops Near Kaesong Area

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Monday, July 16 (AP) — An Eighth Army staff officer said today that elements of a Red regiment were in the area between the cease-fire conference town of Kaesong and the Allied front line.

Kaesong, 35 miles northwest of Seoul, has been designated by mutual agreement as a neutral zone, devoid of armed troops, for a five mile radius from its center. The staff officer said the Red troops were outside the neutral zone.

(Whereabouts of the Allied front line in that area is a matter of military security but presumably it embraces Munsan, 12 miles southeast of Kaesong. An Allied "peace camp" is there, guarded by an American military outfit).

Allied patrols reported meeting light Red resistance Sunday in the Western front area.

On the opposite side of Korea but North of Parallel 38, Allied forces battled four hours before repulsing an attack by a Communist company southwest of Kansong early Sunday. Today's Eighth Army communique said the Reds withdrew after suffering heavy casualties.

Egyptian Officials To Stand Trial

CAIRO, Egypt, July 15 (AP) — Prince Abbas Halim and several former high defense officials were ordered held for trial today following a 13-month investigation of an alleged $5,000,000 arms buying scandal during the Palestine War.

The government prosecutor demanded trial for 13 persons he accused of black market dealings in faulty war materials during Egypt's 1948 war against the Jews in Palestine. Prince Abbas Halim is a second cousin of King Farouk.

Coffee Surplus Indicated By Agriculture Department

WASHINGTON, July 15 (AP)—The Agriculture Department had good news for coffee drinkers today—coffee supplies may be 10 per cent larger in the 12 months ahead.

A survey of coffee-producing areas indicates production for export this year will total about 33,000,000 bags, or 3,000,000 more than during the past season.

Year before last, exportable supplies were down to 29,000,000 bags—a fact that contributed to sharply higher prices.

Harvesting of the 1951-52 crop began in May in Brazil, Colombia and few other countries. For the other countries, the harvest will not begin until about October.

Assuming favorable weather, Brazil's crop should provide about 17,000,000 bags for export. Colombia should provide about 5,500,000 bags. Other countries should provide a total of about 10,500,000 bags, the department said.

The department cautioned consumers against expecting a price-depressing surplus.

"While some improvement in coffee supply is in prospect, all indications point to a continued upward trend in world coffee imports, and there is no present indication of surplus of coffee in the immediate future," it said.

Production costs were said to be increasing, but present prices were described as sufficiently high to encourage greater production.

Former Wife Of Comedian Milton Berle Tries Suicide

NEW YORK, July 15 (AP) —Joyce Mathews, former wife of Comedian Milton Berle, attempted suicide today in the plush Ziegfeld Theater apartment of Showman Billy Rose.

Police found her lying face down in a bathroom, unconscious and bleeding from slashed wrists.

Rose, who called police, said the blonde actress, 31, had barricaded herself in the bathroom and tried to kill herself

"Hurry," he pleaded. "See if you can save her. She tried to commit suicide."

In a hospital later, Miss Mathews parried a questioning policeman who wanted to know the motive for her act.

"'I just love razor blades,'" he said she replied.

It took police 15 minutes to open the bathroom door.

Made of metal, it did not yield to a fire axe.

The lock finally was forced with a small letter opened shaped like an oriental sword.

Tourniquets stopped the bleeding and Miss Mathews regained consciousness, pleading not to be taken to a hospital. She protested she did not want the publicity.

Later a hospital spokesman said Miss Mathews probably could be released within three days.

Rose, who once was married to the late Fannie Brice, now is married to Eleanor Holm, the former swimmer.

Mrs. Rose was not at the apartment when police arrived.

She came in some time later, accompanied by an unidentified man. She brushed past reporters.

Miss Mathews and Berle were married twice and twice divorced. Their first marriage ended at Reno in 1947. They were remarried in June, 1949. She want to the Virgin Islands in 1950 for the second divorce.

a 10 per cent wage increase based on their current basic rate (rounded off to the nearest fifty cents) and all employes in the bargaining unit whose present rates are $65.00 or more would have received a 10 percent increase.

"The general increases would have become effective on Sunday July 8, 1951 had an agreement been reached on July 11 and ratified by the employes not later than July 25, 1951.

"Under the company's new proposal individual employes would receive general wage increases in amounts based on their present basic rates of pay in accordance with the following table:"

Present Weekly Wage Rate	Proposed Amount of Increase
Up to $36 Inclusive	$3.00
$37 to $42 "	$3.50 (except as noted below)

"An increase of $5 was provided at the starting rate instead of the amount indicated above, in the case of certain job classifications such as Plant Craft and clerical employes in the Maryland Suburban exchanges and Plant Craft and certain other Non-Craft employes such as Building Mechanics in the Baltimore Metropolitan Area.

Other Changes Offered

"The company also offered to make certain additional changes in the present contract including arbitration in the case of discharges of employes (except in the case of misconduct) with three or more years of net credited service and demotions of employes having two or more years of continuous service in the jobs from which they were demoted.

"The Union in rejecting the Company's proposal stated that the $5 increase in starting rates in the Maryland Suburban and Baltimore locations should be reduced to a straight 10 per cent on the current basic rates (rounded off to the nearest fifty cents) and that the additional money thus available under the 10 per cent Wage Stabilization formula should be redistributed to the extent possible to employes receiving less than $65.00 per week. The Company took the position that an increase of $5 in the starting rate for certain job classifications in these areas would tend to bring the Telephone Company's starting rates more in line with the community's wage levels and would thus enable the Company to attract and retain the required number of well qualified new employes.

The Company told the Union that it stands ready to resume negotiations whenever the Union desires."

Wednesday on his birthday when his mother took him swimming for the first time in Constitution Park pool. "He loves it," says Mrs. Naughton. She has been taking him to the pool every day since. Many of Bobby's friends from Boone Street go to the pool with him, and they have many enjoyable hours together.

One of Bobby's favorite pastimes is to sit on the front porch of his home and watch the children, all his friends, play baseball or football in the street. He is very interested in sports, and whenever the "kids" play at the end of the street, they take Bobby with them. Mr. Naughton says Bobby is a favorite with the other children, and he always waves when he sees them.

Bobby keeps up with baseball and has chosen the "Phillies" as his team. He saves all clippings and data connected with the game. He also likes comic books and television. His parents have promised to buy him a television set as soon as it is available in the city.

Always Happy

One of Bobby's greatest assets is his ability at always being happy. Although he has to wear braces and is handicapped, Mr. Naughton remembers only once that Bobby was unhappy for a moment. This was during a radio program about the life of Babe Ruth, shortly after his death, in which money was being solicited for use in helping crippled children play baseball. At the end of the program, Bobby glanced at his father, then at his legs and shook his head sadly.

Naughton says Bobby has the mental ability of any child his age. He knows every program on the radio during the day and can identify each sponsor with a gesture. The way in which Bobby examines the newspaper leads Mr. Naughton to believe that sometime his son can read it like an adult.

Bobby has a brother and sister who are very fond of him, Charles, 7, and Deborah, 4. His father is executive vice president of the Cumberland Savings Bank and also chairman of the clearing house for all Cumberland banks.

In 1935 Americans ate less meat than in any other year in the Twentieth Century — 117 pounds a person.

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Does getting back to work make a neurotic worse?

Answer: Not often, say psychiatrists of the V. A. Mental Hygiene Clinic, Baltimore, Md. Study of the records of 100 psychoneurotic veterans who have been able to take jobs shows few cases in which their neuroses were made worse by employment conditions, and these usually could be straightened out with the help of the clinic if the management was sympathetic. While it is true that men who have had "nervous breakdowns" have more trouble than the average in getting on in jobs, they are usually better off when working than with nothing to do. This is true of neurotics in general.

Should you urge an alcoholic to seek treatment?

Answer: No, says James L. Free of the Santa Barbara (California) Mental Hygiene Clinic. "It is essential for the patient to come for treatment of his own accord . . . we can accomplish nothing with a man or woman who is dragged or pushed into the clinic by relatives or friends." Let the person know that he can get help when or if he wants it and leave it to him to seek it when he is ready. Urging him will only arouse the "stubbornness" which is characteristic of the alcoholic, and expresses the intensity of his resistance to facing the unpleasant facts he tries to escape by drinking.

Will a normal child steal?

Answer: Quite Possibly—at any rate, the fact that a child takes things which are not "his" is no sign that he is abnormal. No one is born with any realization of the fact that anything he wants "does not belong to him" and it takes both time and patience to bring the unpleasant truth home. With an older child who has accepted the idea of ownership, stealing generally represents a more or less unconscious feeling that he has been cheated out of something — most often his parents' love—and is getting even. But no child is "naturally" honest, or should be expected to be.

"Persecuted" U. S. Reds

The fact that four of the 11 American communist party leaders have jumped their bail leaves the government with a heavy financial loss on the transaction. The trial cost more than $1,000,000, and the forfeited bonds totaled only $80,000.

Meanwhile, the bail-jumping merely reemphasizes the feebleness of communist attacks on American justice in this trial.

The 11 defendants were free on bail before the trial as well as after it. They were not held incommunicado for 10 weeks before it started, as William Oatis was in Czechoslovakia, in a fiendish campaign to break their grip on themselves until they would "confess" to an assortment of imaginary crimes.

They were not "defended" in court by a stooge appointed by a judge who behaved like a biased prosecutor. Their attorneys were so able to abuse their privileges under American law that at times they almost caused orderly procedure to break down.

With a less patient and determined man than Judge Medina they would have succeeded, and then American justice would have granted them a mistrial.

After conviction they were not sent to prison but freed on bail while their case was appealed all the way to the United States Supreme Court. There a minority of two justices held that the Smith Act under which they were convicted violates the constitutional ban on interference with freedom of speech.

If three more justices had shared this attitude all 11 defendants would have been freed. Finally, four were able to jump bail and get away, at least temporarily.

The seven who are now locked up are entitled to the same privileges as other prisoners, with none of the refinements of torment to which Robert Vogeler was subjected in Hungary. They are not to be kept eternally in solitary, under glaring lights never turned off, watched 24 hours a day by hidden guards who yell at them for innocent acts not forbidden in American jails.

It would be poetic justice if these rats were given such treatment, but it wouldn't be American justice.

Air Sailing

Sailplane enthusiasts are a breed unto themselves. A landlubber, seeing a field of wheat glowing in the July sun, would likely say: "Stacks of bread there." The sailplaner would see a fine thermal, or updraft. To others a lake or woodland may mean peace and beauty, to a sailplaner they signal "downdraft!"

Sailplaners carry on by wits, experience and skill. They haven't a fan out front pulling them along. Grabbing onto a thermal here and there they soar to many thousands of feet and travel hundreds of miles. Sailplanes are to a conventional plane what a fine racing yawl is to a passenger liner. They are pure expressions of man against the elements.

There are more happy endings than not, as observers at the Dupont Airport in Wilmington, Del., discovered the other day. A graceful little ship swooped silently into the field after a flight of four hours from Elmira, N. Y. The flier, Stanley Smith—appropriately an aeronautical engineer—had done just what he had said he would. His landing represented a feat of navigation as well as soaring.

Sailplane pilots have discovered how to join nature, instead of trying to lick her. Much that has been learned over the years about air currents by these air sailors has been written into the texts placed before fledgling military fliers. And the average man is understandably a little envious of them, too.

Imagine having the chance to share with a hawk those breathless vistas of cumulus hills and valleys and all that quiet freedom!

Harnessing The Atom

Because of the international situation practically all discussion recently of atomic energy has been concerned with its use in war. It is gratifying to learn, therefore, that some persons in high places are taking a longer view of the situation.

Among the responsible officials who are looking ahead are the members of the Atomic Energy Commission. With the cooperation of an advisory committee composed of representatives of industry, and especially electric power producers, the AEC is making a continuing study of nuclear energy as a commercial asset.

In an interim report the committee asserts that enough evidence is at hand to "warrant a strong present and future interest in atomic energy on the part of the electric power industry."

That's the kind of talk that was heard immediately after Hiroshima when rosy prospects were painted of the benefits which would accrue to mankind from the peacetime application of the atomic energy principle. It is good to be reminded that scientists have not forgotten their earlier promises.

A Myth Exploded

The old myth that lightning never strikes twice in the same place has been exploded. Westinghouse Electric Corporation engineers say it always strikes twice in the same place and sometimes as many as 40 times. They have been studying the subject for more than 35 years.

They explain that a "lightning channel" is set up between cloud and earth by the first discharge. That is only a trail blazer, however. They contend any number of charge centers in the clouds may use it to send their bolts to earth. There are at least two discharges along the same channel, and more than 40 have been recorded, according to the engineers.

Modern lightning protection equipment, consisting of "lightning traps" maintained on top of tall structures, is virtually foolproof, the scientists say. They reveal also that lightning can be "cold" as well as hot. Hot lightning, which stretches out a low current over a longer period, causes most fires. The explosive kind is described as cold because it expends its high electric current in one burst.

Real Security

A real estate advertisement in a popular magazine is headed by the phrase, "Safely away from any bomb target area." This psychological approach to prospective buyers is an appeal to their desire for security. Fortunately such appeals have not moved any great number of people to seek safety by deserting the cities.

We can achieve real security by working vigorously for peace, by keeping our strength great enough to stop any enemy from damaging our homes, by our faith and by courage constant enough to know that we will rebuild if we must.

How To Keep Well

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

ACCIDENTS AMONG BABIES

We are likely to associate the crippled child with polio, arthritis, cerebral palsy, and rheumatic fever. Nevertheless these causes are not comparable with accidents which account for more deaths and permanent injuries than any of the diseases mentioned. In the first year of life the baby is at the mercy of his parents. In the words of Dr. H. F. Dietrich, they "cannot duck, dodge, or run.", The hazards are burning, drowning, mangling, crushing, or poisoning. Suffocation by bedclothes and pillows is reported to be responsible for one-half of all infant fatalities. Physicians question this diagnosis, however, and have found that many of the tragedies ascribed to mechanical suffocation actually are the result of acute respiratory infections. This error has caused grief to hundreds of adults who blame themselves needlessly for the loss of an infant thru carelessness.

• — • — •

Other origins of suffocation are the inhalation of foreign bodies such as pacifiers, marbles, and buttons; and the aspiration of milk, liquid foods, and vomit. Occasionally the little tikes get their heads caught under the arms or trays of the highchair or between wall and crib or the guard rails of the crib. These mishaps may lead to strangling. Babies are burned when cooking utensils are upset. Vaporizers are becoming a more important risk; many are makeshift devices that either set the bedclothes on fire or scald the baby. Only a small percentage of babies meets accidental death thru falls. Drowning in the tub while the mother or nurse answers the phone still occurs despite repeated warnings against this practice.

In the second year the same dangers exist but the child plays a more active role. He wanders about the room almost faster than the eye can follow and has an unlimited reach. The tot cannot help himself; he is following a natural impulse to learn; he is curious and must find out what hurts or burns and what is edible and nonedible.

• — • — •

Mild and logical discipline is needed but in most instances the parents and child profit by eliminating potential trouble makers. Discipline enters the picture when they are not permitted near the stove or open flame. Precautionary measures involve the removal of matches, table lighters, caustic solutions, and vaporing paraphernalia from the youngster's reach. The same can be said of protecting them against electrical connections. Scalding is kept at a minimum if the handles of pans are turned or a percolator cord is disconnected when mother leaves the room. It is well to remember that parents need be careless only once.

Let us not forget that accidents take the lives of 12,000 children annually and permanently disable 30,000 to 50,000. This problem should be fought, not feared. The ostrich stunt of hiding the head in the sand will get us no place. There always are some unavoidable mishaps but the accident rate could be reduced tremendously if we just concentrated on those that are preventable.

HEART MURMUR

Mrs. D. writes: Can a heart murmur come and go?

REPLY

Organic murmurs seldom disappear but the functional variety may be heard only during expiration. It vanishes during inspiration. Because such sounds are influenced by breathing, physicians refer to them as "respiratory murmurs." Those due to anemia or thyroid disturbance disappear when the causative condition is eliminated.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

F. L. writes: Are there any wonder drugs for hypertension?

REPLY

There are many wonder drugs but they do not work wonders in high blood pressure. In the usual forms of this condition, medications are not as important as the manner of living. I doubt if a barrel of drugs would overcome the stimulating effect on the blood pressure of an exciting job that requires a fast pace.

THIRSTY ON RETIRING

R. L. writes: As soon as I fall asleep I am awakened by a terrific thirst. After I get up for a drink I'm wide awake and cannot get back to sleep. Is there any way to correct this condition?

REPLY

This is not a symptom of any disease with which I am familiar. It may represent a habit pattern or conditioned reflex. If so, you may be able to break it by trying to get back to sleep without quenching your thirst.

ELECTROCARDIOGRAM

H. V. writes: Is the electrocardiogram useful in diagnosing angina pectoris?

REPLY

Individuals with angina pectoris often have a normal electrocardiogram. The exceptions are those who have had previous attacks of coronary thrombosis or who have suffered from angina over a period of years.

PERITONITIS

N. J. writes: Is peritonitis curable?

REPLY

Yes, with the sulfonamides and antibiotics. In many instances, surgery also is required.

Caught In The Middle

Housewife's Dilemma

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass. — The housewife complains that food prices are too high. Her budget is showing—in the red. No wonder! Only during the last twelve months, consumer prices for moderate income families have risen approximately 8.3%. Food prices have climbed 11%, clothing 10%, and rents 3%.

Living Standards Endangered

Higher and higher prices are endangering the living standards of millions of moderate income, middle-class families. The record shows that their food prices have increased 105% in the last decade;—apparel, 95%; rents, 30%; house furnishings, 100%; and such miscellaneous items as recreation, toilet articles, dry cleaning, and doctors' bills, 60%. The earnings of this group just haven't kept pace with prices.

This unfortunate situation especially hurts that large segment of professional and white-collar workers. These feel the squeeze most,—doctors, lawyers, teachers, clergy, civic leaders, accountants, office workers—and others with fixed incomes and pensions. In a very real sense many of these workers of our communities are the people who create ideas, those most interested in moral and spiritual values. These men and their wives are the forgotten people of today. For the good of our country, they need to be remembered.

Inflation And Simple Economics

Ever since the depression of the thirties we have been scared to death of Deflation. Everyone has wanted economic security. For the farmers this has meant price-support and subsidies. Labor leaders have encouraged price rises in order to give the unions good ammunition for wage rises. Business, in turn, has sanctioned wage increases and then encouraged inflation to pay the worker.

The unjust part of high prices is that they suck the life from the public for the benefit of the privileged few. The manufacturer anticipates enjoying inflation because he can get more for his products. Sooner or later his employees want more and more of his profits to pay the grocer's bill, and either he pays or their standard of living goes down. The worker, at the outset, enjoys inflation because of his hopes of higher wages, but both employer and employe lose in the long run. They find the price of the new car they want or the supper steak has gone up.

What We Need To Do

In short, we have been kidding ourselves into thinking that we can gain more in an inflated seller's market than we can lose in a deflated buyer's market. The history of Germany, Italy, France, Great Britain, and Russia clearly indicates that unbridled inflation undermines private enterprise, causes industries to shut down and throws people out of work.

I may be old-fashioned, but years of experience tell me that you won't ever remove the housewife's burden by rationing or allocations or price or wage controls. These current stopgap measures, in the long run, will deprive you of your economic liberties. The way to lower prices is to balance the national budget, raise interest rates, increase legal reserve ratios, curb installment buying, and ESPECIALLY INCREASE PRODUCTION WITH LOWER COSTS.

Up To The Women

If a large enough group of determined housewives decide to bring prices down, they can! My suggestion to the housewives is to band together and work together. Bring your group influence to bear day in and day out, not only on your congressman but also upon manufacturers and labor leaders. I, for one, do not want to contest the power of a woman!

Chiang Brother-In-Law Tries To Corner Soybean Market; From "Ham And Eggs" To "Oil And Gold"; GOP Outlines Campaign Targets For '52

WASHINGTON—American truce negotiators in Korea have noted with interest that the Chinese Communists are using American Jeeps. The American public has also wondered not only how the Communists were able to obtain American equipment, but why the Nationalist government was driven out of China.

The sub-rosa operations of the Chiang Kai-Shek family may be one of the answers. Another of their operations has just come to light—a move by a Chiang brother-in-law, with other wealthy Chinese to corner the soybean market at the expense of the American public.

Theb rother-in-law is T. L. Soong, brother of Foreign Minister T. V. Soong, who formerly handled much of the three and a half billion dollars worth of supplies which the United States sent to China during the war. The soybean pool netted a profit of $30,000,000 and shot up the cost to the American consumer $1 a bushel.

One of the strange things about the soybean manipulation was that its operators knew exactly the right time to buy up the world's soybean supply — a few weeks before the Communists invaded Korea.

Recently this column told how Eugene Soong, son of T. L. Soong, together with L. K. Kung, son of Dr. H. H. Kung, another brother-in-law, sold a huge quantity of precious tin to the Chinese communists. As a result Secretary of Commerce Sawyer has now barred this group, together with three law partners of ex-Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson, from getting export licenses to trade with any country for three years.

It was the father of Eugene Soong, T. L. Soong, who bought up half a million bushels of soybeans before the Korean war in May, 1950.

Soybeans are used for cattle and human food, in manufacturing plastics and paints, and are essential for war production. And 56 Chinese bought up the huge quantity of 6,986,000 bushels on the Chicago Board of Trade at $2.34 a bushel.

Shortly, threafter the price began to climb. It soared and soared. Finally, five days after the Communists invaded Korea, the price hit $3.45-½ a bushel, and the group sold out.

T. L. Soong is the same man in charge of supplies sent over the Burma road at a time when a series of warehouse fires and "sabotage" caused the disappearance of large quantities of war material.

Shortly thereafter, Soong left for the United States on a diplomatic passport, and was moved into an even more important spot in Washington—chief procurement officer of Chinese war supplies.

Soong is still here. But, instead of handling war supplies, he is now speculating in soybeans at the expense of the American public.

Operations like this may be one reason why the disillusioned Chinese people threw out the Soong-Kung dynasty and accepted communism as a lesser evil.

Oil And Gold

Ex.-Sen. Shediran Downey of California recently met radio correspondent Rudy Block in a Capitol corridor. Downey, who rose to political fame on an old-age pension scheme known as "ham and eggs," is now lobbying at $3,000 a month for Tidelands Oil.

"Well, Senator," said Block, as they shook hands. "I see it's from ham and eggs to oil and gold."

GOP Targets For '52

A frank outline of GOP campaign strategy for 1952 was presented to key Republican Senators' assistants by Ab Hermann, the energetic national committee executive director, in a private meeting the other night.

The tall, banjo-eyed Hermann, onetime big-league ballplayer, confided: "We won Senate seats last year wherever we took our gloves off. There were only two states we should have taken and didn't, and that was because our nominees refused to punch hard—Missouri and Connecticut.

"Why," complained Hermann, "we had to bootleg speakers like McCarthy into Connecticut."

The "prime targets" in 1950, he said were Scott Lucas in Illinois; Francis Myers in Pennsylvania; Elbert Thomas of Utah, and Millard Tydings of Maryland.

Turning to Frank Smith, assistant to Sen. John M. Butler, who defeated Tydings, Hermann continued: "We did a beautiful job in Maryland and Utah, Frank. I don't see why the Democrats yelled so much about the composite picture in your campaign, when, by comparison with the anti-Thomas newspaper in Utah, your publicity was like a country gentleman's."

He referred to the fact that in Utah, a supposed "congressional record" with statements attacking Thomas as a pro-Communist was circulated to all mailboxes in the last hours of the campaign—so late that Thomas had no opportunity to reply.

"We all know Senator Thomas was not a Communist," Hermann explained, "But these tactics were necessary to balance the pseudo-liberal newspapers which were for him.

Pointing to Dick Cardall, administrative aide to Sen. Arthur Watkins of Utah, Hermann continued: "There's the fellow who gets a lot of credit for that victory. Senator Bennett (the Republican who beat Thomas) is very much indebted to him."

The 1952 target areas, Hermann indicated, were to retain all Republican seats in the New England and Atlantic States, and pick up new senators in Arizona, New Mexico and Wyoming.

"We have Republican governors and some patronage strength to put on real scraps," he explained. "Also we have a fighting chance of picking up seats in Maryland, Kentucky and West Virginia and strengthen our position in the south.

"On the other hand," he said, pointing to a map behind him, "We could lose four or five senators. Quite frankly, even if there is a sweeping Republican victory for president, we still may not control the Senate."

Washington Pipelin

CORRECTION: In reporting the vote of the House Judiciary Committee for and against giving Tidelands Oil back to three states and the oil companies, I erroneously listed Congressman Claude Bakewell of St. Louis as voting against federal retention of Tidelands Oil. This was in error. I now learn that the congressman voted for federal retention....I was also in error in reporting the vote of Congressman Hamilton Jones of North Carolina. It was Congressman Woodrow Jones also of North Carolina who voted against federal retention of Tidelands Oil ... sincere apologies ....Hamilton Jones, incidentally, has been a strong supporter of education...Democratic Chairman Bill Boyle was warned by White House advisers not to send telegrams to Democratic National Committeemen urging them to pressure congress on price controls. "We've got 30 to 40 Republicans votes lined up," Boyle was warned, "and we may lose them if this looks like a Democratic issue."....Erudite Sen. Joe O'Mahoney of Wyoming is so overworked that his secretaries and executive assistants have to come to the radio recording room of the senate in order to squeeze in a word with him .... Nervous Senator Cain of Washington got in wrong with other GOP-eers for jumping the gun on part of the MacArthur committee report on the eve of cease-fire talks in Korea. Senator Brewster of Maine begged him to wait, but Cain wouldn't .... The globetrotting Senate Foreign Relations Committee gave out quite an imposing list of people it would interview abroad. But it omitted one name—Franco. Apparently the solons weren't enthusiastic about publicizing their visit with the dictator.

These Days

Bipartisanism

The administration has either wilfully or by necessity, in the Korean episode, chosen to by-pass the clear provisions of the constitution which give to Congress the responsibility for making war. The device was to call that war a "police action" by the United Nations, the United States, however, providing 90 per cent of the military strength and 100 per cent of the provisions.

Similarly, the constitution was bypassed at Teheran and Yalta, the decisions reached at those conferences not being concluded in treaties and therefore never being referred to the Senate for ratification as the constitution clearly provides.

Congress cannot do anything about this, particularly as any changes in the Teheran and Yalta agreements can only lead to war. But the time has come to call a halt to unconstitutional procedures.

The founding fathers, with rare wisdom, rejected the concept of secret diplomacy, recognizing that the best - intentioned men often move into queer mazes in the despairs of partisan politics. Therefore, they provided that although the President conducts the foreign policy of the United States, he must, constitutionally, in time place the entire matter before the Senate for ratification. Of course, if the Senate waives its constitutional authority and integrity, nothing can be done about it.

The bipartisan foreign policy, product of the thinking of Senator Vandenberg, John Foster Dulles, Thomas E. Dewey, General George Marshall and Secretary of State Cordell Hull, weakened the authority of the Senate by removing the minority party from knowledge of and opposition to national policies.

Like so many other World War II measures which did not work out, the bipartisan foreign policy seemed to be the right thing to do to many Republicans, even to some who disagreed with the Harry Hopkins program of appeasement of Soviet Russia. Furthermore, with great skill, the program of bipartisanship was sold to the country and few politicians were willing to risk opposition to it. Therefore, for a prolonged period, the bipartisan foreign policy was accepted by large numbers as sacrosanct.

The State Department used this policy to evade consultation with the Senate, even on matters which later required ratification. It became clear, during the MacArthur hearings, that few Senators, even on the foreign relations committee of the Senate, were adequately informed concerning matters which involved war and the loss of American lives. The minority partner of bipartisanship was never informed, consulted or recognized once it had consented to bipartisanship. It was more a public relations activity than a procedure of government.

President Roosevelt was careful to keep Senator Vandenberg informed. President Truman selected his own Republicans whom he recognized as proxies for that party. By this device, he was able to say that he even had Republicans in the State Department and therefore it was not necessary to deal either with Republican members of the foreign relations committee or the Republican leadership in Congress. By utilizing the services of John Foster Dulles, he paid his complete debt to bipartisanship.

The danger in this method is that the people have no way of knowing what they are pledged to until it is too late to do anything about it. The Korean War, which has been our first military defeat, is a case in point. What would have happened on June 25, 1950, if Congress were called in session to pass a joint resolution declaring war? It is even possible that they might not have done it or that they would have demanded information now available but then not known even to high officials of the government.

For instance, had Congress known then that Dean Acheson had committed the United States to Great Britain to recognize Soviet China — would Congress have risked this war?

Yet, the responsibility for war rests strictly upon Congress and the responsibility for a treaty between the United States and a new government involving recognition, peace, amity, trade must be ratified by the Senate.

The issue can no longer be whether the bipartisan foreign policy is sound or not; it is whether the constitution functions or not. And that question ought not to be ignored by members of Congress, particularly of the Senate, if that body is to be respected by the American people. Its responsibilities are clear and cannot be dodged. If it retreats from those responsibilities and permits an unconstitutional procedure in the field of foreign relations, the Senate is in default and Americans must then ponder the effectiveness of constitutional provisions.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — The Chinese and North Korean representatives at the "cease fire" conference were visibly disturbed when they learned that General Ridgway would break off the negotiations if the newsmen accompanying the UN conferees were not given free access to Kaesong.

Presumably the refusal the next day to permit the newsmen to go forward was due to the failure of the Moscow and Peiping authorities to send word back in time to prevent the stoppage at the entrance to the Kaesong area.

The UN negotiators have instructions of a rather firm character. They are anxious to establish promptly whether the Communists are concerned with the form or the substance.

If it's merely the form, there are plenty of ways to patch up the differences. Thus, an agreement might be reached to exclude all photographers and newsmen till the negotiations have reached a later stage or to select a certain number from both sides to be present in the city but not at the conferences.

Will Show Hand

If the Communist negotiators really are acting in good faith, they will be able to show very soon what their purpose was in arranging for the conferences at Kaesong. Up to the time the negotiations came to a halt over the question of admitting newsmen, other obstacles had arisen. The Communists, for example, began to talk at one of the first conferences about withdrawing UN troops from Korea. This, of course, is a "political" subject and the UN representatives said frankly they had not been and would not be authorized to discuss political questions.

It was all the more surprising to the UN envoys to hear such things raised because Russia's Deputy Foreign Minister Gromyko had assured American Ambassador Kirk at Moscow that the "cease fire" negotiations would concern military matters only and that political subjects would be left to subsequent negotiation after the armistice had taken effect.

Communication Problem

On the surface, this might appear to mean that the Chinese Communists were far more insistent on carrying on the war than the Russians. The chances are that such an interpretation is not the true one and that difficulties of communication are really at fault. The Chinese could not possibly be in any more bellicose mood than the Russians, from whom they get the bulk of their supplies.

As yet there is no evidence as to what caused the Soviets to encourage the "cease fire" negotiations. One reason advanced is that the economic blockade was about to pinch the Soviets harder than is generally known and that the drain of the Korean War on Soviet supplies and equipment was a bit too much for Moscow.

The American government, which is steering the negotiations, is quite well aware of the unfavorable impression made by the early dispatches about the "cease fire" negotiations which spoke of American military men going to Kaesong virtually in the guise of peace seekers while the Communists stood armed around the conference. The idea that the UN has come begging for an armistice will not only be spread throughout Asia but it has already affected many Americans. Yet the argument in favor of going into enemy-held territory was that the UN could afford to make concessions on the "form" — that it could afford to risk the unfavorable impression of those first few days if in the end the UN got the "substance."

What the UN wants is an armistice line north of the 38th parallel at the present military position of both forces. Also the UN wants access to North Korea for its commission to supervise the armistice. There are other vital points which must be agreed upon before there is a "cease fire." Meanwhile, General Ridgway is just as suspicious as anyone would want him to be, for he is well aware of the build-up going on behind the Chinese lines.

If a resumption of fighting is forced, the Communists will suffer heavy punishment and maybe the ban on bombing Manchurian bases will be lifted. This correspondent gets the impression here that officials of our government expect the "cease fire" to be consummated after a series of conferences.

Compatability Is A Wonderful Thing

Compatability, a word which has hitherto been applied chiefly to people, especially married folk, is getting a brand new run for its money in the world of electronics, specifically in color television. During the past week we in New York, have been permitted to witness RCA's color television system. A handful have managed to get into the RCA exhibit hall and see a half hour show in three colors and also on adjoining sets in black and white.

Some 4,000,000 other set owners in the metropolitan area, if they weren't at the dishes at 10 a.m. which is almost the only practical hour NBC was allowed to run its field tests, were exposed to RCA's color system in black and white and got the comfortable feeling of being let in on something which has previously been only for a few privileged, haughty people — Senators, F. C. C. commissioners, vice-presidents—who were bandying about our electronic destiny behind what almost amounted to locked doors.

• — • — •

CBS's field sequential or whirling disk system, buttressed by the United States Supreme Court, is now the law of the land. Yet it is still an uncomfortable secret which CBS would like to share with the rest of us but doesn't quite know how to go about it. The RCA system, while not exactly illegal, is terribly unofficial. But the public—at least in the New York area and eventually in others—has access to it as they had access to the speakeasy, another highly unofficial institution in its day. Compatability is a wonderful thing.

So is color television—when, as and if anyone can afford it. As to the merits of the two systems, it would be pretty hard to determine unless CBS and the improved RCA receiver were set side by side. The differences, I suspect, would be of great interest to the engineers but probably wouldn't be very noticeable to you and me. RCA color, I think, is sometimes a little more pallid, not quite so rich in texture as the CBS brand. Just the same it's good color transmission. It would certainly brighten your home. And don't forget its' compatible in case you're a black-and-white lad whose home doesn't need brightening and who prefers Milton Berle in monochrome.

The splendor of color enhances almost everything on television—the fabrics, the gowns, the scenery—everything, in fact, except people.

The RCA show I saw opened with a parade of Conover models whose pari-tinted habiliments were greatly enriched by color cameras but whose own personalities, it seemed to me, were somewhat dimmed by all the tri-colored radiance. These babes could be watched on black and white or in color and I thought they looked both younger and prettier in b & w. Also they looked more like people. I've been looking at people for some time now and I guess they have always come through to me in black and white or in suitable shades of gray. On color television, they're tinted from head to foot and look a little phoney like dolls.

One of the features of the show was a remote pickup from a Palisades Park pool where the water was a magnificent emerald and Buster Crabbe was a sort of cedar and the whole thing—as Ben Grauer proudly told us—was illuminated only by nature. Well, nature isn't always right—an aphorism I picked up at my mother's knee—and I would have preferred Mr. Crabbe in some less conspicuous shade like, say, clay pink. Eventually, all sorts of sports will be in color. This will bring out the full splendor of the Polo Grounds but what about Ed Stanky? Stanky in three colors might easily produce technicolored nightmares in the children.

Nature — another expression I picked up from mother—abhors a vacuum tube unless the installments have been paid on it. Just now television needs a lot of things—imagination, taste and money, to name three; it needs almost everything except color. The progress of the art—if I may make so bold—would be seriously interrupted by any non-compatible system like CBS's; it would be left unimpaired and possibly unchanged for years to come by RCA color, which would give us set owners a chance to pay for the present set and still see the color broadcasts (if only in black and white).

• — • — •

Just one other small point. One of the entertainers on the RCA color show was introduced as "the brand new singing sensation." The language of broadcasting is neither more nor less colorful than it was—black and white, or for that matter, in radio.

Speeding Crackdown Starts In Ridgeley

A crackdown on speeders in Ridgeley was announced Saturday by Police Commissioner Charles Fryer.

The commissioner explained the limit in the West Virginia community is 25 miles an hour but that a number of complaints have been received that autos are exceeding this limit.

Fryer said most complaints deal with Potomac, Main, Knobley and Blocher streets. He also said there has been considerable parking on red lines and noted this will be stopped.

It was explained by the commissioner that a traffic light will be installed soon at Third Avenue and Potomac Street.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

BASSINGBOURN, Eng., July 15 (INS) — This was a good gutty U. S. Army Eighth Air Force field in World War II. Its young men, or at least those who survived their tour of duty, were mainly gay guys, lived life to the full, were less "military" than any other branch of the service, wore "raunchy" caps and sometimes silk scarves and, between missions, were in the oat-sowing business in London.

Today this massive field, shared by the U. S. Air Force and the R. A. F., is one of half a dozen bases in Britain from which A-bombs could be flown if necessary.

One notices an almost eerie difference between the Bassingbourn of, say 1943, and the Bassingbourn of today. The world of aviation has changed intensely in that short stretch. So have the men concerned. So has the weapon at hand.

A single Eniwetok-type A-bomb, dropped on a target, could produce more destruction than many months of missions of the sort I saw start from this base eight years ago. We considered the B-17 of 1943, with its two ton load of 500-pound high explosive bombs, an overpowering war machine.

• — • — •

If war with Russia broke out today, a single B-50, carrying a single bomb which apparently weighs less than the load the old B-17 carried would be airborne with rapidity fit to make the head swim.

From Bassingbourn, if all went well, it could reach Moscow in about three hours. The bomb it would drop would be the equivalent of 50,000 tons of TNT, if it is true, as reported by the AEC, that the new A-bomb is "several" times more powerful than the Hiroshima bomb, which had the potential of 20,000 tons of TNT.

A lone B-17 once based at Bassingbourn in a more primitive age of aerial warfare could drop two tons on a target. In other words, that hypothetical B-17 would have had to make about 25,000 trips to Moscow (if it could have gotten there) to wreak as much damage as one of Lt. Gen. Curtis Lemay's '50's.

Not that the Air Force is thinking of A-bombing Moscow or any other city. But it is in a state of intense preparation, as if it were a fine fighter who, though he has no match actually scheduled, keeps in fighting shape.

Under the command of a brilliant young World War II vet, Lt. Col. "Casey" Stengel, the Bassingbourn branch of our Air Force overseas reflects, as do the other bases, the tremendous esprit de corps of the Strategic Air Command. The men sense quietly that they are the free world's first line of defense, and are ready to be the first to be called upon in the event of a great war.

"We're professionals," Col. Stengel put it.

• — • — •

The Air Force retains its "college try" but has divorced itself from its collegiate manner. Many of the B-17's which flew out of this base in the air war against Germany were, by comparison to the B-50, little more than cross-bows.

One of the '50's four Pratt and Whitney engines develops as much power as all four engines of the '17. As an electric power plant, a '50 could light a good-sized American city. Its crew — headed by officers of the rank of major and lieutenant colonel — are past masters in the intricacies of radar, bomb-sights, pressurization, remote control of guns, and the like. Above all, they have been schooled in the handling and use of the most sensitive and combustible weapon in history — the A-bomb.

A B-50, without its bomb and its intensively-trained crew, represents a price tag of about $750,000. Hence the 2-hour pre-flight test before one takes off on a practice mission. Hence the intensive training, the complete intolerance of mistakes on the part of a commander of one of the craft, the sobriety of the men of SAC.

"It's a different world," Capt. Tony Alligood, of Tampa, Fla., who flew '17's for the Eighth Air Force in 1944, mused in the ready room at Bassingbourn. "A fellow doesn't want to go to London any more."

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

Washington, D. C. — July 15 — At a conference here, I took some notes on what employers from all over the country gave as reasons why many business girls fail to get ahead. The three primary ones have nothing to do with ability; they are matters of conduct and personality over which every girl has full control.

If you fail on your job because of one of these three errors, the chances are that you will never be told about it. You just won't get the promotion, you'll be demoted, or your connection with the company will be severed and some impersonal reason will be given.

Serious Charges

To see whether you are out of line for success, see whether you are in line on any one of these criticisms with which working girls were charged:

1. Being more interested in their social lives than in their jobs. As one man put it, "It beats me how any work gets done with all the yakity-yak that goes on."

2. Dressing inappropriately and in ways that lower the tone of a place of business. The young crowd togs out as though going to a picnic. Older girls err by looking like movie sirens or else they are just tacky.

3. Lack of poise in dealing with colleagues and the company's callers. The "go away, you bother me" technique or the "imperious lady" approach have no place in business.

Business Girl's Code

After an honest examination of your own ways, you may very well be able to pronounce yourself guiltless of such uncharming behavior. But if you look around you, you can easily see many who, unless they quickly change their ways, are earmarked for failure.

Strict attention to the job in business hours; crisp, basic clothes for office wear; a receptive, co-operative and gracious manner at all times are the touchstones of success. Never swerve from them, if you want to make your mark!

The Old Second Guesser

Shining Up A Show For Broadway

It was a big opening night. Two lines form a lane from the curb to the theater entrance, the crowd held back by police, while late kibitzers bulge out in the gutter, making a fringe along the street. They are seeking celebrities and hope some of the glamor may rub off. The Duke and Duchess of Windsor dismount from their limousine chariot, and walk to the door, as he fishes in his p[illegible]et for the tickets like any other husband. He throws away the butt of a cigar he's been smoking. An alert bobby soxer slips between the cops and grabs it.

"I got it," she shouts triumphantly, holding it up.

Then when it's over, the director, the producer, the backers and other interested parties sit up, sweating it out until they see the morning paper reviews. According to managers, the Times and News are the two most important to have on your side with favorable reports. Nowadays, it may cost $300,000 to put on a big musical, and that ain't hay. Usually a show has a group of stage-struck guys and dames who invest their money in it. Once the producer risked his own coin without backers, but then it didn't involve so much. Even at that time everybody concerned had first night jitters.

Requires Patience

The other day I sought out George Abbott, one of the most successful directors, to ascertain how and where he started to turn out a finished product for a Broadway opening. It seems to be a tedious process which requires a lot of patience. When the cast is tentatively selected, rehearsals get under way, and the rough edges are finally smoothed down, and the whole thing begins to take shape. Before exposing it to a Broadway audience, there is a tryout on the road.

"What town do you like best for this?" I asked him.

"New Haven," he replied. "It has the finest theater, which is well run, and the best audiences."

Like Father, Like Son

"No, they are in the minority, and we've never had any trouble with them. Once in a while a few will get drunk and come around in the alley to try to pick up some of the girls. Maybe they start a fight with a couple of stagehands who protect the performers. But their fathers are likely to do the same thing later when we reach New York."

"Do you throw out actors and actresses as you put a show under the out-of-town microscope?"

"I don't, but others do. I have made up my mind during rehearsals about the performers. Russell Nype, who had only played small parts before, is a great hit in 'Call Me Madam.' When we were on the road, some of my associates didn't like him. I stuck to him."

"Can you pretty well tell after you've opened in a town like New Haven whether it will do?"

"Usually, although often you decide there is something wrong, and then you have to fish around until you find out what it is and correct it. Before we brought 'A Tree Grows In Brooklyn' into New York, we threw out the biggest and most expensive set, which cost $15,000. When we put the production together we thought it was necessary, but it wasn't, so it went into the ash can."

Move To Big Towns

After New Haven, the troupe usually moves on to Boston and Philadelphia.

"After we get into New York, we keep on working. Only the other day, I went to 'Call Me Madam' and made notes. Then I called the cast together and rehearsed them for two hours. An actor or actress soon finds out where he is going to get the laughs, and he builds up to these so he does not play the character smoothly. That hurts the show. Russell Nype got to burlesquing his part without knowing it until I showed him.

"'Do I really walk like that?' he asked. He tries hard and has not been spoiled by success and because he has become the darling of Society including the Windsors. On the opening night he went into Sardi's restaurant after the performance, and everybody stood and applauded. Instead of swelling up, he said,

"'Thanks. Now I've certainly got to work hard.'

"Yes, we have skull practice in show business to keep the cast on its toes just like they do in baseball and football."

Merle Houseworth Shoots Perfect Score

EQUALS BROTHER'S FEAT — Ricardo Mellon, 12, (above) of McCoole, won the fourth annual Cumberland Soap Box Derby Saturday on Pennsylvania Avenue, defeating Bobby Gero, Cumberland in the finals, before a turnout estimated at 5,000 persons. Ricardo thus equalled the performance of his brother, Ernesto Mellon, winner of the Derby here in 1950. Mellon made the best time of the day, 29½ seconds in defeating Gero. The champion was sponsored by Grayson's Sporting Goods Store, Keyser. Gero's sponsor was Reynolds' Cigar Store. Through his victory, Mellon earned the right to go to Akron, Ohio, on a 4-day trip as representative of this city in the All-American event August 12. Mellon is shown above with the Chevrolet plaque, which was presented to him by Frederic W. Eiler of Eiler Chevrolet which sponsored the event along with the Cumberland Times-News, Junior Association of Commerce, and South End Business Men's Association.

Athletics Cop Double Header From Chicago

Hooper And Zoldak Triumph, 3-1, 5-0

CHICAGO, July 15 (AP) — Sam Zoldak pitched a one hitter, facing only 28 batters, as the Philadelphia Athletics dumped the Chicago White Sox, 5-0, after pitcher Bob Hooper blasted a three run, ninth inning homer to beat the Pale Hose, 3-1, in the opener of a twin bill today.

Only hit against Zoldak was a third inning clean single to left field by Shortstop Chico Carrasquel.

The Pale Hose, who kept tottering in second place despite the double defeat, propelled only eight balls to the outfield against Zoldak, including Carrasquel's single.

Hooper, continuing his amazing mastery over the Sox, blasted his game winning circuit clout in the opener with two out and the count against him 3-2. Box:

South Wins Over North, 12-1, In Interstate All-Star Tilt

Victors Collect 18 Hits; Gaffney Paces Attack; 600 See Game

Manager Ellis "Pat" Patterson's South tossers collected 18 hits and trounced the North team headed by Frank Hite in the Inter-state Baseball League's annual all-star game yesterday at Moorefield. The score was 12-1.

Thirty-two of the 41 players nominated for the contest participated in the game in which the North team comprising players of Hyndman VFW, Centerville and the Cumberland Black Sox were blanked until the ninth inning when a hit batsmen, two fielder's choices and Homer Rose's single averted a shutout.

12 Of 16 Hit Safely

Twelve of the 16 players in the South's lineup obtained one or more hits. Jim Gaffney of the Cumberland Moose sparked the winners with two doubles and a single in four trips and Dane McGee, of Romney; "Huck" Seymour and Bill Harman, Moorefield, and Mickey Clark of the Moose, rapped two safeties each.

Seymour hit for the circuit in the sixth inning and excelled at third base for the winners by handling seven chances without a slipup. Bob Bryant, second baseman, and Veryl Nave, centerfielder, starred afield for the North.

Trio Yields Four Blows

Homer Rose obtained two of the four blows yielded by the South's pitching trio of "Pete" Elliott, Norman Geatz and Paul Raines.

Glenn Deremer, first of five North pitchers, was the loser while "Pete" Elliott was the winner.

Approximately 600 persons witnessed the contest. Box:

Garver Beats Red Sox, 3-1

Boston Gets Split, Takes Second, 9-5

ST. LOUIS, July 15 (AP) — Billy Goodman sparked the Boston Red Sox to a 9-5 decision over the St. Louis Browns today in the second game of a doubleheader after the Red Sox bowed to Ned Garver and the Browns 3-1 in the opener. Goodman hit a double and three singles for four trips in the nightcap.

The doubleheader drew 10,790, largest Browns home crowd of the season.

The split enabled the league-leading Red Sox to pick up ground over the second-place Cricago White Sox, who dropped a doubleheader to Philadelphia.

The Bosox knocked out starter Bill Kennedy and scored six runs on seven straight hits in a big second inning in the second game. These included six singles and a double by Lou Boudreau.

Garver pitched a five-hitter in the opener for his 12th victory against four losses. It was Garver's third straight triumph and the lone Boston run was only the third scored off him in his last 27 innings of work. Box:

Petersburg Hurler Tosses No-Hitter

PETERSBURG, W. Va., July 15 — Jimmie Kessel, pitcher for the Giants of the Petersburg Junior Softball League, hurled a no-hit game Friday evening against the unbeaten Indians, to defeat them by the score of 2 to 1. A triple play was executed by the Giants. Catching for the Giants was Ted Alkire, son of "Skin" Alkire, manager of the Merchants of the Allegany League. Kessel struck out eight batters and gave up one walk which accounted for the one run of the Indians. Score:

GIANTS 2 3 1
INDIANS 1 0 0
Kessel and Alkire, Alt and Hughes.

The Indians led the league with a 4-1 record followed by the Giants 4-2, Senators 2-4 and Dodgers 1-4.

Cards Win 7-4, Lose 6-4; Musial, Konstanty Star

PHILADELPHIA, July 15 (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals split a doubleheader with the Philadelphia Phillies today, taking the opener 7-4 with the help of four home runs, and dropping the second, 6-4, as Jim Konstanty tossed splendid relief ball to protect a slim margin.

Stan Musial led the home run barrage in the first game, slamming a pair of circuit swats, his 17th and 18th of the year. Billy Johnson and Del Rice also homered for the Redbirds while Tommy Brown and Del Ennis hit for the distance for the Phillies.

Konstanty came on in the sixth and worked three and two-third shutout innings to preserve the victory for Heintzelman. Box:

Furgol Is Victor In Western Open

Marty Posts 270, Edges Middlecoff

DAVENPORT, Ia., July 15 (AP)—Marty Furgol, a 34-year-old World War II navy veteran, won the Western Open Golf Tournament today with an exciting 65 finish for a 270 total for 72 holes.

Furgol dropped a 3½ foot putt for a birdie 3 on the 18th green to edge Cary Middlecoff, the former Memphis dentist, by a single stroke.

Sam Snead, seeking his third straight western title, blew his chances when he blasted his 16th hole tee shot into a creek and carded a 6, two over par. Sam finished with a 71 and a 273 total, good for third place.

George Fazio, Pine Valley, N. J., professional deadlocked with Snead at the start of the final 18 holes, faded to a 73 and a 275 figure in seventh position.

Lloyd Mangrum, Niles, Ill., Johnny Palmer, Badin, N. C., and Jim Ferrier, winner of the Canadian Open last week, tied for fourth at 274.

Mangrum, only a shot away from the lead at the 54-hole mark, carded a 71 fourth round.

Ferrier moved up fast with a five-under-par 65, matching Furgol's finish for the lowest round of the day.

Furgol, professional at the Cog-Hill Club, Lemont, Ill., picked up $2,250 for his winning performance. It was his second major tournament conquest this season. He was the top hand in the Houston, Tex., open.

Tigers, Yanks Split

DETROIT, July 15 (AP)—Allie (No-Hit) Reynolds strode in as a relief pitcher in the ninth inning to halt a Detroit rally and give the New York Yankees an 8-7 win in the second game of a doubleheader today. The Tigers won the first game 5-3 on brawny Vic Wertz's two-run triple.

Detroit pinchhitter Charley Keller's three-run homer with one out in the ninth drove starter Tom Morgan, the winner, to the showers and brought in Reynolds.

Reynolds, who pitched a no-hitter last week, gave up a single and a walk but retired the side as 45,919 fans moaned.

The Yankees' double-header jinx — they haven't swept both games this year—was maintained when Freddie Hutchinson hurled his eighth win in the opener. Box:

Pirates Score 7-6, Lose To Hearn, 8-3

NEW YORK, July 15 (AP)—Jim Hearn hung up his eighth victory and fourth over Pittsburgh today as he pitched the New York Giants to an 8-3 triumph over the Pirates in the second game of a doubleheader. The Pirates won the opener, 7-6, in 12 innings. Erv Dusak singled home the winning run.

The first game, requiring three hours and 29 minutes to play, was decided when Dusak, pitcher-outfielder who was making his debut as a second baseman for the Pirates, singled with two out in the 12th to score Gus Bell from third base.

Murry Dickson, working relief the last four frames, checked the Giants without a hit and was credited with his 11th win.

In the second game, Hearn turned in his first complete job since June 15.

Bobby Thomson, with a homer, double and single, and Willie Mays, with a homer and triple, led a 15-hit Giant attack off Bill Werle. Jim Walsh, Paul La Palme, Ted Wilks and Bob Friend, who had started the first game. Box:

In Memoriam

Sadly missed by husband and children: Susie A. O'Neal who died July 16th, 1946, five years ago today.

On the Resurrection Morning soul and body meet again, no more sorrow,
Or weeping, no more pain.
Here a while we must be parted and the flesh it's Sabbath keeps
Waiting in a holy stillness wrapped in sleep, for a space the tired body waits in place the morning dawn . . .
When there breaks the last and brightest Easter Morn.
On that happy Easter Morn all the graves their dead restore, father, mother, sister, brother meet once more; soul and body reunited.

In Memoriam

Sadly missed by husband and children: Susie A. O'Neal who died July 16th, 1946, five years ago today.

On the Resurrection Morning soul and body meet again, no more sorrow,
Or weeping, no more pain.
Here a while we must be parted and the flesh it's Sabbath keeps
Waiting in a holy stillness wrapped in sleep, for a space the tired body waits in place the morning dawn. . .
When there breaks the last and brightest Easter Morn.
On that happy Easter Morn all the graves their dead restore, father, mother, sister, brother meet once more; soul and body reunited.

Chandler Bows Out

READING, Pa., July 15 (AP) — A. B. "Happy" Chandler ended his six year tenure as commissioner of baseball today by singing "My Old Kentucky Home" to 3,000 persons.

The unaccompanied vocal rendition came at the end of a speech dedicating Reading's $650,000 Municipal Memorial Stadium.

Happy told the crowd he is going to look for a new job but first: "I'm going fishing in Kentucky."

Cubs, Braves Draw

BOSTON, July 15 (AP)—After being blanked, 7-0, by Lefty Warren Spahn in the opener, the Chicago Cubs rebounded for a 10-4 victory today to divide a doubleheader with the Boston Braves. Virginia Mae Elkins vs. Richard E. Elkins. No. 22247 Equity. In the Circuit Court For Allegany County, Maryland.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is to obtain a divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII of the Plaintiff from the Defendant.

The bill states that the parties were married on March 15, 1942, in Cumberland, Maryland, and that two children were born of said marriage, namely, Eleanor Lee Elkins, age 8 and Richard Elkins, age 9; that the Defendant on May 1st, 1944, without just cause or reason deserted and abandoned the Plaintiff and has declared his intention to live with her no longer, and that such desertion and abandonment has been continuous and uninterrupted for more than eighteen (18) months and is deliberate and final and without any reasonable hope of reconciliation; that the Plaintiff is a resident of Allegany County, Maryland, and that the Defendant is a non-resident.

IT IS THEREUPON, This 21st day of June, 1951, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, in Equity, ordered that the Plaintiff by causing a copy of this Order to be published in some newspaper, once in each of four successive weeks, before the 23rd day of July, 1951, giving notice to the absent Defendant of the object and purpose of this suit and warning him to be and appear in this Court, in person or by Solicitor, on or before the 9th day of August, 1951, to show cause, if any he has, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Charles E. Krapf and William F. Krapf vs. Clyde F. Adams, Frank H. Krapf, Florence Adams Whitefield, Roy E. Adams, Philip D. Adams, Nonda Adams Rockwell, Anna Adams Arthurs, and Melvin Deal. No. 22,178 Equity, in the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a Decree of Court declaring null and void a deed from Charles E. Krapf and William F. Krapf to Charles Krapf, late of Allegany County, deceased, dated December 18, 1934 and recorded in Liber 171, folio 103 of the Land Records of Allegany County, Maryland, and for an accounting of rents and profits from the property covered thereby, and further relief.

The Bill states that Mary J. Krapf died intestate on November 14, 1933, owning property at 243-245 Virginia Avenue, in Cumberland; that her husband, Charles Krapf and her grandsons, Charles E. Krapf and William F. Krapf, each inherited a ⅓ interest in said property; that on December 18, 1934 Charles Krapf prevailed upon said plaintiffs to convey to him their interest therein for the unfair sum of $1000.00 each, said property being of considerable more value, and that plaintiffs were mere youths of no business experience, and resided with Charles Krapf and relied upon his counsel and reposed trust and confidence in him so that he could, and did, influence their wills, and he lead them to believe that said property would return to them at his death, but that upon the death of said Charles Krapf on September 8, 1950 he willed said property to defendants Clyde F. Adams, Florence Adams Whitefield, Roy E. Adams, Philip D. Adams, Nonda Adams Rockwell, Anna Adams Arthurs, and Melvin Deal, all non-residents of the State of Maryland; and that plaintiffs expended work and money on said property, but never received any rents and profits therefrom.

IT IS THEREUPON this 30th day of June, 1951, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, in Equity, ordered that the plaintiffs by causing a copy of this order to be published in some newspaper, once in each of four successive weeks before the 2nd day of August, 1951, give notice to the said absent defendants of the object and purpose of this suit, and warn them to be and appear in this Court in person or by solicitor, on or before the 20th day of August, 1951, to show cause, if any they have, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

Westvaco's Papermakers took over the runner-up spot in the Bi-State Baseball League, one-full game back of the Frostburg Demons, by handing the Cumberland Merchants their 15th consecutive setback yesterday at Memorial Park, Westernport. The score was 7-4.

"Woody" Woodson, Westvaco righthander, weathered a stormy first inning when he yielded four runs but the home team fought an uphill battle, tied it up at 4-4 in the 6th and rallied for three in the 8th to put the game on ice.

Vance Shears hit a three-run homer and Cooper and Shimmenger doubled for the Merchants' four runs in the first inning. Bob Muir homered with Woodson aboard to give Westvaco two runs in the third. Woodson and Muir then drove in two tallies in the 6th. In the 8th, Woodson scored what proved to be the winning marker on a wild pitch, Mosser squeezed over another on a sacrifice bunt and Inskeep doubled in the 7th and final marker.

Muir collected four hits in five trips, Inskeep had a double and single and Leo Ryan rapped two singles for Westvaco. Kirk, Cooper and Cage had two blows each for Cumberland.

'Coney Tops Demons

Bill Duffy, Lonaconing pitcher, yielded 13 hits but the Frostburg Demons were unable to solve his slants in the pinches and they went down to defeat at Lonaconing to the tune of 8-1.

Twenty-two men were left on the bases in this game in which thirty hits were recorded. 'Coney got 17 hits and had 10 runners stranded. Frostburg garnered 13 hits and had 12 perish on the paths.

Five of Lonaconing's runs came on homers, Lou Fisher of Smock, Pa., hit for the circuit with Powers aboard, Bill Duffy, also of Smock banged one with Billy Smith on base and Watson connected with the bases empty.

Fisher had a homer, double and single, George Marble two doubles and two singles and Tommy Powers three singles for the winners. Frank Urbas smacked two doubles and a single and Ted Durbin rapped three singles to pace the league leaders at the plate. Bob Duffy and Watson, 'Coney's keystone combination, featured afield.

Rain washed out the Keyser Firemen at Hyndman Firemen contest. The scores:

French Pilot Dies In Plane Crash

VERSAILLES, France, July 15 (AP)—Two sports planes collided over the airfield of St. Cyr Military School today, killing one of France's best known amateur pilots, Abel La Gaisse, secretary of the National Federation of Air Sports.

LaGaisse's plane crashed against buildings of the Versailles army bakery. The other plane, piloted by Abraham Delit, a Hollander living in France, fell in a field 200 yards away. Delit suffered serious injuries, including a fractured skull, and was taken to a Versailles Hospital.

Terra Alta's first half champions, Friendsville and Swanton's Dodgers registered wins in the Mountain Top Baseball League yesterday to remain tied for first place with 2-0 records.

Bob Staley registered his 10th consecutive victory of the season as Terra Alta downed Kitzmiller, 3 to 0. Only seven hits were made by the teams. Fraley struck out eight for the Preston Countians who are unbeaten in 11 starts this season.

Swanton took Aurora into camp by the score of 7-5. The longest hit of this game was a triple by Jack Miller of the Dodgers.

Ralph Zook, Martinsburg, Pa., pitched Friendsville to a 2-0 decision over Accident. He fanned a dozen batsmen. Ray Hoover, also of Martinsburg, batted in both runs in the 8th inning. Butler got four of Accident's six hits and Joe Blumbaugh banged a pair of two-baggers for Friendsville. Dale Glass turned in several nice catches in centerfield for the winners.

In a wild affair at Oakland, Loch Lynn won a slugfest and erratic fielding tilt from Oakland, 21 to 13.

Forty-one hits were racked up by the teams and 17 errors were charged against them. John Foley went the route for Loch Lynn and posted his 7th win against two losses.

Williams of Loch Lynn had six hits in seven at bats while Stewart hit safely four times in six trips. Gary Baker of Oakland slapped out four singles in five trips. Bob Glaze, the loser, gave way to James in the 5th frame. The scores:

Beall Will Seek Federal Funds For Local Airport

City To Protest Line's Petition

Federal funds will be sought by Rep. J. Glenn Beall to make the Cumberland Municipal Airport more useful for commercial airline traffic.

Rep. Beall said he will contact the Civil Aeronautics Authority and other federal sources to learn whether money can be found to improve the local field.

He will join local authorities in protesting the petition of All American Airways, Inc., to drop its Cumberland flights from its Pittsburgh to Washington-Baltimore run.

Rep. Beall said he has always felt the traffic on All-American at Cumberland would have been greater, and more beneficial, if the schedule had been adapted to local needs.

To be most effective here, he said, the Washington bound plane would have to leave in the early morning, preferably between 8 and 9 a. m.

News that the line sought to eliminate Cumberland from its schedule brought sharp protests from Adolf Blunk, chairman of the Cumberland Airport Commission, who said the city will take steps to have the flights continued.

Blunk said the board will seek a conference with company officials to learn minimum needs for the continuation of local service.

He also asked W. Earle Cobey, city attorney, to file a formal complaint with the CAB against the temporary abandonment of service.

Cobey is slated to advise the Mayor and Council today of the anticipated action of the airline, including the request from the Airport Commission for a formal protest.

Lloyd Long, Park Street, is also awaiting action of the October Grand Jury on a charge of larceny in the same case.

Housing Project To Get Underway In Near Future

Contractor Due In City Today

Construction of a public housing project in Mapleside is slated to get underway in the near future.

Officials of the O. H. Martin Company, Pittsburgh, have received orders to proceed with the work, and will be here today to make final plans for beginning the project.

James B. Raines, executive secretary of the Housing Authority of Cumberland, said a ground breaking ceremony will be held when actual construction begins.

Proceed orders, effective as of today, have been received from the Public Housing Administration for the beginning of the 125 units of low rent housing.

The contract won by the Martin firm calls for work to be completed within 300 calendar days from today.

The Pittsburgh firm submitted a low bid of $1,380,000 for the Mapleside housing development, which will include 17 buildings containing 125 dwelling units.

The cost of the project will amount to $1,780 a room. Bids received on other projects in cities of comparable size to Cumberland average about $2,000 a room.

The site of the project is located in the general area bordered by First Street, Memorial Avenue, Somerville Avenue and Second Street.

Today's Sermonette

By REV. GORDON R. HALL

Today's sermonette is a digest of the sermon preached yesterday at Elliott Memorial Methodist Church by the pastor, Rev. Gordon H. Hall. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

Second Coming... Christs!

Behold, The Lord Cometh.

This majestic fragment of a long-lost book, like some surviving torso, gives us a conception of what must have been the perfection of the whole world. It shows the character of Enoch's piety, who is described as, "walking with God," and is commended as having "pleased God," by his faith.

It was not the substantial piety of the deist, who worships God merely as the Author of Nature, but it has faith in the God of revelation, who had revealed Himself to Adam as the Holy One and the Just, who was revealing Himself to Enoch in his capacity as prophet, and who would reveal Himself again and again in fulfillment of his word.

The God of the deist never comes. The God of the Bible has come and is ever coming.

It is significant that this most ancient recorded prophecy should begin with that which the last Old Testament prophet ends the ancient literature or Israel, and with which the prophet of Patmos also closes the New Testament.

"Behold the Lord Cometh," says Enoch. "The Lord whom ye seek shall suddenly come," says Malachi. Christ's name in the Apocalypse is still the Coming One. He says in the end of that book of mystery, "Surely I come quickly," and the Church answers, "Even so, come Lord Jesus."

Christ's Advent is the chief burden of the prophetic message. Reference to a few leading passages will illustrate this fact.

In Deuteronomy, 32:2, Moses speaks of God's revelation of Himself to Israel in the wilderness. In Psalms 40:7, 8, Christ, Himself speaks of his Advent. In Psalms 96:12,13, David predicts the Advent. In Isiah, 59:20, the Prophet predicts the appearing of the Redeemer.

Since, then, the coming of God means in Scripture, God's revelation of Himself, there have been as many comings as occasions of revelation. The divers manner of action, speech, and influence, whereby God manifested Himself of old, were all so many comings.

He came to destroy the cities of the Plain. He came to Mount Siani. He came to deliver Israel from Egypt. He came to His temple. He came whenever an inspired prophet prophesied.

But as all revelation culminates in Christ the Mediator, the appearing of Christ is called the Coming.

And as there has been one appearing of Christ which is the object of our Faithful and loving remembrance, and there is to be another which is the object of our hopeful anticipation, so we speak of the First and Second Advents of our Lord. These two Advents are the two chief moments in the history of the World, and give character to all our revealed religion.

The Scriptures speak not only of coming of God to men, but of men coming to God. It is the merciful intention of the one to bring about the other. All our religion takes its character from Divine revelation. If God reveals Himself to us as our righteous Lord, loving Father, and self-sacrificing Redeemer, it is ours to yield to Him in faith, gratitude and service.

Placed as we are between two Advents, looking back on one and forward on the other, we should come in obedience to the invitation of the first, and the invitation of the second shall be ours also.

Plans For Bus Strike Abandoned

Officials of Local 1110, Bus Drivers Union (AFL), reported last night that plans for a strike today on the Cumberland Transit Lines have been called off.

They said the plans were dropped after the firm fulfilled a contract clause regarding a safe driving bonus.

The 55 workers met Saturday morning and voted not to work today if the contract clause was not fulfilled.

Visitors Begin To Arrive For Fairgo Meet

Races Will Start Tuesday Afternoon

Visitors were already thronging to this city yesterday for the 27th annual racing meet which will get under way at Fairgo tomorrow.

Post time Tuesday at 2:30 p. m. will not only mark the opening of the Fairgo meet but also the beginning of the half-mile track season in Maryland.

Track officials report all preparations for the opening have been completed.

City officials have been rushing temporary paving jobs on a number of streets in Cumberland so that traffic lanes will be able to handle the heavy traffic expected during the racing season.

The track regarded as one of the cleanest half-mile tracks in the state, has been placed in top condition by crews directed by Edgar Reynolds.

W. Riggs Mahoney will again be mutuels manager. His father, Mortimer M. Mahoney, Sr. was the first mutuels manager here.

Mahoney, who operates the mutuels at Monmouth track in New Jersey, the Revere dog racing track and the Detroit Racing Association, has as his assistant here William Fisher, of Laurel, veteran of east coast horse racing.

The key men of the mutuels to be here for the ten-day Fairgo race meet include many veterans of this track. Among them are J. Austin White, Charles "Chuck" Schlosser and Edmund Fladung, all of Baltimore; Robert Littleton, who will go from here to be mutuels manager at Hagerstown race meet; Robert Hancock, comptometer operator, and William Ennis, one of Mahoney's top men.

Pfc. Beale Reports To MacDill AF Base

Pfc. Richard R. Beale, son of Mr. and Mrs. V. L. Beale, 428 Beall Street, has reported to MacDill Air Force Base, Fla., for duty.

Private Beale enlisted in the Air Force last year for a four year period. He went to Lackland AFB, Texas to take his basic training, and attend a mechanics school prior to reporting to MacDill. Private Beale is a graduate of Allegany High School, and earned his high school letters in football and track. Beale is assigned to the 306th Maintenance Squadron as a mechanic.

Early Showdown Slated In Phone Contract Talks

Company Explains Wage Proposals

An early showdown in the contract dispute between the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company and the CWA-CIO was predicted here last night by a union official.

Robert O. Slemmer, president of Local 2105, CWA-CIO, said the time has come for either a satisfactory settlement or more definite action by the membership.

Slemmer reported talks were still deadlocked.

The union, he said, has received strike authorization from the international union and Local 2105 has authorized a strike at any time by a better than 14-1 margin.

Principal demand of the union, he said, is a 10 per cent wage boost on all schedules, rounded off to the nearest 50 cents, plus several contract changes.

Won't Accept Less

Slemmer said the company offer has still not come up to settlements made in other Bell systems through the United States and the negotiating committee does not feel it could accept less than is being offered elsewhere.

Another stumbling block, he added, is that the company refuses to give a seniority clause equal to that granted by other C. and P. companies.

The union, he noted, recently gave up the issue of maintaining the present spread of wage-zone differentials in an effort to reach a settlement.

Explains Proposals

The company reported yesterday it saw no justification for a strike of plant employes in the Washington suburban area Friday since it came at a time when the union had before it a liberalized wage proposal.

W. Griffin Morrel, company vice president, said:

"Under this expanded offer, the general increases proposed for approximately 2,800 plant employes ranged from $3.00 to $10.00 per week. The offer provided for 70 per cent of all department employes to receive

Flood Work Closes Streets

Beginning today, city officials said, Frederick Street will be closed from North Centre Street to the alley beside the Stein Funeral Home. Traffic from George Street can by-pass through the alley by Stein's to Centre Street by way of Henry Street, however.

Water Street at Lehigh Street will be closed to traffic for the next two weeks, but local traffic may pass on each side of the intersection.

Greene Street is now open to two-way traffic, but Beall Street at Walnut Alley will be closed for the next ten days. Paca Street at Walnut Alley will be closed this morning until July 31. Paca Street will also be closed between South Smallwood and Johnson Streets until the high pressure water line can be tested.

Area Stressed As Rehabilitation Parley Starts

State Conference Held At College

The limelight was scheduled to be focused on Western Maryland this morning at the opening business session of the five-day Maryland Rehabilitation Conference and Workshop, being held for the second successive year at Frostburg State Teachers College.

Tops In State

Reason for special attention for this part of the state is that R. C. Thompson, director of the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation of the State Department of Education, will present a citation to the Western Maryland District, one of five within his division. The district embraces Allegany, Garrett, Washington and Frederick Counties.

The citation, the first annual award of its type, will be presented to the Western Maryland District for having the largest number of rehabilitations per counselor in the fiscal year which ended June 30.

Last night the conference got underway with an informal dinner in the college dining room. Thompson presided at this dinner, at which two officials of the college extended greetings to delegates.

Greetings came from Miss Lillian C. Compton, college president, and Dr. Ivan C. Diehl, college dean. Both expressed a hope that the conference will prove successful and offered full facilities of the college.

Delaney Chairman

J. Leo Delaney, dirctor of vocational rehabilitation for Allegany and Garrett Counties, is local chairman of arrangements for the conference.

One of the authorities at the week-long conference which ends Friday will be Edgar B. Porter of the Office of Vocational Rehabilitation in Washington, who is acting as a consultant for the sessions.

The vocational rehabilitation program, under the direction of the State Board of Education, is set up to enable the physically or mentally handicapped person to be trained so that they might be gainfully employed and become self-supporting. Assisting the state group are other state agencies such

K. Of C. Council Told To Abide By Principles

Dinner Concludes Golden Jubilee

A challenge to Cumberland Council No. 586, Knights of Columbus, to live up to the principles of the order as well as to the American principles as exemplified in the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution came last night at the dinner which climaxed the all-day golden jubilee observance of the local council.

Issues Challenge

The challenge came from William H. Collins, Washington, D. C., principal speaker last night at a dinner at the K. of C. Home in observance of the jubilee. A native of Massachusetts, but an attorney in Washington since 1919, Collins is past master of the Fourth Degree of the District of Columbia. In 1949 he was awarded the Vercelli Medal by the National Holy Name Society, which embraces the United States and Canada. He was the sixth man to win the coveted prize.

"The Ravages of Secularism" was the topic of Collins' speech. He lamented the growing tendency in this country to disclaim the principles of the Divine in daily activities of mankind.

Then he harkened back to the Revolutionary period with the high principles emphasized in the Declaration of Independence, now 175 years old. He traced the tendency toward secularism that has followed until today fewer than half of the American citizens are church goers.

Alley To Communism

"This drifting to secularism is the alley that inevitably leads to atheistic Communism." he added. "Unless the American people return to the fundamental Christian principles there is grave danger that our land will follow the same path to destruction that other countries have taken."

The all-day jubilee began with members of the council attending the 8:30 mass at St. Patrick's Catholic Church. Joseph M. Foley, past state deputy of New York, spoke at a Communion breakfast afterwards in the parish social center. Exemplication of major degrees began at noon at SS. Peter and Paul Hall and the dinner concluded the activities.

LOVES WATER — Mrs. Marcus A. Naughton, 9 Boone Street, embraces her nine-year-old son, Bobby as they swim in Constitution Park Pool. Bobby, who was born with a brain injury hampering his control of muscles, went swimming for the first time on his birthday last week. His mother says, "He loves the water." Mrs. Naughton plans to take him to the pool every day. Bobby cannot walk or talk, but through the daily attention and help of Mrs. Naughton and the help of the League for Crippled Children, he is getting along fine. Many of the children from Boone Street, who have made Bobby their favorite friend, went to the pool with him. Bobby and his friends have "lots of fun" playing in the water. In the past week, Bobby has made more friends at the pool.

The rewards of faith, patience, courage and love are clearly shown in the progress of eleven-year-old Bobby Naughton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Naughton, 9 Boone Street.

Bobby was born with a brain injury which has hampered his control of muscles, but with the daily attention of his mother, the help of the Allegany County League for Crippled Children, teachers and an unshakable faith, Bobby is getting along fine.

The youth must wear braces on his legs and cannot walk or talk. Mrs. Naughton gives Bobby his routine of exercises every day using the parallel bars, standing table and crutches. The mother's constant attention and love have produced great results, and his doctors believe he is showing much progress. The parents say they have good prospects for Bobby and know he will be better as time goes on. Although Bobby cannot talk, Mr. and Mrs. Naughton understand his every expression and gesture.

The League for Crippled Children has assigned a speech teacher for Bobby. The League also sends two physical therapists to the home from time to time. The Board of Education provides a teacher who goes to Bobby's home twice a week. Mrs. Naughton says people have been wonderful.

Horseshoe, Box Hockey Finals Slated Friday

All Playgrounds Enter Contestants

The annual Box Hockey and Horseshoe Tournaments of the Cumberland Recreation Association will be held Friday afternoon.

Edmund F. Hoey, city recreation director, said both events will get under way at 1 p. m. at North End Playground.

Competition will be held in five classes, boys 16 to 18; boys 13 through 15, girls 13 through 15, boys 9 through 12 and girls 9 through 12.

Preliminary contests will be held this week at each of the city's 15 playgrounds, and winners in each class will compete in the city-wide event Friday.

In box hockey, Hoey said, play will be two out of three games up to the semi-finals and finals, when three out of five games will be used to select winners.

In horseshoe pitching, all games will be singles with 21 point games all through the competition.

The tournaments will be run simultaneously due to the number of contestants.

Bronze medals will be awarded to winners in each class.

A point system will be used for scoring toward playground banners, with 10 points for first place, five for second, three for third and one point for fourth place in each tournament.

Hoey said box hockey, a new game on the playgrounds this year, has proved very popular.

Boxes for the box hockey games were made here during the winter.

The first of the master playground events, the talent night, will be held today at 7:30 p. m. in the amphitheater at Constitution Park. The contest was postponed from Friday because of rain.

Weather

Yesterday was warm and clear most of the day until clouds appeared in late afternoon. The air was humid and uncomfortable, but some relief was brought by a slight breeze in early afternoon. Local pools reported a fair crowd of swimmers. Constitution Park reported the high temperature as 88 degrees, the low as 65, and at 8:05 p. m., the thermometer was marked at 79. Humidity was recorded as 83 per cent. The weatherman says, "Warm and humid for today with possible thundershowers."

5 Persons Hurt In Accidents Over Weekend

Five persons were admitted to Memorial Hospital as a result of accidents occurring over the weekend.

Mrs. Mary Mongold, 78, Wiley Ford, was hurt in an auto accident at Wiley Ford, W. Va., shortly before midnight Friday. She was a passenger in an auto operated by Byron Mongold, 58, Wiley Ford. Authorities said the rear of Mongold's car was struck by an automobile driven by James Eugene Barkley, also of Wiley Ford, near the post office in Wiley Ford.

According to hospital attendants, Mrs. Mongold was examined for chest injuries and was still being held for observation yesterday evening.

Another accident occurring near Romney Saturday morning, resulted in the injury of Mrs. Olive McMillen, 38, of 2828 Broadway, Pittsburgh.

The accident happened six miles east of Romney, W. Va. on Route 50. Sgt. L. W. Kelley, of the West Virginia State Police at Romney, reported that the truck driven by Wilbur Virgil Shanholtz, Augusta, W. Va., pulled into the path of the westbound sedan operated by Milton A. McMillen, of Pittsburgh.

The McMillen auto rolled over several times, Sgt. Kelley said. Mrs. McMillen, riding with her husband in the front seat, was hurt and taken to Memorial Hospital.

Two of their children, Mary Alice, 11, and Ralph, 5, were in the back seat. The daughter suffered lacerations and bruises, while the son escaped injury.

McMillen was treated by a physisian in Romney for a lacerated left arm and was being examined for possible back and pelvis injuries.

Mrs. McMillen was reported improving from abrasions and contusions yesterday evening by hospital attendants.

Joseph Simmons, 13, of Ruuddle, W. Va., son of Mr. and Mrs. Lon Simmons, was admitted to Memorial Hospital after suffering a possible fractured skull when struck by a rock thrown by one of his brothers.

Hospital attendants said that he was improving yesterday evening.

Man Will Face Questioning In Father's Death

B. And O. Trackman Is Drowning Victim

A Rawlings man will be questioned by the State's Attorney's office today regarding the drowning of his father who, State Police said, was either pushed or fell from the boat in which they were riding in the Potomac River near their home Saturday.

The man, Benjamin Harrison Gordon, Jr., about 23, is being held in the County Jail pending the completion of an investigation into the tragedy.

The body of his father, Benjamin H. Gordon, Sr., 61, was recovered from the Potomac River about 10 p. m. Saturday night.

State Police said Gordon, a B. and O. track worker, was either pushed or fell from a boat in which his son was also riding about one mile south of Rawlings about noon Saturday.

Gordon was reported missing about 4:30 p. m. Saturday by his son, according to Trooper William F. Baker, criminal investigator at LaBale barracks of the Maryland State Police.

Young Gordon, Trooper Baker said, reported that he and his father left their home in Rawlings about 10 a. m. to go groundhog hunting.

The son was carrying a .22 caliber rifle and the father a shotgun, Trooper Baker said.

Young Gordon, he said, informed him that at noon, after both of them had been drinking, they went out on the river in a row boat.

Rescue Unsuccessful

He told police the boat upset and that he tried unsuccessfully to save his father. Young Gordon went to Rawlings at 4:30 p. m. and reported his father's drowning.

Trooper Baker, aided by Roy Minke, Christie Road, dragged the river until dark and later continued the work under lights furnished by the Cresaptown Volunteer Fire Company.

Frederic "Buck" Dreyer and his river rescue squad joined the search and recovered the body about 10 p. m.

Trooper Baker said Gordon's hat was found washed ashore near the spot where the son said his father went down. The boat was found about 600 yards down the river.

The trooper said the rifle and some shells were in the boat but the shotgun had not been found.

Death was attributed to drowning.

A native of Rawlings, Mr. Gordon was a son of the late Ulysses G. and Bessie Crabtree Gordon.

He was a member of Rawlings Methodist Church and the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employes.

Surviving are his widow, the former Marian Lease; three sons, Arlie M., Benjamin H., Jr. and Ernest G. Gordon and one daughter, Annie Marie, all at home; five brothers, James, Rawlings; Robert, RFD 3, Keyser, W. Va.; Wilbert and Jacob, Rawlings, and Philip, Danville, and three sisters, Mrs. Renix Hamilton and Mrs. James Bobo, both of McCoole, and Mrs. Cora Dawson, Rawlings.

The body is at George Funeral Home.

Today Marks Sixth Anniversary Of First Atomic Bomb Test In U. S.

Just six years ago today, the United States tested its first atomic bomb on the New Mexico desert near Los Alamos.

It was quite a blast.

The steel tower from which it was dropped was vaporized and men standing as much as five miles away were knocked down by the force of the explosion.

Heat from the detonation, which scientists estimate reached about 50,000,000 degrees, was felt 100 miles away.

A few weeks later, the new weapon got its first practical test when, on August 6, 1945, at 8:15 a. m. the Enola Gay, a B-29, dropped an atom bomb on the city of Hiroshima, Japan.

Some 90,000 of the city's 320,000 inhabitants were killed by the blast.

Five days later, a second and more effective bomb was dropped upon Nagasaki, killing or wounding 43,000 persons to the square mile.

Bomb Is Tested

Tests at Bikini, which gave the name to a famous bathing suit which would offer little protection during an atomic blast, gave further proof of the worth of the bomb as a military weapon.

Test Able, on July 1, 1946, demonstrated the power of the bomb dropped from the air as was done at Hiroshima and Nagasaki and Test Baker, on July 25, indicated the terrific destruction which could be wrought from a shallow underwater explosion.

The history of the atom bomb in America began on January 26, 1939, when American physicists learned of European experiments showing that one of the uranium isotopes underwent fission, with the release of nuclear energy, when bombarded with slow neutrons.

Einstein Assists

Much of the credit for the bomb goes to one of the nation's most famous amateur fiddlers.

He is Albert Einstein, through whose initiative this country began intensive research on the bomb and whose discoveries on relativity made the bomb theoretically possible.

It was after Einstein wrote to President Roosevelt in 1939, stating that a controlled chain reaction of atomic fission was feasible . . . and that the Germans were working on an atom bomb, that scientists got the go-ahead on atomic research and construction.

Three years of scientific teamwork resulted on December 2, 1942, in the first self maintaining nuclear chain reaction in a uranium-graphite pile at Stagg Field, Chicago.

Not too well known is the fact that a woman, Dr. Lise Meitner, a German refugee, was one of the scientists who gave us the Atomic bomb.
